Wilson Claims Use Of 'Phony' Misunderstood

Backs Down After Adams Confers At Ike's Bedside

WASHINGTON, June 23 (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson today backed away from any charge that senatorial moves to increase U. S. Air Force funds are "phony". The White House denied it pressured Wilson into action.

"Wilson's use of the word "phony" Thursday in a news conference at Quantico, Va., had set off a storm in the Senate. Member after member denounced him. Some Democrats called for his ouster. Sen. Bridges (R-NH) said Wilson was guilty of "an unwarranted slur."

Today Wilson told reporters at Quantico he had either been misunderstood or "partly" misquoted. He remarked to the reporters: "I don't blame you men too much. I blame myself."

Presidential secretary James C. Hagerty was asked whether any White House aides had spoken to Wilson urging him to modify his Thursday remarks.

"No," Hagerty replied. He declined to say anything more than that the matter had been discussed by the President this morning with White House aides at Walter Reed Hospital.

The morning conference brought Sherman Adams, the assistant to the President, and other White House officials to Eisenhower's suite.

Among the topics:

1. The big senatorial storm over Wilson.

2. Wilson's order to 11,000 military officers on desk jobs around Washington to change from uniforms to civilian garb starting July 1.

Within a few hours Wilson took these steps:

1. Announced he never meant to insult senators.

2. Withdrew his order for civilian

Top Russian Air Chiefs Greet Gen. Twining Upon Arrival For Soviet Tour

MOSCOW, June 23 (AP)—Relaxed and smiling, Gen. Nathan F. Twining dropped in on Russia's air leaders today to "look and listen"—and to learn about Soviet air power.

MOSCOW, June 23 (AP)—Relaxed The U. S. Air Force chief of staff invited to Moscow along with top American scientist-generals was warmly greeted on his arrival by Russia's deputy defense minister, Ivan S. Konev, and by Twining's counterpart in the Russian air force, Chief Air Marshal Paval Zhigarev.

Konev is commander in chief of the Warsaw Pact, the Communist answer to NATO.

The Americans will attend Russia's annual air show in observance of Aviation Day, Sunday, and will follow them with a week of touring Soviet air installations, the first such visis the Russian government has yet allowed.

"I am very happy to be here, and also honored that our President, Mr. Eisenhower, would let us represent him here to see your air show," Twining told his Russian hosts. "My group will look and listen, and we will benefit a great deal from this visit."

"We will have to report to our superiors and the President and through them to the people at home," Twining added.

Asked by reporters if his interest was primarily political, Twining replied that he was not in the political business.

"Our principal interest is to meet and talk with Soviet air force leaders," Twining said. "The purpose of this trip is to show our air force what the Soviet air force is doing in the way of developing new equipment."

The Americans arrived in hot sunshine with temperatures in the 90s. "A fine day, fine weather," Twining said to Konev.

A Russian interpreted his remarks and Konev replied in Russian "Washington weather."

President Okays Convention Plans; Mum On Decision

WASHINGTON, June 23 (AP) — President Eisenhower expressed "personal pleasure" today over Republican National Convention plans, which were drawn up by GOP leaders on the assumption he will run again.

The word that Eisenhower was pleased with the selection of convention officers and other arrangements came from press secretary James C. Hagerty who said, however, that Eisenhower shed no light at all on his political plans.

Plans for the convention, including the selection of Gov. Arthur B. Langlie of Washington to be the keynote speaker, were settled on yesterday by the Republican arrangements subcommittee of the party's National Committee.

Committee Chairman Leonard Hall, while saying he had no direct word from the recuperating President, told reporters covering the proceedings that he had "not the faintest" doubt that Eisenhower will run again.

"You can paste the names of Eisenhower and Nixon in your hats," Hall said.

The afternoon medical bulletin from Walter Reed Hospital, where the President underwent his intestial operation two weeks ago, said:

"The President this morning inquired of his physicians as to when he would be discharged from the hospital.

"His physicians informed him that if his recovery continues as it has to date he would be able to leave the hospital in about a week."

A few hours after the operation, Maj. Gen. Leonard Heaton, who performed the surgery, estimated the President could leave in about 15 days—which would be up this weekend.

Earlier this week, however, the President's personal physician, Maj. Gen. Howard M. Snyder, said it would be the middle of next week at least.

Mixup Looms Over July 31 Demo Primary

Martin Requests Ruling On Latest Vote Law Changes

BATON ROUGE, June 23 (AP) — Secretary of State Wade O. Martin Jr. warned today a bill passed by the Legislature may "prevent some of the state's . . . precincts from having voting facilities" in the July 31 Democratic primary.

The measure would take control of voting machines in Louisiana away from the secretary of state and vest it in a nine-member voting machine board, with Martin a member. It awaits Gov. Earl Long's signature.

In a letter to Atty. Gen. Jack Gremillion, Martin asked if the bill, certified as emergency legislation, would take effect immediately with the governor's signature and asked a series of questions as to what effect this would have on the primary.

On July 31, Louisiana chooses a senator, eight representatives and a number of state and local officials.

Martin has bitterly opposed the bill, pushed by the governor in a two-bill package to strip the secretary of state of his power.

The second bill, setting up a state insurance department independent of the secretary of state, awaits final House action. It already passed the Senate.

"Every effort is being put forth by me and my staff to provide voting facilities for all voters at this election," Martin said, "but the nearness of the election and the uncertainty of authority, resulting from the passage of House bill 603 prompts me to ask you for a legal opinion that would minimize further chaos . . ."

He continued, "there are 46 mechanics or deputy custodians throughout the state, in addition to my office personnel, who do not know what their status is, and until you answer some of the questions propounded herein there is little I can tell them except that the bill was passed as emergency legislation.

Legislation normally takes effect 20 days after the end of the session, July 12. This would be after the election. Emergency legislation becomes law with the governor's signature.

Martin proposes the following questions to the attorney general:

1. Will House bill 603 become effective when the governor signs the bill.

2. It was certified emergency, "so I ask in the alternative"

A. If he signs the bill within 10 days after it reaches his desk, when will my functions in connection with elections change?

B. If he does not sign the bill, letting it become law after 10 days, when will my functions in connection with elections change?

3. When the bill becomes effective, what will be my functions in connection with elections?

4. If this bill goes into effect before the new voting machine board meets and appoints a custodian with authority to appoint

Edgecombe Plans To Appeal Ouster From State Police

LAKE CHARLES, La., June 23 (AP) —Maj. Aaron Edgecombe said today his attorneys "very definitely" will appeal his dismissal from the state police.

Edgecombe said he believed 13 allegations received in a letter of dismissal did not justify his dismissal. He did not specify the charges, but officials said earlier they ranged from improper conduct to lowering morale and conduct among state troopers.

He has already contacted civil service authorities, Edgecombe said, and has until July 21 to appeal.

Edgecombe was a top aid to former Supt. Francis Grevemberg. He was stationed here when suspended June 12. Col. Tom Burbank, assistant to Supt. John Nick Brown, said in Baton Rouge Edgecombe was notified of his dismissal effective yesterday.

Legislature To Resume Controversial Debates At Baton Rouge Tonight

BATON ROUGE, June 23 (AP)—Gov. Earl Long, fussing and feuding with lawmakers and state officials, today rested up for another scrap with the Louisiana Legislature.

The House three times rejected his tax raises last week. One comes up for a last chance at passage next week. Two others await a House vote.

Long, younger borther of the late Sen. Huey P. Long, has set the Legislature in an uproar, recalling the tactics of the late Kingfish.

In committee sessions, the governor has had bitter, name-calling encounters with Mayor deLesseps Morrison of New Orleans, Secretary of State Wade O. Martin Jr. and District Attorney Leander Perez, political boss of Plaquemines Parish.

The fiery, 61-year-old prowled the House floor, heckling speakers, buttonholing House members to lobby for his bills until representatives demanded he be made to sit down.

Legislative veterans say he even went further than Huey Long, who often dictated to committees and told legislators how to vote, but never butted in on floor speeches.

In a tense, riotous session Wednesday, with Long barking orders to his leaders and shouting insults at foes, the governor flaunted House rules to bring up a tax bill for a third vote after it had failed twice. Veteran observers said this never had been done before.

Long followers contended their voting machines hadn't worked properly on the first vote, and on a voice roll call overturned the House speaker when he ruled them out of order. This took only 51 votes in the 101-member House.

But the bill—a 2½ per cent hike in the 13 per cent racetrack betting which primarily affected the New Orleans Fairgrounds—failed the third time too, missing the two thirds margin by one vote.

Under a constitutional amendment approved in the April general election—which Long is out to kill in the November general election—all tax raises must win two thirds approval of both houses. 1½ cent per 1,000 cubic feet boost in the gas gathering tax dedicated to a teacher pay raise, failed on its first try for two thirds approval. Long sent it back to the calendar Thursday in the face of a second defeat.

Long also is pushing bills boosting the sulphur and timber severance taxes, which await House action.

Senator Asks U. S. Action To Prevent Steel Walkout

NEW YORK (UP)—June 23 A senator urged federal government action today to head off a theartened strike by 650,00 steelworkers next Saturday.

Sen. George H. Bender, Ohio Republican, asked the administration to take "all possible steps" to ward off a steel walkout which could jolt the entire national economy. Bender's home state would be one of those hardest hit by a prolonged strike.

Gibbs Reports To His Constituents Here Last Night

Ouachita Parish Rep. Lawrence Gibbs, the target of a recall movement here during the past week, gave a "report to the people" last night in a city-wide radio and television hookup.

Avoiding mention of the recall petition now being circulated against him, Gibbs declared that he has acted in the legislature "only after thoughtful consideration" for the best interest of Ouuachita parish and the state.

Gibbs retraced his five weeks in the legislature in the five-minute television-radio broadcast.

The junior Ouachita parish legislator pointed out to the school teachers and others interested in education that he voted for house bill 119 which approved salary increases. He was indefinite on companion bill 1522 (the gas tax bill) which comes up for consideration again Monday.

Gibbs said "I want to assure the teachers, the bus drivers, the school cafeteria employees and all others connected with our schools that I will give equal consideration to this bill when I cast my vote." He voted against the gas tax measure last week when it was defeated by a narrow margin.

Administration forces of Gov. Long, backer of the gas tax bill, had the measure returned to the calender for action Monday.

Much of the criticism levelled at Gibbs during the recall movement has been his voting record which has placed him in the camp with the pro-Long wing of the legislature.

Meanwhile, yesterday the Gibbs recall petition was reported to have been signed by over 1500 persons. The petition is now at West's used car lot on Louisville.

Signatures of 7,000 Ouachita parish voters would be necessary to press a recall on Gibbs.

Bobbie Pappas, of the Rendezvous, said yesterday that he wished not to be identified with the originators of the anti-Gibbs petition. The document was at his restaurant two days last week.

Long Rules Out Special Sessions 'If Avoidable'

BATON ROUGE, June 23 (AP)—Gov. Earl Long, ready to ask a final legislative decision to drop the 3-day fiscal sessions, said today he won't call special sessions if he can possibly avoid them.

"I hope a special session of the Legislature won't be necessary during my four years as governor," Long said.

"The only time a governor can really think and plan is when the Legislature is not in session."

Long called five special sessions during his 1948-52 regime, compared with two by former Gov. Robert Kennon during 1955-56.

The House has Long's Senate-passed constitutional amendment which would abandon the fiscal sessions held every odd year. The House is ready to act any time the administration wants.

But the governor indicated there is no hurry about calling up the bill for a final legislative choice, because of the pressure of tax bills and other issues.

The first fiscal Legislature, brainchild of Sen. Robert A. Ainsworth Jr., Kennon's floor leader, was held in 1955 with approval of the public. To kill it would require another vote of the people in November.

The final session was drafted to ease the burden of legislative financial matters, but critics, including Long, complained it defeated its own purpose by overspending.

The 1955 Legislature, under Kennon, spent more than 58 million dollars.

Students of the legislative process, in Louisiana and elsewhere, stress that the more a Legislature meets, the more it will spend.

Budget officer J. Harvey Rester, for instance, said he was for the principle of a fiscal or budget ses-

No Trace Found Of 'Mad' Killer In Ohio Manhunt

WARREN, Ohio, June 23—UP—A posse of volunteers and peace officer beat through a wild area north of here Saturday in search for "mad killer" Alfred Wilson, 37, but the search leader said he thought the fugitive might already be dead.

Wilson, who slew three women in a rage when his common-law wife left him, had vowed that he would not be taken alive.

"We have no evidence that he is here or that he is not here," Portage County Sheriff Robert Stockdale said at the scene of the manhunt.

Wilson's victims were two of his wife's sisters, killed in their homes as Wilson sought his wife, and a 16-year old girl, a stranger.

Southern Bell To Take Issue Into Courts

Appeal For Hikes In Rates Rejected Along With Order

BATON ROUGE, June 23 (AP)—The Louisiana Public Service Commission today rejected the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company's request for a rate increase and ordered the company to cut its present rates some four million dollars a year.

Southern Bell had sought an annual rate increase of $6,581,000.

The commission, in a statement released by its secretary Clayton W. Coleman, said its order with written findings in the case will be issued in a few days.

In New Orleans, W. K. Boardman Jr., vice president and general manager for Southern Bell in Louisiana, said in a prepared statement that the commission's order "in the face of a clear and urgent need for an improvement in our Louisiana earnings . . . shows a shocking disregard of the facts.

"The order, if allowed to stand, would force a severe cutback in our presently planned 97 million dollar construction program for 1956-57, and would seriously affect telephone progress in communities throughout Louisiana."

Boardman said the company had "no recourse except to appeal to the courts immediately. This we intend to do."

The commission said its decision followed the unanimous recommendation of its special counsel, Theo Cangelosi, its entire local staff and the experts and consultants hired by the commission and the city of New Orleans.

"This decision terminates investigations and hearings extending over the past 18 months in which 2,247 pages of testimony and many exhibits of a highly technical character have been introduced and considered," the commission's statement said.

The commission said its ruling was the first since World War II on any Bell System company in the United States which resulted in a rate decrease.

Talmadge Opposed

Thompson Enters Senate Race For Sen. George's Post

ATLANTA, June 23 —UP—Melvin E. Thompson, whose feud with former Gov. Herman Talmadge goes back to the publicized two-governor crisis in 1947, took on his old antagonist Saturday in the contest for retiring Sen. Walter F. George's seat. Talmadge promptly stirred up a racial issue.

"The NAACP has a perfect right to sponsor any candidate it so desires," Talmadge snapped when informed that Thompson had filed his $500 fee at the last moment to oppose him in the Sept. 12 Democratic primary. That is the decisive election in Georgia.

In making the noon qualifying deadline, Thompson said "nothing but a strong sense of duty to the people of the state and serious apprehension of the future of our people would have induced me at this time to have entered this campaign."

Thompson, who served as acting governor by state Supreme Court decree after Talmadge took over the executive office in a bold coup in 1947, has repeatedly deplored the possibility that Talmade might win George's job by default. Talmadge announced his own candidacy last month.

He accused his rival Saturday of being the "lackey boy" of the "big money crowd" and said that Talmadge had put a burden on Georgians by taxing "everything from salt and pepper, shoes, hats and clothes to the automobile for which they must pay high prices and even to the casket in which they are laid away when they pass on."

He referred to the all-inclusive Georgia sales tax enacted and broadened during Talmadge's tenure as governor. Thompson promised to give the "full sordid story" of Talmadge's administration later.

Thus were the first thrusts rammed home for what promises to be a broiling summer campaign between two bitter enemies. One other, lightly regarded candidate is in the race. He is tombstone salesman D. Talmadge Bowers.

U. S. Scientist Confirms Discovery Of Man-Like Bones 10 Million Years Old

ROME, June 23 (AP)—An American scientist confirmed today that bones found in the soft coal of a long-abandoned central Italian mine have been identified definitely as a 10-million-year-old preman. He's called oreopithecus.

The find may help paleontologists chart more accurately the evolution of man.

By contrast with the 10-million-year-old oreopithecus, the earliest known ancient men are mere newcomers. The Java and Peking men go back no more than 300,000 years. Australopithecus, the so-called "southern ape" found in South Africa, dates back half a million to a million years.

"We struck pay dirt a week and a half ago in the recently reopened lignite mine at Baccinello," said Dr. Helmutt de Terra of Columbia University, New York, who is heading the search for fossils of the pre-man.

He said finds, almost daily since then, had provided 30 to 40 pieces of coal filled with the yellow bone fossils.

The bones already identified include ribs, fragments of vertebra and either a part of a jawbone or the entire jawbone.

Dr. De Terra said the part jutting out of the coal chunk was a chin with broken teeth showing.

"It is definitely oreopithecus," he said. He described the creature as "somewhere between the size of a chimpanzee and a gorilla" and said it was "the most human-old fossil of that antiquity."

Fossils found in the first 10 days have been taken to Switzerland by Dr. Johannes Herzeler, of the Basel Museum of Natural History.

At Basel, experts will remove the bones from the lignite in which they are embedded.

Dr. De Terra said the scientists have every reason to hope that many more bones will be found, perhaps enough to assemble a complete skeleton.

A complete skeleton of oreopithecus was found at the old Baccinello mine in 1869, almost a century ago. That was the first and only such skeleton ever found. Miners did not know what it was. Only the skull was sent to Florence. The rest was lost. In a Florence museum, the skull disintegrated to dust. Science was left

Local Club Sells Markers To Aid Needy Children

The Exchange Club of Monroe announced yesterday that it will begin the sale Monday of yard markers with house numbers and turn the money into charity channels to assist youths of West Monroe and Monroe.

The markers, sellig for $2 each, are aluminum, with numerals lettered in luminous material for better night reading. All the money collected through this means, the club said, will be devoted to helping underprivileged children in the two cities.

Each year the club sponsors a boy and a girl in the Pelican State government. The club annually holds the "sunshine special"—last year it took a large group of underprivileged youth to Chemin-A-Haut park for a full day's outing as a treat.

In addition to these, the club sponsors the "Monroe Model Maniacs," a model airplane club for local youths.

Anyone interested in purchasing one of the house markers may call 3-5312 or write J. H. Williams at 3120 Louisville avenue, Monroe, a club spokesman said.

3 Men Arrested, Held For Burglary Of Bastrop Store

BASTROP, June 23 (Specal)—The Morehouse sheriff's office reported today that three Mississippi men are being held in the parish jail for investigation of a burglary occurring at a liquor store here about a month ago.

Officials refused to release names of the suspects, pending completion of an investigation. No formal charges had been made today.

When the men were apprehended by deputies Friday night, the officers discovered "about 15 empty whiskey cases and all kinds of burglary tools" in their car, which carried a Mississippi license.

Reported missing in the Bastrop store burglary were "seven or eight cases of whiskey," authorities said.

Britain To Offer 'New Terms' For Peace In Cyprus

NICOSIA, Cyprus, June 23 (AP)—Britain is preparing "generous" new proposals to Greek Cypriots to settle their demands for self-government and may ask the United States to help sell the plan to the Turks, an informed source said today.

This indication of the direction Britain is taking in moves toward a showdown in the 14-month-old rebellion by Greek Cypriots who want a union with Greece came as Sir John Harding, the British governor, returned from nearly three weeks of consultation in London.

He was reported to have discussed the new proposals while in London.

The informed source said Britain was approaching the problem "generously, from the Greek point of view" but the Turkish minority on the island was a stumbling block to a solution because of its resistance to the idea of a Greek majority in a Cypriot Parliament.

Therefore, he said, "Britain may ask the United States to help sell the plan to the Turks, for there is a delicate question in balance. Both Greece and Turkey are members of NATO. Obviously Britain does not want to alienate a NATO ally and she could conceivably if she tried to force her point. Thus Britain may ask the United States to act as a sort of middleman in convincing the Turks that their interests will not be neglected."

Of Cyprus' population, about 400,000 are Greeks and 100,000 Turkish. The island, only 40 miles from the coast of Turkey, was Turkish from 1571 until 1878 when it was signed over to British administration.

The Turkish minority is demanding that any new constitution giving the island self-government include educational and religious guarantees for its Moslem people. The Turkish government also wants guarantees that Cyprus will not become an eventual military threat to its security.

Observers do not doubt that if the constitution guaranteed the Greeks a permanent majority in the island Parliament it would mean eventual union with Greece.

Negotiations between Harding and Archbishop Makarios, the Greek Orthodox religious and civilian leader of Enosis—union-with Greece movement—collapsed last March on this point and over Makarios' refusal to condemn the violent campaign of bombing and assassination by EOKA, the strong-arm branch of Enosis. Makarios was deported to the Seychelles Islands in the Indian Ocean.

Cerebral Palsy Teacher Goes To Summer School

Mrs. Jane Arnold, teacher at the Cerebral Palsy school at Selman field, is attending Louisiana State university for the summer session. She is presently working on her master of arts degree in education.

In August, Mrs. Arnold plans to attend the University of Mississippi for a two-week institute on the handicapped child. This institute will be under the direction of Dr. Meyer A. Perlstein and Dr. A.V. Bice, who are outstanding in the field of cerebral palsy.

While Mrs. Arnold is away at school, her class is being taught by Mrs. Nelda Pierce, of the Shady Grove school faculty.

Kenneth E. Griswold, administrator of the school, stated that leading educators in the field of special education believe that school classes should be as continuous as possible to prevent regression which normally occurs when learning processes are interrupted.

When Mrs. Arnold returns to the school, she will teach a new class being established for cerebral palsied children in the primary grades.

Crossett C. Of C. Supports Proposal To Get Home Rule

CROSSETT, June 23 (Special—The campaign to put the Home Rule proposal in the general election ballot in November was formally endorsed by the Crossett Chamber of Commerce board of directors at a meeting held this week.

Jack Meadows, head of the Chamber's civic affairs committee said that a drive would now be launched to secure local signatures for the petitions.

"We hope to secure over 800 names," Meadows said, "and are contacting each of the Crossett civic clubs for support."

The deadline for securing signatures is July 6, he said and petitions which qualified voters can sign have been placed in the Bank of Crossett, the Chamber of Commerce office and the News Observer.

Adoption of Home Rule by a city of community would remove much of the administration of that community's affairs from state control and put it in the hands of the local people.

CORRECTION

The News-Star reported in Friday's edition that Lannie Dortch, now serving a term in Angola for armed robbery, previously served a term in the state penitentiary after being convicted for bank robbery. Actually, Dortch was previously convicted as an accessory before and after the fact in a bank robbery. Dortch returned to Angola Friday after a 10-day leave from prison to be with his aged and ill mother in Caldwell parish. He did not come to Monroe, according to a member of his family.

Post Offices Are Adopting '13-Period Year'

Woodrow W. Hathorn, Monroe postmaster, Saturday released the following statement:

Postmaster General Summerfield announced today that, effective June 30, the entire post office department will operate under a "13 - period year" for internal accounting and management purposes. This is another important step in applying business management techniques to the affairs of the Postal Service. Although many private businesses have long enjoyed the benefits of uniform 28-day accounting periods, the Post Office is the first Department of Government to adopt this practice.

On December 3, 1955, the post office department changed its method of salary and wage payments from semi-monthly to bi-weekly periods as required by public law 68, approved June 10, 1955. With more than 500,000 employees on the payroll, the adoption of accounting periods each consisting of two biweekly pay periods, will materially simplify the accounting work and provide for more accurate interim reports for management purposes. In addition, each accounting period will have the same number of weekdays, Saturdays, and Sundays, which will materially facilitate comparisons of progress from period to period.

The bureau of the budget and the treasury department have approved the adoption of the new procedure by the Post Office Department for use in internal reporting. For external reporting and annual budget purposes the department will continue to observe the traditional government fiscal year ending June 30.

The change will not in any way affect relations with the public, and box rents and other transactions related to calendar months and calendar quarters will remain unchanged. It will affect postmasters and the other employees only insofar as the timing of certain reports heretofore rendered on the basis of calendar periods.

Packaged Lumber Offered By Terzia

Terzia Lumber Co., established in 1919 and the oldest lumber yard in Northeast Louisiana, has introduced a new idea in retailing lumber. It is pre-packaged lumber of all types in all sizes ready to be hydraulically loaded on any type of truck.

Fensky C. Terzia, president of the firm, in making the announcement said that only first quality kiln dried lumber is being pre-packaged. He said incoming lumber is now being unloaded under supervision of a qualified grader and is packaged as it is unloaded.

Mrs. Dorstch, Seriously Ill, Is Improving

Mrs. Ida Dortsch of ward five, Caldwell parish, who have been seriously ill of a heart ailment, is somewhat improved following a visit by her son, Lannie Dortsch, another son, S. C. Dortsch of Caldwell parish, said Saturday.

Mrs. Dortsch, who is 77 years old, has been troubled with the heart ailment for some time, her son said.

A 10-day furlough was granted by Gov. Earl K. Long to Lannie Dortsch, who is serving a 15-year sentence in the state penitentiary at Angola, to enable Dortsch to visit his mother, Dortsch returned Friday to the prison.

Dortsch was committed to the prison last December after being convicted in connection with a poker game robbery. His brother stated that Dortsch had previously been convicted as an accessory before and after the fact in connection with the robbery of the Grayson bank in Caldwell parish. The robbery in connection with which Dortsch was convicted was at the Grayson bank and not at a Columbia bank, as previously stated, S. C. Dortsch said. In the bank case, Dortsch received a sentence of three and one-half years, his brother stated.

Long And His Cohorts Stab The Teachers In The Back

Just how good friends do Louisiana teachers have in Governor Earl K. Long and his legislative puppet majority?

Teachers throughout Louisiana are asking themselves this question today, after the Governor pulled the strings in the House Friday to defeat a proposed $16 million appropriation for teachers' salary increases.

The vote on this huge proposed item in the $347 million spending bill, the biggest in Louisiana history, was along partisan lines.

On Governor Long's orders, his yes-men in the House cast 54 votes against the teachers' salary raise. The proponents of this increase for our educators mustered 34 votes.

How can Governor Long and his legislative puppets, posing, and strutting as friends of education and champions of the teachers, justify this shocking refusal to grant immediately, through the general appropriation bill, more than half of the funds needed to pay the teachers' salary increase measure enacted by the Legislature and signed by the chief executive?

According to PAR, a private non-political research council staffed by experts in fiscal affairs, the money to pay this $16 million should be available without any new taxes—that and millions of additional surplus revenue besides.

In this instance the teachers perhaps recall the adage that a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush.

Yet under the bludgeoning pressure of the Governor, brutally applied with a whiplash, his House majority of sycophant solons turned down a $16 million appropriation that would have been immediately available to implement more than half-way the new teachers' salary increase Act.

With bull-headed stubborness, this State Administration adheres to its ruthless and cruel course of making the teachers a group of tax gathers, and forcing them to garner their proposed salary increases from one field alone—not the vast structure of taxation, but a confiscatory raid against a single industry, the finding and production and processing of natural gas.

This ruthless measure, rammed through a Long-dominated House Committee in a half-hour hearing, has been denounced from one end of Louisiana to the other, and throughout the nation, with good cause.

It and companion bills sponsored by the Governor and his legislative underlings threaten industrial ruin to this state. The threat is immediate, since the natural resource industries of Louisiana, already heavily taxed, and the vast chemical industries that have been moving into our commonwealth, must operate under competitive conditions.

The gas gathering tax raid, the sulphur tax grab, the utterly ruinous and confiscatory proposal to tax the tree farmer and the lumberman out of business—not to mention numerous other levies that strike at the heart of Louisiana economy—spell ruin to this state and its people if enacted.

These are stark realities, and the people should face them; and no blandishments by Governor Long can change them. A political and economic crisis is at hand. Louisiana people face the alternatives of a bright future, with jobs and employment and constantly increasing development of their vast natural resources—or stagnation and ruin, under a reversion to the horse and buggy days of political dictatorship.

The Governor's vast taxing program—violating his solemn promises during his campaign—the taxing raids being staged by his legislative cohorts—the heartless and obvious moves intended to make the teachers his tax-gatherers—frighten the people.

Just what was behind the Governor's decree, passed down to his eager underlings in the House—supposedly a co-equal and proud independent branch of government elected to represent the people of every district and carry out their wishes—that caused him and them to vote down the $16 million teachers' salary increase appropriation?

Apparently, a desperate desire to make the teachers the tax gatherers and force them to apply greater pressure on behalf of the gas gathering tax gouge, once voted down and now pending on reconsideration in the House.

The Louisiana Senate has not acted on the general appropriation bill; and there is ample time for the Senate to reinstate the $16 million teachers' salary increase, from general funds available.

Governor Long himself has admitted that portions of the proposed gas gathering tax bill probably are unconstitutional. In legal quarters over the State, the question is being raised whether any portion of this measure is constitutional; and the entire issue might be fought through the courts of the land for months and years, even if this measure were enacted into law.

In the meantime, with ample money apparently available, Governor Long and his legislative majority in the House have struck a cruel blow at the teachers—denying them a $16 million salary increase appropriation.

Freedom Is An Absolute

Dan Thornton, former governor of Colorado, had some wise words to say to the Oregon Cattlemen's Association. He urged these producers to reject government subsidies. And he made his big point with a simple question: "Do we wish to remain a free enterprise nation or accept socialism?"

There is no real middle ground between those two extremes. "A little bit of socialism" inexorably grows, like live yeast, until we have a whole lot of socialism. Then the individual becomes a robot, responding to the strings pulled by the bosses—who are the politicians and the bureaucrats.

Groups of people may turn to government to help with some temporary problem. But, after the problem has been solved or has changed, government is still right there with its controls and its regulations and its rulebooks.

Moreover, government aid is always subject to the unpredictable winds of political expediency—as vast numbers of farmers must have learned by now. So far, according to all the evidence, a majority of livestock producers have been adamantly opposed to looking to government for solutions to their problems. They deserve all credit for that—and they will deserve still greater credit if they steadfastly maintain that position.

Livestock prices, like all prices, rise at one time and fall another. But freedom is an absolute that can't be subjected to variation.

In A Sentence

Governor Elmo Smith of Oregon, in discussing a proposed tax program, covered a problem of national scope in this single sentence: "Too many people think, in the back of their minds, that a tax is something someone else should pay, and a service is something they should receive."

Individuals and groups and organizations of every kind are trying to pay as little in taxes as possible—and, at the same time, trying to get as much special privilege from government as possible.

So long as that attitude prevails we will have wasteful, exorbitantly expensive government—along with a dangerous degree of political domination of our lives.

Another 'Disgust'

West Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

Hurray! for Mr. F. M. Arouet's "League of Disgusted Citizens". I predict a large membership for it. So many things for the intelligent voter to be disgusted about both State and National. For instance: the repeal of the "Right to Work" law. (And this is supposed to be a free country). The voters of Ouachita will note that both Sparks and Faulk voted "no" and Gibbs voted "yes" for the repeal of this bill.

The proposed increase in taxes of industries (possibly a law already) is another "disgust". Soak the rich and give it to the poor. Where did we hear that before? What effect will these taxes have on present and future industries in the State? What effect on the present and future of labor in the State?

Long is quoted in Monday's paper, "I'm in the timber business myself". Sure, every farmer who sells a jag of paperwood or a few saw logs can say, and I suppose truthfully, that he is in the "timber business" but I wonder how many loggers Long employs, if any; how many log trucks he keeps on the road. He also is quoted, "I promise etc". Surely he did not "promise" with a straight face.

Although there is much to make a person disgusted in the State and National politics there is also something to applaud. The recent city election in Monroe. Also the cut-back on the foreign aid bill in Congress. Representative Passman and Senator Ellender are to be commended for their stand on this. Neither individuals nor nations appreciate what is given to them as a handout. They should earn it.

By the way, have you read the interesting biography of Earl Long's brother in the magazine "Saga", issue of July 1956. Better read it: "Lest we forget".

I enjoy your editorials very much.

ARTHUR D. READ

Voting Machine Bill

Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

In a story carried in the Monroe News-Star of June 21, 1956 entitled "Many Are Signing Gibbs Recall Plea", you quote a Mr. Paul Ransom who claims to be a farmer to the effect that Lawrence Gibbs voted for taking the voting machines out of the smaller precincts. This is a malicious lie and the records will show the same. Mr. Gibbs made a talk against this bill on the floor of the house and went on record against it. The bill never came up for a vote with the voting machines provisions in it. Your paper carriage this story. A bill did come up placing the voting machines in the hands of a board and Mr. Gibbs did vote for this bill.

You will notice that all the candidates for Governor always have the incumbent Secretary of State on their ticket or do not offer a candidate against him. Why? Because he is the chief election officer of the state.

The facts are this Mr. Paul Ransom did not support Lawrence Gibbs and his only complaint is that he voted to repeal the "Right to Work" Law.

Humanitarian Efforts

West Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

We wish to thank the News-Star—World, and in a special way Mrs. Herron and Mr. Brinsmade, for their humanitarian efforts in the recent critical illness and death of our little boy, Randy. Also, we express appreciation to Sheriff Bailey Grant for the plane to fly Randy to Houston, Texas for further medical aid in a specialized clinic for the disease he was stricken with.

Then there were others who went all out to help us in the hour of crisis. The Ridge Avenue Baptist Church of West Monroe and pastor, Rev. A. T. Mitchell and a special committee of the church, composed of Mrs. Harry Carpenter and Mrs. C. E. Teddlie (we were not members of this church), but out of a spirit of goodness they did what they could.

The fine spirit of the school girls sponsored by their sorority organization which led the Mayors of Monroe and West Monroe to proclaim "Randy Week" and to all who made contributions to the "Randy Fund" out of the depths of our hearts we love and appreciate you. Your kindness and goodness makes us feel very humble.

We have tried to be worthy of the kindness and goodness of the wonderful people who helped us in an hour of tragic trial in our lives. We tried to cooperate all the way with the doctors using new medical science in efforts to find a remedy for this most malignant kind of disease.

Out of this most tragic thing that came our way we experienced the finest and best in people. Also, we received a new respect and greater faith in prayers, churches and christianity.

MR. and MRS. O. B. WINFREY.

Taxpayer Assistance

New Orleans, La.

Editor, Morning World:

With your splendid cooperation we completed another successful taxpayer assistance program April 15 with the closing of the 1955 filing period. Your assistance in publicizing the taxpayer assistance program made it possible for us to divert to more productive work a tremendous number of manhours heretofore spent in preparing individual returns, resulting in savings to the government and the taxpayers. Particularly helpful was the publicity you gave on informing taxpayers where they could go for assistance, the type of assistance they could get as well as the questions and answers and other information furnished you by both the Revenue Service and the local CPA societies.

As a result of this additional productive work time saved out of the taxpayer assistance program last year, we collected $5,564,000 more in delinquent taxes than in the previous year. We also led the entire nation in the number of delinquent accounts collected per collection officer. Increased audit examinations last year resulted in $3,000,000 more in tax deficiencies than the previous year. We have a good start on these programs this year and expect to equal last year's record.

Our refunding program is now almost complete. We have refunded $32,309,000 to 417,542 taxpayers, with approximately 21,000 refunds representing $2,500,000 yet to go. You may also be interested to know that mathematical verification of tax returns for all of last year resulted in the collection of over $1,000,000 through errors made in favor of the taxpayer, and the refunding of $326,000 to taxpayers who had overpaid their taxes by making errors in favor of the government. Although the program is just starting for this year, we have to date collected $386,000 throug.. mathematical verification and refunded $89,000 to taxpayers who erroneously overpaid their taxes.

Since our accounting is on a fiscal year basis ending June 30 of this year, I am unable to say at this time just how much money will be collected in federal taxes. To date we have collected $507,717,575 which is about $38,000,000 more than the same period last year. However, this does not mean that we will collect $38,000,000 more in taxes for we are just a fittle ahead of last year in processing payments made. Our total collection last fiscal year amounted to $548,352,182.43.

Although the above figures may seem to indicate a higher rate of taxation, there has been no rate increase. The additional amounts may be attributed to increased audit coverage of returns, collection of more delinquent taxes and better compliance with tax laws.

Again let me thank you for your wonderful assistance in publicizing our tax program and other tax information. We just couldn't make it without your help.

CHESTER A. USRY,
District Director, Internal Revenue Service.

Paul Harvey News

By Paul Harvey

Benzedrine Or Reserpine?

Does our economy need a stimulant, a tranquilizing drug, or is no medication called for?

One year ago the economists were recommending Reserpine. They said people were going too deeply in debt.

The Fulbright Committee heard witness after witness testify that the prosperity was precarious because too much of it was "on the cuff."

So the Administration tightened the purse strings, made borrowing more difficult.

They applied the brakes.

People who had been building houses and buying cars with nothing down suddenly discovered they couldn't do that any more.

So fewer houses were built and fewer cars were sold which was precisely what the government had intended.

Now, however, just as we get the gravy train running at a safer speed . . .

Slowed down just a fraction from last year . . .

But still running faster than ever theretofore . . .

Some of those same economists who urged caution a year ago are urging us to relax the credit restraint, make borrowing easier again, sound the horn, full speed ahead . . .

At least past the next election.

In the midst of all the alternate prescriptions for Benzedrine or Reserpine let us pause long enough to get our perspective back in proper focus.

Let us count our present blessings.

This year, 1956, more Americans are employed than in 1955!

Department store sales are running 3 per cent ahead of last year!

Aggregate personal income of Americans is up 18 billion dollars over last year!

The first quarter of this year we Americans saved three billion dollars more than last year!

We have been counting new houses and new cars when we should have been watching the blood pressure of the entire economy.

And even cars and houses still may approach last year's phenomenal pace.

The United States Chamber of Commerce predicts that 1956 will be our country's most prosperous year ever.

A study of prospects for fifteen industries is the basis for that prediction.

And neither major strikes nor a "political shock" nor anything else is going to reverse that result.

Though 1955 was such an all-time record - smashing year that we should not expect to keep topping ourselves without any pause for consolidation of our gains, present indications are that we will do it again in 1956.

Borrowing is less.

We are using our increased income this year to pay off accumulated personal debt.

And our increased savings promises a substantial business upturn in this year's final quarter.

Our American economy is expanding irresistably upward.

A SOBERING THOUGHT

Congressional Quarterly

Democrats Pose Challenge To Republicans In East

WASHINGTON — Republicans still hold the upper hand in the industrial East, but they face a serious challenge from Democrats in the approaching campaign.

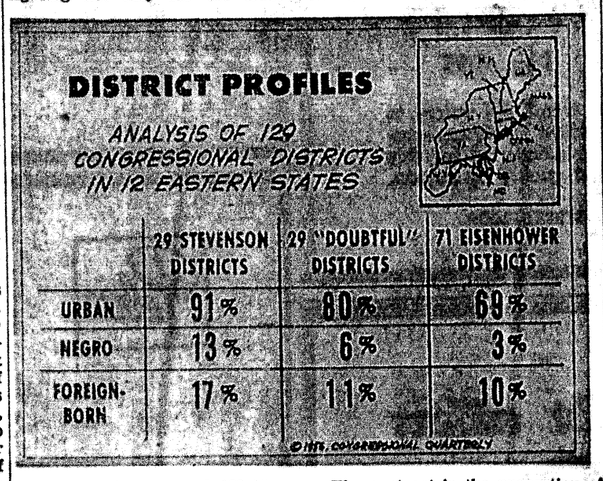
In 1952 President Eisenhower swept the six New England states, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware and Maryland. Only West Virginia, of the 12 eastern states, went to Stevenson. At the same time, Republican Representatives were elected in 80 of the East's 129 Congressional districts.

But in 1953 the wind began to shift. Democrats proceeded to oust Republicans as governors, first in New Jersey, then in 1954 in Maine, Connecticut, New York and Pennsylvania. Also in 1954, Democrats captured nine more House seats, making the current line-up read: GOP 71; Democrats 58.

This year, the parties will be fighting not only for the East's Adlai E. Stevenson carried 29 districts by similar margins. The remaining 29 districts were carried by less than 55 percent of the vote — 21 by Eisenhower, eight by Stevenson.

On the average, the 29 pro-Stevenson districts gave Mr. Eisenhower only 38 percent of the vote. All but four of the 29 were in cities — 14 in New York, four in Philadelphia, two each in Boston and Pittsburgh. Negroes averaged 13.4 percent of the population of these 29 districts, while the foreign-born white population averaged 17.3 percent.

By contrast, the 71 pro-Eisenhower districts gave the GOP candidate 63 percent of their vote. These districts averaged 61 percent urban, which is close to the national average. Negroes averaged only 2.8 percent, and the foreign-born 10.3 percent, of the population in these districts. Averages for the 29 marginal districts fell between these two groups.



153 electoral votes and 129 House seats. Seven Senate seats are at stake, six held by Republicans.

The GOP is concentrating on ousting the lone eastern Democrat whose term expires — Sen. Herbert. H. Lehman of New York. But Democrats are believed to have a better - than - average chance of knocking off Sens. John Marshall Butler (Md.) and James H. Duff (Pa.).

Republicans are counting on President Eisenhower's wide popularity to bolster the party's position in the close Senate races as well as the contests for 23 House seats GOP candidates won in 1954 by less than 55 percent of the vote. By contrast, only a dozen of the Democratic-held districts in the East are similarly classed as "marginal," and seven of these were won from Republicans in 1954.

The extent of Democratic strength in the large cities of the East — New York, Philadelphia, Boston, Baltimore, Pittsburgh — is underscored by Congressional Quarterly's study of the 129 eastern districts, part of CQ's continuing analysis based on the 1950 census.

President Eisenhower got 55 percent or more of the vote in 71 of these districts, while Democrat

The contrast in the proportion of foreign-born is even more marked in a breakdown of New York State's 43 districts. President Eisenhower carried eight of the 22 New York City districts and all 21 upstate districts, but averaged only 33 percent of the vote in the 14 city districts carried by Stevenson.

In the latter group of districts, the foreign-born averaged 24 percent of the population, compared with 10 percent in the 21 upstate district. But in the eight city districts also carried by Eisenhower, the foreign-born averaged only 2 precent.

Republicans are making strong efforts to attract minority groups in the cities, but they have a long way to go. In 1954 GOP Congressional candidates averaged only 27 percent of the vote in New York City's 14 strongly Democratic districts. In the six city districts which elected Republicans to the House, five of the winners got less than 52 percent of the vote.

Democrats are hopeful of further gains in the East this year, especially in certain New England and Pennsylvania districts suffering from chronic unemployment. However, this expectation may bommerang if the Democratic-controlled 84th Congress adjourns before acting on President Eisenhower's request for $50 million for giving a hand to the so-called "depressed area."

Lights Over Broadway

By Walter Winchell

"My Fair Lady" derives its title from "London Bridge Is Falling Down," a song chanted in a children's playground game, each of its line verses ending with the line, "My fair lady." The Alan Jay Lerner - Frederick Loewe adaptation of Bernard Shaw's "Pygmalion" was called "My Fair Liza" when first announced by Herman Levin . . . . . Other titles considered and rejected were "Lady Liza," "The Talk of London," "Come to the Ball" and "Fanfaroon" . . . Shaw named his comedy for Pygmalion, a mythical king of Cyprus, skilled with the chisel . . . From a slab of marble he hewed a statue of Galatea, neighborhood nymph, and became so fascinated with his handiwork that he begged Aphrodite to animate it that he might marry it, or her. Aphrodite, an easy-going Goddess, obliged, and Lerner, Loewe and Levin will be forevor grateful.

Shaw wasn't the first dramatist to appropriate this Greek plot . . . As early as 1871 W. S. Gilbert (not yet fused with Mr. S.) wrote a comedy called "Pygmalion and Galatea," which prospered at the Haymarket in London for 194 performances and enriched the librettist to the tune of $200,000 . . . Both Mrs. Langtry ("The Jersey Lily") and Louisville's Mary Anderson toured America in Gilbert's comedy in the '80s. Miss Anderson was a prude. Gilbert once said to her: "I hear that you hate gross things so much you can hardly be induced to take your share of the gross."

In a letter to Ellen Terry (59 years ago) Shaw said he hoped to write a play for Mrs. Pat Campbell and Forbes Robertson in which "he will be a West End gentleman and she an East End dona in an apron with three orange and red ostrich feathers." In this letter Shaw called Mrs. Campbell "that rapscallionably flower girl." Shaw didn't finish the play until 1912 . . . After he read it to Mrs. Campbell she sent him a note: "Thanks for letting me hear the play and for thinking I can be your pretty slut."

In his stage directions for "Pygmalion" Shaw wrote that Eliza Doolittle,the cockney flower girl, "is perhaps eighteen, perhaps twenty, hardly older." But Mrs. Campbell, — by this time she addressed Shaw as Joey — was 49 when she played the role in the original London production. Lynn Fontanne was 39 when she played Eliza and Gertrude Lawrence 47 . . . Julie Andrews, the Eliza of "My Fair Lady," fits Shaw's requirements to a T. She's a radiant 20.

"Pygmalion" was played in German in Vienna, Berlin and New York before London and New York saw Mrs. Pat in the play in 1914 . . .Its first showing in Manhattan was at the Deutsches Theatre (Irving Place) in March 1914. . . . 'Pygmalion" was Shaw's first commercial success in London's West End. The audience at His Majesty's Theatre gasped when Mrs. Pat spit out the phrase, "not bloody likely." This was the first time the gory adjectives had been heard in a London theatre.

Gabriel Pascal, a glib Hungarian promoter, produced the film versions of "Major Barbara," "Pygmalion," "Caesar and Cleopatra" and "Androcles and the Lion". . . Shaw was fascinated by Pascal's nerve, his nonchalance in adversity. . . As early as 1948 Pascal had an option on the musical rights to "Pygmalion" and tried to get Rodgers and Hammerstein to adapt it. . . In 1952 Pascal got a four-year extension of his option Shaw died in 1950. . . In August that year he met Lerner and Loewe in California, where he was filming "Androcles and the Lion," and persuaded them to undertake adaptation . . . The authors of "Brigadoon" and "Paint Your Wagon" worked on the transition for three months, then abandoned it because the problems presented seemed insurmountable. . . While Lerner and Loewe were in the throes of collaboration, Pascal treed Lawrence Langner of the Theatre Guild and proposed that they produce the musical together.

Dramatic Rescue Scenes Staged At Camp Ki-Ro-Li

By MRS. E. HOLLADAY
Staff Writer

A scout staggered from the woods at Camp Ki-Ro-Li Thursday afternoon and made his way to the health lodge, screaming for Dr. Trousclair on the way. He collapsed as he reached the building.

Scouts nearby rushed to his aid and sought to stop the bleeding from a gushing wound on his upper left leg. One scout applied pressure while another made a tourniquet out of clothing and still a third covered the boy with a shirt.

Glen Cobb, staff member and program director at the camp, rushed over to see what caused the excitement. At the sight of the vast amount of blood, he "fainted dead away." Other Scouts hurried to elevate his feet and give him first aid.

The injured boy was Sammy Carrier and the blood did gush in spurts from a most realistic wound. However, the gash was made from a mixture of flour and food coloring held in place by adhesive plaster and the blood was controlled from a tiny tube that was taped to the boy's leg and concealed by his scout shorts.

This performance was all a part of the realistic training program that the boys are undergoing at Camp Kiroli.

This particular problem was worked out by Dr. Bonnie Trousclair, camp doctor, who is an interne from L.S.U. Medical School.

In camp this week were the scouts from Central District, which included Monroe, West Monroe and Lake Providence.

There are three tent areas and Troop 1 from West Monroe, sponsored by the West Monroe Lions, occupied Skunk Hollow.

Troop 34, the First Methodist Church group from Monroe, and Troop 28, from the Presbyterian Church in Monroe, were billeted in the Applachie tent area.

There are two large troop cabins which will sleep sixteen boys each. The scouts from Troop 25, Lake Providence, and Troop 231, St. Paul's Methodist Church in Monroe, were there this week.

Troop 1, the oldest troop in the Ouachita Valley Council, sponsored by the Knights of Columbus of Monroe, occupied the two small remaining cabins that house eight scouts each.

The cook house is occupied by Mrs. Ben Green, who has been a most popular staff member for a number of years. Her assistants, Betarice Baker and Frozene Dupree, are also quartered in a small building.

There are separate buildings for the senior and junior staff, a commissary and trading post which is managed by Charles Snyder of Bastrop. The shed that houses the drink dispensing machines was the most popular spot at camp Thursday, both for scouts and visitors.

"Pop" Floyd Farrington and his wife occupy the caretakers cottage the year round.

From Reville at 6:3 a.m. until they are in bed at night, the scouts have a full program of activities.

They clean up their tent area before breakfast which is at 7:15. All meals are served family style and in generous proportions, for, said Mrs. Green, "At times I am sure some of the scouts consume five times as much food as an average adult would, and we want them to have plenty."

Thursday morning breakfast consisted of bacon, grits, butter, apple sauce, toast and milk.

Mealtime is a pleasant and noisy time in the old dining hall which was packed to capacity this week.

The time passed quickly as the scouts went from one planned activity to another. They were given a free time in which they chose what they wish to do.

For lunch Thursday the boys consumed large quantities of red beans with meat sauce, rice, coleslaw, bread, butter, chocolate pudding and fruit punch. It was announced the that Troop 10 and Troop 1 had tied for cleanest camp area at inspection. This was cause for celebration.

After lunch, the staff held a planning meeting. "I don't know when the staff rests, I see their lights on even late at night," Herb McCoggins, camp director, said.

He and one group of scouts were wearing a good size bell on their moccasins, an indication that they had spent a night on the Ouachita river, making an outpost camp. It was reported that three of the waterfront staff members had just returned from a three day canoe trip. Explorer scouts are also building a suspension bridge to cross the swamp, the director said.

The next group of scouts to come for a week will be from Madison parish in the northern district.

The boys have a rest period between 1:00 and 2:00 p.m. Ronnie Plaisance, 11, of Monroe, who appeared to be taking advantage of it said, "I like rest period. We get tired."

Thursday afternoon each troop went to seven different areas to be scored on problems presented there. Four scouts and four explorer scouts would compete against each other on each problem and winners and awards were announced at the end of the day.

Bud Bonner, smallest scout in camp, when asked what he liked best about camping, said, "I like everything about it." He had just spotted his mother, Mrs. W. F. Bonner, Jr. and Pat, his 14 year old brother of Lake Providence among the visitors. "I don't know who else came," Bud added.

Thursday afternoon is visitors time and many could be seen wandering under the pine trees, waiting for the scouts to finish their contests. Many bring picnic lunches and stay for the evening campfire. "We don't have room to feed them in the dining hall," Mr. Pankey said.

In camp Thursday with Mr. Pankey was Capt. Newton E. Condray, liason officer between the Air Force and the Boy Scouts of America.

Mr. Pankey explained that the Air Force assigns one officer to each of the twelve regions in the United States. The Ouachita Valley Council is a member of region five, which comprises the states of Mississippi, Alabama and the northern tip of Florida.

The air force makes available to advance scouts, those who have passed the campfire stage, facilities for advance training, survival courses, meterology, navigation, electronics, information on aviation in general and provide local orientation flights.

Captain Condray works out of Memphis headquarters which is under the Continental Air Command.

The boys were more than ready for dinner Thursday night and enjoyed the chicken and dumplings, fresh lima beans, fruit salad, rolls, punch, ice cream and cake.

The highlight of the camper's week is the Order of the Arrow ceremony around the campfire on Thursday night.

The trail to the council ring was marked with twelve burning candles which highlighted the twelve parts of the scout law: trustworthy, loyal, helpful, friendly, courteous, kind, obedient, cheerful, thrifty, brave, clean and reverent.

The council ring formed a semicircle on the edge of the lake. The campers entered with arms folded in Indian fashion and went to their places without a sound.

In time to the drum beat, the Order of the Arrow members entered the council ring and stopped in the center. In costume, the medicine man called on the great spirits of the north, south, east and west. A ghost canoe came gliding across the lake with only a flaming torch inside. It pivoted and as it returned the way it came, the medicine man stepped to the edge of the lake, picked up the imaginary fire and returned to the center of the ring.

As he raised his empty hands above the waiting wood, it burst into flame and the council fire burned brightly. The members of the Order of the Arrow performed the deer dance, the sun dance and the flaming hoop dance. There was silence except for the drum beat as the Order of the Arrow left the ring.

"Doc" Trousclair led the ground in song. Jack Pankey welcomed visitors and introduced Ben Parnell council president, and Herb McCoggins introduced all troop leaders.

Again the Indians of the Order of the Arrow entered the circle to a solemn drum beat. The chief told the legend of Camp Kiroli and a huge flaming arrow appeared across the lake. He searched the ring of campers and tapped the following scouts for membership in the order: Ronnie Rushing, Troop 32, Monroe; Wayne Wasson and Russell Morrow, Troop 1, West Monroe; Freddie Heller, Tony Bead and Tommy Caldwell, Troop 1, Monroe; Joun Green and Joe Ross, Jr., Troop 34, Monroe; and James W. Walters, Troop 231, Monroe.

After singing "By The Blazing Council Fires Light", the campers left the ring as silently as they had entered.

Thirty minutes after the council fire was over, quiet begain to descend upon the camps.

Elmo Gentry of Winnsboro stood alone with his bugle on a silent field.

Taps. Quiet reigned.

With a full moon making picture patterns on the ground outside the tent and the keen odor of pine scenting the air, what better thing in all the world could a boy wish to be than a boy Scout at Camp Ki Ro Li?

Ellender Says Only 4 Projects' Funds Reduced

WASHINGTON, June 23—UP—Sen. Allen J. Ellender (D-La.) said today that only four Louisiana flood control and navigation projects were reduced by a Senate-House conference committee below totals approved by the Senate.

In each case, Ellender said, conference committees totals were "substantially" above the totals voted by the House in its version of the giant public works money bill. The compromise bill is expected to get final Senate and House approval next week.

Ellender was chairman of the Appropriations sub - committee which drafted the Senate version of the bill. He listed these projects as below the Senate totals:

Amite-Comite project near Baton Rouge which received $337,500 compared with $200,000 voted by the House and $475,000 by the Senate.

Overton - Red River Waterway, received $150,000 for a feasibility study compared with no money voted by the House and $300,000 by the Senate.

Red River bank stabilization, received $575,000; House voted $500,000; Senate, $650,000.

New Orleans tidewater channel, received $325,000; House, $300,000; Senate, $350,000.

PAR Critical Of Long's Reorganization Proposals

BATON ROUGE, June 23—UP—The Public Affairs Research Council said Saturday that legislation to revise various state boards and agencies represented "a piece-meal approach."

In many instances, PAR said in its weekly legislative bulletin, such legislation would extend further "the complexities, duplications and inconsistencies of the existing structure.

"These efforts to revise the present organization represent a piece-meal approach, as in the past, and re-emphasize the need for overall examination of the executive branch."

The proposed change in the hospitals department setup, PAR claimed, "violates" the "chief objective" of merging institutions with similar functions under a single board and department because two large hospitals would be excluded along with the state colony and training school.

Under the hospitals department proposal, separate advisory boards, to be appointed by the governor, would be created for two mental hospitals. These boards could appoint the administrator and assistant administrator of these hospitals. The governor also could create advisory boards for other hospitals and those boards could also name the administrators. "The proposal," PAR said, "would return the positions of hospital director and assistant director into the patronage realm."

The proposed organizational setup for the department of Institutions creates a new post of assistant department director. But it doesn't clarify the division of responsibility betweent he assistant director and the present position of warden in administrating the state prison. The change, added PAR, "could open the way for a purely patronage appointment of possible conflict in the administration of the institution."

Under the proposed changes, both mental and general charity hospitals would be grouped in the Department of Hospitals with the exception of the Confederate Memorial Hospital at Shreveport and the New Orleans Charity hospital.

Penal and correctional institutions would be grouped together in a Department of Institutions with the inclusion of the State Colony and Training School, an institution for the care of the feeble minded and epileptic.

Nasser Receives Heavy Vote For Egyptian Post

CAIRO, Egypt, June 23 (AP)—Unofficial reports from voting centers tonight indicated a huge majority had marked a little red circle for Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser in Egypt's "yes or no" election of a president.

Great numbers of the 5,720,000 registered voters, including women for the first time, voted throughout the nation today in Egypt's first election in seven years. At the same time they were asked to vote on a new constitution that will transform Egypt's government from a nine-man military council to a civilian system governed by laws.

Official results are not expected to be known until tomorrow.

Given voting rights for the first time, 150,000 women were registered, and a high proportion of them apparently cast ballots.

Egypt's most famous feminist, Dr. Doria Shafik, indignantly abstained, however, on the ground that the new constitution is not democratic and does not recognize the absolute equality of men and women.

Among women voting were the wives of Nasser and the eight other members of the Revolution Command Council which has wielded supreme power since the overthrow of King Farouk four years ago.

The voters were given two ballots, a white one for the presidential election and a yellow one for the plebiscite on the constitution. On the white one was a picture of Nasser and beneath it a black and a red circle. On the yellow ballot was a picture of the document representing the constitution and also black and red circles.

Because a big majority of the electorate is illiterate, election committees explained to voters they should fill in the red circle for "yes" or the black circle for "no"—there was no candidate for president running against Nasser, and the voters' choice was Nasser or nothing.

Final judging, and crowning of "Miss Louisiana, 1956" will be the highlights just before the official pageant ball commences at the Legion home. Time set for the ball is 10:45 p.m.

Soviets, Yemen Sign Friendship Pledge In Russia

MOSCOW, June 23 —UP— Russia and Yemen signed a joint communique pledging friendship and agreeing to an exchange of diplomatic representatives Saturday at the windup of a state visit by the crown prince of the tiny Arab state.

(In London, it was reported that Russia was dickering for a concession to search for uranium and oil in the secluded little kingdom dug like a nail into the Arabian boot-shaped peninsula.)

Ceremonies at the plush Sovietskaya hotel, where U. S. Air Force Chief of Staff Gen. Nathan F. Twining was being received Saturday night at a formal reception, concluded the two-week visit of Crown Prince Seif ul Islam el Badr. Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin and the crown prince signed the final document.

Communist party chief Nikita S. Khrushchev and a group of first deputy premiers, including George Malenkov, V. M. Molotov and Anastas Mikoyan, who doubles as minister of trade, attended the signing.

The Yemeni delegation then tendered a reception for the Kremlin leaders.

Nuclear Energy Expected To Be Slow In Replacing Gasoline In Automobiles

WASHINGTON, June 23 (AP) — Don't expect nuclear energy to take the place of gasoline for automobiles, at least not for many years.

That's the word from Kenneth Davis, director of reactor development of the Atomic Energy Commission.

"It is fairly clear that nuclear energy can do little to supplant other fuels in most areas during the next 15 or 20 years," he said.

"For example, nuclear energy cannot do much to supply the enormous demand for liquid fuels for automobiles, buses, trucks and airplanes, nor is it likely to be used directly for such purposes."

Davis spoke to the National Coal Assn., which is seeking to offset the inroads made by gas, oil and other fuels into fields once served almost exclusively by coal.

The coal organization is seeking new uses for coal. But oil imports remain one of its rargbts.

Its convention adopted a resolution urging government agencies to see that the level of residual oil imports is cut or at least held to the 1954 ratio formula. The resolution also asked that crude oil imports be reduced.

The resolution said the Office of Defense Mobilization has been partly successful in reducing residual oil imports but has been "unsuccessful" in curbing crude oil imports.

Another resolution urged Congress and the Federal Power Commission to "recognize that it is not consistent" with the public interest to authorize transportation or export of natural gas in any case in which it would result in economic dislocation, unemployment or injury to any "significant segment" of completing U. S. fuel industries.

The Independent Petroleum Assn. of America kept up its anti-import barrage. Russell Brown, general counsel, sent out a leter this week declaring that "responsibility for the solution of the oil import problem rests with Congress."

Terrorism Continues In Capital City Of Algeria

ALGIERS, June 23—UP—Gangs of Arab and European gunmen spread terror through the broad avenues and sprawling bazaars of cosmopolitan Algiers today, killing three persons and wounding nine in a series of raids.

All the deaths resulted directly or indirectly from native attacks, but a gang of young Europeans who shot up the Beb El Oued bazaar wounded two Arabs and caused considerable damage.

The day's action was indicative of the shift of violence in Algeria from the countryside to the cities as French troops wipe out the guerrilla bands which once ruled the hinterland.

The only military casualties reported were 15 guerrillas killed in scattered patrol clashes in eastern Algeria and five French troops wounded by a "Molotov cocktail" incendiary hurled from ambush in western Oran province.

The attacks were started early today, when Arab gunmen fanned out from the Casbah to raid the European quarter of downtown Algiers.

A European barkeeper and a native merchant were killed and six Europeans were wounded in four attacks by native gunmen, who scuttled to cover in the Casbah.

It was the second time in four days that sneak raids by native gunmen had sowed panic in the heart of this city of 500,000. Four persons were killed in similar attacks Wednesday.

Police mop-up squads promptly moved into the Casbah, but no arrests were announced immediately.

The European counterattack began at the funeral of Marcel Carbagnati, a young Italian who was shot dead by an Arab Friday. About 1,000 young mourners whipped out revolvers as soon as the services were over and started for the native quarter.

A flying wedge of angry Europeans scattered police and headed for the bazaar district on the fringes of the Casbah, singing France's "Marseillaise" anthem and firing in the air.

"Death to the Arabs!" they shouted. "Give us arms!"

Miscellany In The News

Funeral services for Walker will be held Monday in Mansfield. Survivors include three brothers and one sister.

with only a description of it.

"Now, for the first time," Dr. De Terra said, "geologists and paleontologists have seen the fossils taken from the actual site, and know exactly the strata they come from."

He said oreopithecus is found only in this upper Miocene or lower pliocene lignite, and only in Italy. Soft coal deposits of the same period exist in Illinois, Colorado and many other places, but no oreopithecus fossils have ever been found in them.

With the bones in the central Italian lignite fields are found fossil remains of mastodon, hares, small antelopes and mice. There are also fossil fragments of huge tree trunks and heavy vegetation indicating a subtropical climate.

Dr. De Terra said no evidence had been found yet to determine whether the manlike creature lived in the trees of the hot swamps, or descended from caves in the nearby mountains to hunt or gather fruit.

Legislature

most of the first six weeks, the lawmakers face a legislative log-jam of record size when they go back to work Sunday night. The 60-day session ends July 12.

With a record total of nearly 2,000 bills to consider, minor money bills totaling some 200 million dollars were just beginning to trickle out of the House Appropriations Committee. They were bottled up by the 347 million dollar general appropriations bill which passed the House Friday.

The Senate took Friday off, while the House worked overtime for the second week. Both Houses face overtime sessions next week.

Since taking office, May 15, Long has set a terrific pace.

By a two-thirds vote of the Legislature, he fired 14 board members and the chairman of the state tax commission who refused to resign. A host of others resigned at his request.

Then he touched off a feud with the Martins, long-time south Louisiana political powers. Wade Martin Sr., chairman of the state public service commission, was a close ally of Huey Long.

Earl Long entered two men against him, forcing the elder Martin to drop his bid for a fifth six-year term on the commission.

But his son blasted back as Long pushed legislation to strip the secretary of state of his duties as state insurance commissioner and custodian of voting machines.

Martin and Long shouted insults, wrestled over the microphone and almost came to blows Tuesday as a House committee approved a bill to set up a seperate state insurance department. The bill, already passed by the Senate, now awaits a House vote.

A few minutes later, Perez—target of a bitter attack Sunday night when Long addressed a joint session—shoved up to the microphone to call Long a "damn liar," when the governor mentioned his name.

And later that day, with Long gloating "the worst is yet to come with little Wade," the House voted final passage of a bill placing control of voting machines under a nine-man board, which includes the secretary of state.

Long's plan to call a constitutional convention next year was passed by the House and Senate Judiciary "B" Committee has set a hearing tomorrow on the bill.

If it passes the Senate, which most observers think is likely despite rural opposition, it would come up for a vote in the fall.

An administration bill to enlarge the State Public Service Commission from three to five members has been changed to eliminate the extension of terms of present members.

Commissioner John J. McKeithen, a Long political ally, had objected to having his term extended. The bill now awaits a House vote.

The governor is having an easier time with other portions of his program.

The reorganization of the state government to wipe out traces of former Gov. Robert Kennon's administration has proceeded smoothly and is almost complete.

The Legislature has passed and Long signed a bill recreating the supervisor of public funds, combined with the state auditor by Kennon.

Four constitutional amendments abolishing the Kennon businessman boards of public welfare, institutions and wildlife and fisheries have passed the Legislature and await a popular vote in the fall.

Long contended the overlapping terms took the power away from officials elected by the people.

To take their place, Long has pushed through legislation creating:

1. A nine - member Highway Board with the chairman a member of the Legislature and one full-time member from each of the eight congressional districts with terms concurrent with the governor.

Of the new Highway Board, the Public Affairs Research Council, an independent research group, commented it "would reduce considerably the responsibilities, functions and duties of the Board of Highways and at the same time place board members on a full-time salary basis.

The present board members receive only per diem while attending meetings. Members of the new monthly, "transportation equipment" and travel and other expenses.

2. A nine-member Board of Public Welfare similar to the old board except for terms running concurrent with the governor.

3. A 15 - member Institutions Board with jurisdiction over all correctional institutions and the State Colony and Training School, Pineville, with terms running concurrent with the governor.

These three proposals await Gov. Long's signature.

Awaiting final House passage is a bill creating a state hospital board with control of state hospitals and mental institutions which formerly were under the institutions board. Kennon combined the hospitals and institutions boards.

PAR insisted the hospital board also should govern the State Colony and Training School.

"The chief objective of the proposal—to merge similar functions under a single board and department—is violated by placing under the State Colony and Training School (a hospital for the mentally defective and epileptic) under the Department of Institutions with penal and correctional institutions instead of under the department of hospitals and by continuing the New Orleans and Shreveport charity hospitals under separate governing boards," Par said.

However, Long has obtained final passage of legislation reorganizing the governing boards of Shreveport Confederate Memorial Medical Center and New Orleans Charity Hospital knocking out staggered terms established by Kennon.

PAR complained the bill setting up the department of hospitals and hospital board would "return the positions of hospital director and assistant director back into the patronage realm. This would be contrary to the present trend whereby professional personnel, trained in administrative management, are being appointed to administer hospital programs."

And speaking of the overall administration program, PAR noted that "a number of other proposals would also increase the governor's appointing power" which "is already quite extensive."

The only portion of the administration program not passed by the House is a bill awaiting a House vote which would re-establish the Department of Wildlife and Fisheries headed by a director named by the governor, with no controlling board.

The Legislature this week saw final disposal of the right to work repeal measure as Long signed it into law. It will take effect Aug. 1.

The House still must concur on Senate amendments extending coverage of a companion bill restoring right to work for agricultural workers.

Every major item of a 12-measure program, designed to bulwark racial segregation in Louisiana, has passed the Legislature.

The only bill remaining to pass is a $15,000 appropriation to pay the expenses of the legislative segregation committee which drafted the program. It should come out of the House Appropriations Committee next week.

The segregation appropriation and a host of other money bills were bottled up in committee until this week by the 347 million dollar general appropriations bill which passed the House Friday.

The Senate Judiciary "A" Committee has set a hearing Tuesday, which may be delayed until Wednesday, on a bill banning contests between Negroes and whites. The bill was not sponsored by the segregation committee.

The governor has signed four segregation committee measures. Four others await his signature. Two were resolutions, which do not require the governor's signature, and the last one is a constitutional proposal set for a popular vote next fall.

Bender's plea came as representatives of the Big Three of the industry met with union representatives here in another negotiating session aimed at providing a new contarct for the United Steel Workers which would avert a strike. The union has prepared for strike action at midnight next Saturday if no agreement is reached, and the industry has announced plans to begin shutting down the mills by the middle of next week in anticipation of a walkout.

In a nationwide television appearance, David J. McDonald, president of the steel workers union, said the employes are entitled to a pay raise of 27.5 cents an hour "on the basis of their record production."

"This is in sharp contrast to the steel industry's shameful offer of a nickel increase in net pay," he said.

The big three, U.S. Steel, Republic, and Bethlehem, have offered the union a five-year contract with pay boosts which they said would average 7.3 cents an hour each year.

McDonald's speech was the first union mention of a specific figure in its wage demands. Previously, the union had announced only that it was seeking a "substantial" pay increase.

In his television address, McDonald accused the industry of trying to disrupt the good relations that have existed for years between the steel union and management.

McDonald said the union's demands "are reasonable" and that the industry can well afford to meet them.

He quoted Joseph L. Block, president of Inland Steel, to the effect there can be "no quarrel with a union which proposed wage increases not substantially more than the rise in productivity."

McDonald said the average steelworker increased his productivity last year by "a starling 11 per cent."

"Under Mr. Block's formula," McDonald said, "steelworkers are entitled to an 11 per cent increase in pay — or 27.5 cents an hour, just on the basis of their record production."

Wilson Claims

clothes. (Eisenhower, evidently taking account of grumbling among officers about the extra expense of buying a lot of civilian clothes had passed the word that he felt the question of dress should be optional with them.)

Wilson told reporters at Quantico, where he is attending a conference of defense chiefs, that he did not mean to use "phony" in any connection with what was going on in the Senate.

"I didn't intend it that way," he said.

Asked why he hadn't said so yesterday, instead of waiting until today, the secretary said:

"I didn't realize it was such a blow. I thought it would die out."

He continued to stand by his view that the funds asked for in the Air Force budget are adequate, with no need for extra money.

Meanwhile, the Senate got ready for voting next week on Air Force and other military funds.

Sen. Chavez (D-NM), floor manager of the whole 35-billion-dollar defense bill, predicted the Senate will approve a billion-plus extra for the Air Force "by six to ten votes."

Chavez, who said yesterday that Wilson had "put his proverbial foot in his mouth", said today he thought the controversial Wilson remarks would be forgotten by Monday.

Sen. Ellender (D-La) said he will oppose both billion-plus and half billion dollar increases.

"And there are lots of other senators who feel the same way," he said. "We must stop this crazy spending."

sion at first, "because I thought it was a good idea.

"The first session, however, demonstrated that it merely opened the door to heavier legislative spending."

The fiscal meeting developed after research showed 26 special sessions have been called since the 1921 constitutional convention was called, compared with 18 regular sessions.

The first enthusiastic backers contended fiscal sessions, alternating with the regular 60-day Legislatures every two years, would promote economy by giving lawmakers a constant check on state spending.

The governor always controls special sessions, because the issues are limited to what the governor directs.

Sen. Ainsworth had argued successfully in 1954 for the fiscal session idea because, he said, it would restore the Legislature "to its proper place in our trinity of government."

New talk of extraordinary sessions already has developed, during the turmoil of administration tactics on the raises.

Both Reps. Frank Fulco, Caddo Parish, and Ford Stinson, Bossier, tax opponents, told the House a special session would be the answer if the governor is unable to find enough existing state reve- for the teachers pay raise bill he has signed.

In four straight tax votes, with the last one on the gas gathering tax Long wants to pay for the new teachers salary schedule, the governor has tasted defeat. He couldn't muster the two-thirds majority vote.

The two-thirds vote to pass tax raises, which Long violently fought in the April 17 election, when that requirement came before the people, is his big stumbling block now. He wields simple majority control in House and Senate.

The governor has another constitutional proposal awaiting first vote which would put the two-thirds tax raise rule before the people again in November.

If the people support the governor next time, which they refused to do April 17 on that issue, Long would be in position to summon a special session and with simple majority votes call for action on any tax bills he names.

And to pass his proposal to oust fiscal sessions, Long will require a two-thirds House vote, which he has failed to manage on his tax bills.

"If the Legislature is going to stay in session all the time," Long commented, "then we ought to make it a fulltime job and pay members $40 or $500 a month.

"But even Kennon was opposed to the fiscal sessions," Long insisted.

A TRIBUTE TO OUR FLAG!

"Three cheers for the Red, White and Blue." When we sing those stirring words at home, at school, as a parade passes, or whatever the occasion, let's pay more than merely lip service to the Grand Old Flag! Poems have been written for Old Glory. Statesmen have eulogized its immortality. Soldiers on battlefields throughout the world have died for it. It flies majestically night and day over the White House. It is the blessed Flag of Freedom and stands for all the things we hold dearest. Honor the Flag that is the signature of our country and fly it proudly in your heart!

Crossett Considers Building Code For Growth In Future

CROSSETT, June 23 (Special) — The City Council of Crossett is considering the adoption of a building code in the near future.

At a recent special meeting of the council, Ray Guy, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce fire prevention committee, spoke in favor of the building code.

He stated, "The reason for the Building Code is two-fold: To promote a code of some form to protect the existing buildings, both business and residential, against future faulty building. At present we have no protection of property values.

"Second, there is a growing need to have this building code legislated to bring down fire insurance rates."

He stressed the fact that adoption of the Code will in no way affect existing buildings, as the requirements of the Code are not retroactive. His Fire Prevention Committee is working toward the adoption of a code in their effort to have Crossett's fire insurance rating reduced. This reduction would mean according to reports, a saving to Crossett's property owners of at least $10,000 annually in insurance.

Guy introduced Glenn Zimmerman, Executive Director of the Arkansas Municipal League, who came from Little Rock to answer any questions for the Councilmen or citizens present. He began by saying, "You have a town here that is one of the best that I have seen. You have an industry that is interested in the city, and a city of 5,0000 with plans for future development to 25,000 people.

"But please don't wait to set up building codes. Each year that you wait to adopt any kind of code it will be much harder. Get your code now before you get too big. If you find a portion of it that doesn't work you can amend it as you go along."

The group was told by Zimmerman that the National Building Code, if adopted, would affect home owners chiefly in that a licensed electrician and plumber would be required in home construction or major additions or alterations. However, the Code would chiefly concern the construction of commercial buildings.

The city council invited anyone interested to attend its next meeting on July 16 and discuss the building code for Crossett. Copies of the National Building Code are available for study at the public library.

Pedestrian Hit By Taxi Dies In Conway Hospital

LaSalle Johnson, Negro, 47, of 117 DeSiard Street, died in E. A. Conway Memorial hospital at about 2:30 a.m. yesterday after being struck by a taxicab in the 1300 block of DeSiard Street at about 10:45 o'clock the preceding night, according to the traffic division of the Monroe city police department.

Ada Lee Young, 27-year-old Negro woman of 100 Moore Avenue, is in a serious condition at the same hospital as a result of injuries received when hit by the same car along with Johnson, police reported.

Investigating officers identified the driver of the cab as John L. Person, Negro, 33, of 402 Eighth Street. Person, charged with negligent homicide, has been transferred to the Ouachita parish pail.

Person told police that he had been pushed off in his car and that after getting started, the man and woman appeared in front of him. He said he tried to miss them by swinging to the right of the street and applying his brakes. Police said the man and woman were struck by the left front of the car.

Johnson received a fractured skull, broken pelvis bone, broken left leg in two places, and internal injuries, according to the police report. The young woman suffered breaks of both legs and other undetermined injuries, officers said.

The injured were taken to the hospital by a Hunt ambulance.

Women's Group Sponsors Projects For Developing Better Human Relations

"There are 1,150 members in 34 clubs of the Fifth District belonging to the General Federation of Women's Clubs," Mrs. John C. (Jimmie) Kenton of Mangham and president of the district group, proudly relates.

"Why, there are 11 million members in the General Federation," she adds hastily. "And if you don't think that many women can get things done, just watch them'"

To show what she means, the president begins to pull out the data, neatly compiled, which reveals that indeed they aim to get things done.

First there is a brief explanation of the overall organization, including its purposes calculated to build better citizenship.

And third comes the details, still neatly put, of the district organization and work of the individual clubs.

The president tells you that she intends to head her group for the next two years, along with the assistance of other elected officers, which she quickly lists.

She'll give you a run-down on what the district clubs expect to accomplish :arouse citizens to recognize that individual responsibility is the best weapon for effective community action; seek the control of pollution in lakes and streams; stress the meaning and importance in American life of national, state, and community forests and parks; stimulate action among citizens in support of progress on all levels in all fields of education; stimulate interest and active participation of clubwomen in the creative aspects of fine arts; aid women everywhere in the universal aim to develop better homes; expand knowledge of world affairs, expanding effective citizenship, reaffirming faith in the democratic process, promoting the brotherhood of man, emphasizing moral and spiritual values, and broadening the fellowship with women of other countries; and direct the channel of the individual clubwoman and the clubs for service to themselves, community, state and country.

And then she'll hand you a list of the district officers and department chairmen. These women, you find, are scattered about all over the Fifth District.

They are: Mrs. Kenton, president; Mrs. Annette Coolidge, of Mangham, first vice president; Mrs. Edwin Conger, Oak Ridge, second vice president; Miss Annette Jaubert, Rayville, recording secretary; Mrs. Thomas Jett, Monroe, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Jefferson R. Jeanne Crain's Divorce Action Grows Hotter

HOLLYWOOD June 23—UP—Actress Jeanne Crain and her estranged husband, Paul Brinkman, resumed their sensational Hollywood divorce actions Friday when his attorney said he planned to "force the star to answer certain questions" in court on July 11.

Both the film star and former television manufacturer gave depositions at the offices of their attorneys. Attorney Greg Bautzer representing the mother of four children, refused to comment on the purpose of the depositions.

Brinkman's attorney, Arthur J. Crowley, however, said the depositions concerned Brinkman's charges last June 14 that his wife had committed adultery. Earlier Miss Crain charged in an amended divorce suit that Brinkman had forced his way into her bedroom and beat her ahead against a bed post until she agreed to submit to him.

"Mr. Brinkman is determined to take his case before a court," Crowley said. "He feels he can't remain silent in the face of the charges his wife has made against him."

Crowley said he planned to have Miss Crain ordered to court "to force her to answer certain questions." Brinkman seeks custody of their four children on his charges that Miss Crain is an unfit mother.

having wonderful time... SHOPPING!

When summer comes, spring is far behind—in sales. People shop a billion dollars more in summer than in spring!

"Summer slump" has been replaced by "summer jump" according to the U. S. Department of Commerce. It reports that retail sales were $45.8 billion last spring, then soared to $46.8 billion in the summer!*

People are just as active reading their newspapers in the summer, too. Daily newspaper circulation remains almost constant all year 'round.

Put these facts together and they spell SALES. Make sure you get your share of summer sales—use the newspaper to reach people in the summer. Remember—there's no summer slump in sales or newspaper readership. And there's no summer replacement for the newspaper! All business is local... and so are all newspapers.

Week In Finance

Summer Brings Upswing In Some Business Lines

NEW YORK, June 23 (AP)—Summer's advent brought warming news this week to businessmen in varied lines.

Basking in the sunshine were department store executives, machine tool manufacturers, freight car builders, furniture makers, heavy construction engineers and others.

Even in the depressed motor capital of Detroit the pulse of business quickened. Ford made a last-minute change in its production plans—a sudden decision to this week, is 44½ billion. That would be a gain of 3½ per cent over 1955 and would easily make 1956 the biggest construction year on record.

The dark spot in the construction picture is home building—the forecast here has been revised boost July output 8 per cent above the rate originally planned. The reason: "To meet higher demand for new cars."

An upward change was announced, too, in the government's official estimate of 1956 construction spending. Back in November the Commerce Department predicted that this year's construction outlays would total 44 billion dollars. The new estimate, announced downward. The way government experts size up the situation now, builders will start work on 1,150,000 new homes this year against an earlier prediction of 1,200,000. But, says the government, other construction projects will more than take up the slack. Big jobs will set the pace—factories, oil refineries, bridges and superhighways.

Industry is adding new plant and equipment at such a furious clip that machine tool builders are finding it difficult to keep up with new orders. Last month, new orders for machine tools totaled a whopping 93 million—up 30 per cent from a year ago.

A great big question mark hovered above the steel industry this week. Company-union wage talks ran into a series of snags; at week's end both sides were making preliminary preparations for a possible strike after the June 30 contract deadline.

The mills were still producing full tilt with operations scheduled at 96 per cent of capacity. There was every indication, though, that this might be a final spurt before producers start banking their furnaces. Who will get hurt most if there's a strike? Not the auto manufacturers—they have more steel than they need. But, say trade observers, a steel shutdown would have a stunning impact on the construction boom.

ALASKAN QUAKE RECORDED UP—The University of California seismograph station reported Saturday its instruments recorded a "pretty strong" earthquake believed centered in the remote Kamchatka peninsula in Alaska.

Stock Market Pauses To Digest Latest Advance

NEW YORK, June 23 (AP)—The stock market paused this week to digest its big advance of the previous week.

The market loafed the first two days, showed some life Wednesday and staged a medium-sized rally Thursday. It looked as if the rally was going to continue early yesterday, but typical pre-weekend profit-taking nipped the advance and left the market mixed.

The Associated Press average rose 20 cents on the week to $182.00.

Encouraging news sparked the Thursday rally. Ford raised July production "to meet the higher demand for new cars." Washington boosted its prediction of new construction. Other corporate news was bullish.

Steels weakened on issuance of strike instructions.

The five most active issues this week were: Panhandle Oil up 1¼, General Motors up 1⅜, Benguet Mining up ⅛, Union Oil of California up 1⅜ and Ford up 1⅞.

Texas Officially Protests Increase In Oil Imports

HOUSTON, June 22 (AP)—Texas this week made an official protest against increased oil imports.

The Railroad Commission authorized a 70,973 barrel daily increase in July crude production. The relatively small increase followed four monthly cutbacks.

Commissioners said imports have reached a new high and would continue higher of Texas ordered a fifth straight cutback.

When the fourth reduction was ordered a month ago, Commissioner Olin Culberson said:

"Imports are crawling up and every time we cut imports go up."

This week Culberson said there is a point beyond which Texas cannot reduce its allowables without "seriously crippling" a great many producers.

"That point has been reached," he said. "It is time to take a stand."

The increase for July was ordered despite suggestions from crude purchasers that market demand justified another decrease. Purchasers advised the commission they would need 2,845,884 barrels of Texas crude daily in July, 23,618 barrels daily below June recommendations.

At the July statewide proration hearing, a spokesman for Gulf said his company has added 2,738,000 barrels of Texas crude to storage this year. Jack Coates of Houston said Gulf has leased all available storage and stopped leasing because of failure to find more tanks.

The commission ordered a July allowable of 3,322,043 barrels daily, compared to the June 1 allowable of 3,261,251. Prior to the four consecutive cutbacks, the state's daily permissible flow for crude oil had reached a record 3,388,000 barrels in February. State laws charge the commission with limiting crude production to market demand.

Repairs, overhauls and other operating factors normally keep the state's actual production about 13 per cent below the authorized allowable. The American Petroleum Institute estimated Texas' actual production for the week ending June 17, at 2,955,000 barrels daily.

Cotton Futures Firm; End Week At Higher Level

NEW YORK, June 24 (AP)—The cotton futures market turned firm this week. Active futures contracts on the New York Cotton Exchange closed at prices ranging from 45 cents to $1.9 a bale higher than a week before.

Best gains were scored by the nearby July and October months and the smallest by distant July.

Nearby deliveries were bolstered by short covering and commission house buying. Gains in the distant months were curbed, however, by hedge selling. Some selling in the far-off contracts was prompted by continued favorable weather reports from the belt, and a new series of mill curtailments.

Bullish sentiment was dampened also by a contra-seasonal decline in the daily rate of cotton consumption by U.S. mills last month, and by a lower price level approved by the commodity export corporation for its cotton export program. At the latest sale June 12 under the CCC's export program, the agency accepted price of 15 cents a pound. This compared with a price of 27½ cents at two previous sales under the export program.

Exports of U.S. cotton for the week ended Tuesday dipped to 60,000 bales from 73,000 the previous week, the New York Cotton Exchange Service Bureau reported. This compared with shipments of 94,000 bales in the like week of 1955.

U. S. Reaffirms Its Offer Of Funds For Egypt's Nile Dam

WASHINGTON, June 23—UP—The United States had told Egypt "quite recently" that its offer to help build the giant Aswan dam still stands despite pro-Soviet actions of Premier Gamal Badel Nasser, it was learned Saturday.

Informed sources said the United States reaffirmed its offer to help harness the Nile just before Dmitri Shepilov, new Russian foreign minister, arrived in Cairo last week on a "goodwill mission."

Furthermore, the United States still feels that Nasser wants to accept the Western offer — rather than a Soviet offer — of aid to build the $1.2 billion project. The Egyptian strong man has been trying, however, to get the United States to make a firmer commitment promising to carry through with the 15-year project to completion, a promise which cannot be made under the American system of yearly appropriations by Congress.

American officials are now hoping that Nasser will make a pro-Western gesture that will indicate he plans to accept the U. S. offer. This could lead the way to formal acceptance in short order and construction on the first phase of the dam.

The project would back up a lake 300 miles long. It would cost about $1.2 billion. Egypt can put up about $900 million in services and local equipment. The remainder would have to be financed by foreign sources.

The United States and Britain late last year offered to put up $70 million to finance coffer dams, foundations for the main dam and auxiliary work. The United States would supply about $56 million of that and Britain $14 million.

In addition, the World Bank has offered to lend Egypt another $200 million.

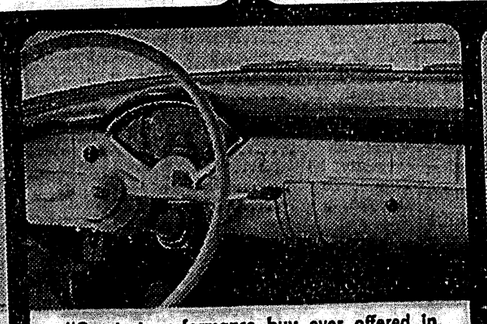
SAYS TOM McCAHILL, FAMOUS AUTOMOTIVE WRITER
In MECHANIX ILLUSTRATED

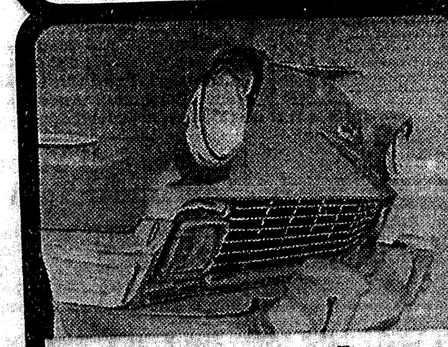
"The hottest thing since Casey got locked in the steam bath. Here's an engine . . . that, due principally to its fantastic breathing properties, can wind up tighter than an East Laplander's mandolin."

"Ounce for ounce and cubic inch for cubic inch, this Chevrolet engine is the greatest performing engine ever built in America bar none . . . available on any model they [Chevrolet] build . . ."



"Greatest performance buy ever offered in America. And, considering that low price was a major design factor, this engine might very well be the greatest competition engine ever built."

"Would run away from the best performing sedan built in Europe. This Chevrolet, costing about ten percent of the European car's price, could eat it alive even with an unwarmed-up engine."



"The hot one is even hotter," Tom agrees after testing the '56 Chevy with "the best engine in the U.S."

That's just part of the praise automotive expert Tom McCahill gave Chevrolet's record-breaking 225-h.p. V8 in a recent issue of Mechanix Illustrated. This engine is available as an extra-cost option in all models.

Chevy's own special brand of performance makes trips seem shorter, hills seem flatter—and saves you seconds in passing for greater safety.

We'll be happy to have you read Tom McCahill's complete article on the Chevrolet V8 any time you stop in.

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

Chalk up another "first" for the Twin Cities—an automobile race track that started out as a show arena for horses.

In a wooded section off the old Natchitoches road and the Downing's Pines road, this track is shaping up on a 20-acre plot owned by Oliver Cloyd, the West Monroe packing plant operator, and an additional 20-acre spread affords plenty of parking space for spectators around the big oval.

Already named "The Twin City Speedway," the racing oval is a half mile track with near quarter of a mile straight aways.

No formal organization has been set up as yet, but Cloyd and Tommy Younse are ramrodding the promption with the West Monroe Quadrille, a riding club. Cloyd credits

OLIVER CLOYD AND TOMMY YOUNSE

Younse, a former Ouachita High School football star, with supervising most of the work in construction of the track.

Cloyd is the sports-minded citizen who built a baseball park on his Natchitoches road property in the late 1940s, catering chiefly to Delta League clubs, and, for a while, it was the only baseball park in the Twin Cities until Legion Memorial Park opened for business in Monroe in 1950. After its brief appearance on the local sports scene, Cloyd's Park was torn down, but some of that old Natchitoches road baseball plant is still in operation as Cloyd's former lighting system now graces Lions Field, home of Little League baseball in Monroe.

"We started this track for the West Monroe horse owners as a place where they can ride, conduct shows, or anything else in which they can enjoy their horses," Cloyd related. "The West Monroe Quadrille has worked extensively in helping to get our track ready and will sponsor any events we conduct. When the hotrod boys heard about what we were doing they applied for a part of our program, and the track has been graded to meet speedway requirements."

The track has already seen some informal action, including hotrod races last Sunday that attracted an estimated 1,500 spectators with the track owners conducting no extensive publicity campaign.

Formal opening of the track is set for July 8, the first Sunday after the Fourth of July, Cloyd said last night. It will be a day for the horsemen with maybe a hotrod exhibition or two.

"We're inviting in the riding clubs from throughout this section of the country to acquaint the horsemen with what we have to offer," Cloyd said. "Some of the hotrod or stock car boys might want to take a few spins about the track just to show the folks their possibilities as well."

There's still lots of work to be done, everything is in rough dress, but the dirt track is well graded with sunken post guard rails. Concession stands also are roughly erected right now, but there's plenty of shade in surrounding trees, and, if the track proves as attractive as expected improvements can be made as the interest mounts.

Oilers Nip Sports, 1-0, On Error In 9th

Stanhouse Shades Monroe's Davolio In Pitching Battle

The Lafayette Oilers used an unearned run in the ninth inning to snap a seven-game losing streak and defeat the Monroe Sports, 1 to 0, in the final of a series here. Monroe had won three of four in the set with the Oilers.

Although raked for eleven hits, John Davollo, big Monroe lefthander, had hurled some great ball but could get little bat support for his cause as Dave Stanhouse was shutting off the Sports with just four safe blows.

Joe Ridge, who was safe on the game only error after two were out in the ninth, stole second and romped on Dave Wandra's game winning single into right field to snap the tension of the pitching duel.

Today the Sports are in Lake Charles to open a two-day stand, and they return here for dates with Wednesday.

Lafayette lost two great scoring chances in the fourth and sixth innings, missing on the first by some fine clutch pitching by Davollo and losing out on the second on a fielding gem by Bill Carr.

Successive singles by Mike Yarmchuk, Giles Setzer, and Fred Caviness loaded the bases with none out in the fourth, but Davollo promptly tightened to fan Joe Pearson, Joe Patrick, and Bill Zimmerman in order. He had handed Pearson and Patrick three straight balls before getting over the first strike on either.

Yarmchuk, who had led off the sixth with a single, was on third base when Patrick poled a sinking liner into center field. Carr came charging in, lunged, and made a rolling catch of the drive to end the inning.

The Oilers also got two hits in the first and seventh innings, ending each with a runner on third, and in the seventh Yarmchuk, who had hit three-for-three up to that point, was cuasing Monroe fans some concern until he grounded out to "Blackie" Millet at third.

Then with two out in the ninth, Jim Johnston let Ridge's easy roller scoot between his legs just off first base for the game's first miscue. Ridge stole second, and cracked the shutout when Dave Wandra laced a single into right field. Wandra also stole second, but Yarmchuk flied out to end the in-

Just a couple of hits at crucial times could have been a big help to Davolio. Roy Mantle doubled with one out in the first inning but could move no further. Davolio doubled, himself, in the third with one out and he was left on the same sack. A base on balls to Keith Mitchell and a single by Joe Miller came with one out in the fourth, but Mitchell got no further than second, and Johnston singled in the ninth and stole second with only one out, and second was where he ended.

Courtney Springs Upset On Jenkins In 400 Meter Run

BAKERSFIELD, Calif., June 23 —UP—Tom Courtney of the New York Athletic Club upset defending champion Charley Jenkins of Villanova Saturday night as he set a new national AAU record in the 40 meter run.

Courtney, best known as one of the top 800 meter men in the world, came on with a sprinting stretch finish to nip Jenkins in 45.8 seconds. The former AAU record, set in 1948 by Herb McKenley, was 45.9. The world mark is 45.4, set by Lou Jones at the Pan-American Games last year.

It was the sixth AAU record out of nine events completed Friday night and early Saturday night in the 68th annual championships.

The thermometer reached 102 degrees here Saturday in mid-afternoon, but a mild breeze came up late in the day and as the first events got underway Saturday night the wind guage measured between four and 10 miles an hour.

Wildlife Group Will See Sports Film On Tuesday

The Ouachita unit of the Louisiana Wildlife Federation meets here Tuesday night at 7:30 o'clock at Hotel Virginia in the midst of its membership campaign with a program that features a special sports film to be presented by John Blanchard, publicity chief of the Louisiana Wildlife and Fisheries, plus discussion of unit projects and problems.

Arthur "Bud" Tidwell, member of the unit's board of directors, said a special invitation is being extended to sporting goods houses and fish bait establishments to have representatives at the meeting.

"We're hoping everyone connected with the sale of sporting equipment and supplies is represented at the meeting," Tidwell said, "because we're planning a special program in which their help will be greatly needed."

In connection with the membership drive, the unit plans to hold following meeting in various locations within the parish. Next month's session is already tagged for Sterlington. Awards are to be presented in connection with the membership drive, and two door prizes will be offered Tuesday.

Pirates Sell Young Lefthander To A's

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 23—UP—The Kansas City Athletics Saturday purchased a young lefthanded pitcher from the Pittsburgh Pirates at an over-the-waiver price.

Jack Wally McMahan, 24 of Hot Springs, Ark., will report to the A's here Sunday, Parke Carroll, Athletics general manager, announced.

The purchase of McMahan was part of a three-way deal in which Forrest (Spook) Jacobs, Columbus Jets second baseman, went to the Pirates on a waiver claim in exchange for Pittsburgh reserve second baseman Curt Roberts.

McMahan had a 9-7 record for McAlester, Okla., of the Sooner State League after being signed out of high school in 1952. He later pitched for Joplin, Owensboro, Ky., and Quincy, Ill. He had an 11-5 record at Birmingham of the Southern Association in 1955.

Red Sox Shatter Gorman Jinx For 6-3 Nod Over A's

KANSAS CITY, June 23 (AP)—Boston shattered the Tom Gorman spell tonight to defeat Kansas City 6 to 3. It was only the second defeat the Athletics' bespectacled right-hander has suffered at the hands of the Red Sox during his entire American League career.

Gorman went into the game with an all-time 8-1 record against Boston. He was 2-0 this season. But starting with Jim Piersall's leadoff double in the first, the Sox got to him tonight for eight hits and five runs, including homers by Red Lepcio and Sammy White, before Gorman was relieved by Bobby Shantz in the sixth.

The win put Boston 2-up in the three-game series that ends tomorrow. A crowd of 16,042 turned out tonight.

Mel Parnell, making his first appearance since he sprained an ankle May 16, got off to a shaky start, walking in an A's run in the first. Then he settled down to a brilliant performance until the ninth when he ran out of gas, and Ike Delock was called in to end an A's rally.

Giants Recall Lennon From Minneapolis

NEW YORK, June 23 (AP)—Desperate for some hitting punch, the New York Giants today recalled Bob Lennon, slugging outfielder, from Minneapolis of the American Association.

The Giants said they hoped Lennon would arrive in time to play in tomorrow's double header against Milwaukee.

The 27-year-old native of Brooklyn started the season with the Giants, played in five games but went hitless in seven times at bat. He is rated a long ball hitter.

Last year with Minneapolis he batted .280 but knocked in 104 runs hitting 31 homers.

East-West Match Tunes Collegians

COLUMBUS, Ohio, June 23—UP —Some of the nation's best collegiate golfers will tune up for the NCAA golf tournament Sunday with an East-West match.

The NCAA tournament committee will choose players from both sections of the country to play in the best-ball match on the Ohio State University course.

The battle for the NCAA crown itself gets underway Monday with some 240 golfers scheduled to compete in the week-long affair.

Louisiana State University, last year's champion, is expected to be the team to beat. The Tigers lost only one man from their championship squad. He is Johnny Pott, NCAA medalist, who shot a 136 last year. Purdue University, Houston, and North Texas State are close team contenders. North Texxas was runner up in 1955.

U. S. Girls Seek Revenge In 53rd British Tourney

SUNNINGDALE, Eng., June 23 —UP—America's women golfers, beaten in the Curtis Cup by Great Britain, will be out to snatch the consolation prize of the Women's Open title when they tee off Tuesday in the 53rd renewal of the ladies classic.

"This could be my year," said blonde Barbara Romack, the Sacramento, Calif., life insurance salesman. She won her Curtis Cup match and she was runner-up last year in the Women's Open—called by the British "the ladies championship."

Miss Romack and the other leading Americans — Polly Riley of Fort Worth, Tex., Pat Lesser of Seattle, Wash., Mrs. Harrison Flippin of Ardmore, Pa., Mary Ann Downey of Baltimore and Wiffi Smith of St. Clair, Mich.—have been shooting around women's par figures on the rolling Sunningdale course.

Trans-Miss Final Matches Wenzler With Charlie Coe

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 23—UP —Charlie Coe of Oklahoma City sank a 15-foot putt on the 18th green Saturday to sideline Jim Hiskey of Houston, Tex., 1-up in the semi-finals of the 53rd Trans-Mississippi golf tourney.

In the other semi-final match over the moist, steamy Oklahoma City Golf and Country Club course, Ronnie Wenzler of Memphis, Tenn., eliminated John P. Cain of Lubbock, Tex., 4 and 3.

Coe, three times Trans - Miss winner and former National Amateur king, tees off against the Memphis State golfer at 9:30 a. m. Sunday in the 36-hole championship round.

Coe had to go the 18-hole route to take out Hiskey, 19-year-old University of Houston golfer.

Hiskey had the veteran amateur star one down at the turn after pitching a 50-footer into the cup from a sand trap on the eighth hole for an eagle.

Coe evened the match on the 13th green with a par four, while Hiskey got in trouble and two-putted for a six.

The Oklahoma City golfer hit his second shot about 15 feet from the pin on 18 and Hiskey was to the right on the fringe.

Hiskey putted in short while Coe cooly stroked in for a birdie three.

Coe toured the 35-36—71 layout with rounds of 36-34—70. Hiskey had a 35 on the front nine, but went two over on the back side.

Wenzler and Cain were even at the turn, but Wenzler came alive on the back side. He took two straight holes, halving one and ending it on the 15th green.

In the quarterfinals earlier in the day, Coe fired a four-under par through 17 holes to down Tex Baxter Jr., of Amarillo, Tex., 2 and 1.

Curtis Pair Meet Hurley, Golden Terror Tuesday

After taking two straight lickings from the combination of the Golden Terror and Frank Hurley, Jack Curtis has called for the aid of his brother, George, in his scheduled tag team main event with the same opposition Tuesday night at Kallio's Arena.

Hurley and the Terror have proven their ability on the canvass since coming to Monroe two weeks ago. Hurley the Australian heavyweight champion, who came to this area with the reputation of taking advantage of every opportunity in the ring has confirmed the reports and the unknown masked villain has proved to be just the partner that he needed to halt the supremacy of the Curtis family.

Jack Snow of Marshall, Tex., met defeat with Jack last week, just as Al Zask from St. Louis, Mo., did a week earlier.

After last Tuesday's scrap Curtis said, "I'll get them nextweek; I'll bring George back with me." When Hurley was informed that George would be in Jack's corner this Tuesday he commented: I've never wrestled against this other Mister Curtis, but I know that with the Terror on my side I can beat even the best."

The relay battle will have a 90 minute time limit with two falls needed to win.

A pair of one-fall preliminary matches will rase the curtain on the show at 8:15 o'clock.

ALL-STAR LEADERS

Bastrop Points For 22nd Annual Kraft Tournament

BASTROP, La., June 23 (Special)—A record number of entrants is expected to tee off in the $1,500 pro-amateur Kraft Paper Tournament which will be held July 2-3-4 at the Morehouse Country Club.

J. W. Lowery, chairman for the event, said entries are coming in from all parts of the south for this 22nd annual tournament which in the past has been won by such men as Tommy Bolt and Freddy Haas. He said a number of top Monroe players had already indicated their intention of competing.

Lowery explained that $1,500 in merchandise prizes will be awarded winning amateurs and $400 in cash awards for winning pros.

Assisting with arrangements is Leonard Warren, Morehouse Country Club pro. Warren has his course in perfect shape for the big event which has been called by some, the "biggest pro-amateur tournament in the south."

Qualifying rounds have been in progress since June 17 and will continue until July 1. A full program of activities including a free barbecue, dance, cocktail hour and other events will be open to entrants.

Lowery said today that qualifying rounds for amateurs will be 18 holes medal play and then flights of 16 players will be made up for championship and first flights. These will play 18 holes. All other flights will be made up of eight men playing nine hole matches.

In addition, there will be an 18-hole best ball medal play for pro-amateur teams. Each team will consist of a pro and three amateurs, two of whom will be chosen by lot. Members of the first six teams will receive merchandise prizes with the exception of the pros who will receive cash.

Lowery explained that the entrance fee of $12.50 must be paid before the qualifying round is played.

The original 1876 baseball was the same size as the major league ball used today, with a circumference of 9 to 9¼ inches.

Patty Berg Ties Mrs. Hagge For Lead In Tourney

DETROIT, June 23—UP— Patty Berg, the red-haired veteran from St. Andrews, Ill., fired four birdies in a six-hole stretch Saturday on her way to a 71 and a tie for the lead at the three-quarter mark in the $7,500 Ladies PGA championship.

Mrs. Marlene Bauer Hagge, leader through 36 holes, was tied with Miss Berg after the third round. Mrs. Hagge is the leader in money winnings this year, with Miss Berg second.

Miss Berg was two strokes off the pace before Saturday and after her first eight holes Saturday afternoon was a full four strokes behind.

But Miss Berg strung together three straight birdies starting with the ninth. Then she holed out a 35-foot approach shot for a birdie deuce at the 14th.

Mrs. Hagge, Asheville, N.C., playing in a twosome with Betty Jameson, San Antonio, Tex., right behind Miss Berg, had a two-under par 34 on the front nine.

Mickey Wright, San Diego, Calif., playing with Miss Berg, had a three-under par 72 for a three-round total of 220, five strokes behind the co-leaders but good for third place.

Cathy Cornelius, Lake Worth, Fla., moved into fourth place with 222.

The trio of Miss Jameson, Joyce Ziske, Waterford, Wis., and Alice Bauer, Sarasota, Fla., shared fifth place at 223 while defending champion Beverly Hanson, Indio, Calif., was another stroke back.

Mary Mills, 16-year-old Gulfport Miss., blonde, fired a 76 to regain the lead in the Wolverine Amateur being played along with the Ladies PGA. It gave her a three-round total of 233.

Braves Nip Giants, 2-1, For 8th In Row

Payoff Hits Are Homers By Rice, O'Connell In 9th

NEW YORK, June 23 (AP)—Pinch hitter Del Rice and Danny O'Connell smashed successive home runs in the ninth inning today as Milwaukee won its eighth straight, 2-1 over the New York Giants. Johnny Antonelli had shut out the Braves with only two singles until the ninth.

Antonelli retired the first 13 men in succession until Bobby Thomson singled in the fifth. HankAaron's single in the seventh was the only other hit until Rice, batting for pitcher Warren Spahn, tied the score with a homer off the left field facade, his second of the season. O'Connell then followed with his first homer of the year into the upper left field seats, chasing Antonelli.

Going to the ninth, Hank Thompson's leadoff home run into the upper right field stands in the second was the only run of the game. It was Hank's second of the year.

Spahn received credit for the two runs scored after he left for a pinch hitter and won his sixth. It was Antonelli's sixth defeat.

The Braves haven't lost since Fred Haney replaced Charlie Grimm as manager last Saturday night after the club dropped a game to Brooklyn.

Milwaukee's winning streak is the longest of the major league season, boosting their lead over second place Brooklyn to 1½ games.

Bums' 9th Inning Rally Stop Reds For 7-6 Win

BROOKLYN, June 23 (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers struck in the last of the ninth inning for the second time in three days today, scoring three runs to whip the Cincinnati Redlegs 7-6 and regain second place in the National League.

Rocky Nelson's single off the right field screen scored pinch runner Charley Neal with the winning run after Randy Jackson had tied the score with a double scoring Pee Wee Reese and Junior Gilliam.

The last two runs were charged to Cincinnati's relief ace, Bud Freeman, who absorbed his second loss against five victories after replacing starter Hal Jeffcoat. Clem Labine, Brooklyn's third pitcher, received credit for the victory, his sixth against one loss.

The game was marred by Jeffcoat's beaning of Dodger utility infielder Don Zimmer in the fourth inning. Zimmer was hit on the left side of the face and was taken by stretcher to a hospital, where X-rays disclosed a fractured cheek bone. He also suffered a concussion. Zimmer, who started the game at shortstop in place of Reese, will be sidelined for at least two weeks.

Sea O Erin Leads All Way To Take Arlington Feature

CHICAGO, June 23 (AP)—Hasty House farm's Sea O Erin, leading all the way, withstood two stiff challenges in the stretch today to win the $27,000 Laurence Armour Memorial Handicap before 22,251 at Arlington Park.

Hasseyampa, owned by Walmac farm, closed fast to finish second and Mrs. A. M. Creech's Styrunner was third in the field of six. Jet Action, a 6-5 favorite, never threatened and finished fourth.

Piloted by Kenny Church, Sea O Erin ran the 1⅛ miles in a slow 1:53 2-5, five seconds off the track record set by Coaltown in 1949.

A solid second choice, Sea O Erin paid $3, $3.80 and $2.80 and added $15,474 to his previous earnings of $74,305 for the season. In all, the 5-year-old son of Shannon II has now earned a total of $348,653.

Both Styrunner and Hasseyampa challenged Sea O Erin. Styrunner, second most of the way, made his bid and faltered in midstretch. Then came Hasseyampa but he, too, failed.

Mayer Fires 63 For Lead

PHILADELPHIA, June 22 (AP)—Unheralded pro Dick Mayer of St. Petersburg, Fla., turned in a record-breaking 63, five under par, to take the lead with a 198 today in the Philadelphia Daily News $20,000 Open Golf Tournament.

The 33-year-old Mayer smashed the tourney mark of 64 set by five players last year. He shot a one-under-par 32 on the front nine and returned home even hotter with a 31 on the final nine

Mayer started the day's play with a 135, two strokes behind the second day leader, Bill Casper Jr., Chula Vista, Calif. Mayer's red hot performance gave him a three-stroke lead over Bud Holscher, of Apple Valley Calif., in the battle for $4,000 in first place money.

Mike Setchick of Mahopac, N.Y. trailed Holscher with a 202, shooting a 67 for the day.

Cary Middlecoff, winner of last week's National Open at Rochester, was way down the list with a 214. Middlecoff, who started the day with a 143, shot a par 33 on the initial nine, but rose to 38 for the final nine and a day's card of 71.

Mayer, a native of Old Greenwich, Conn., had his best previous tourney performance in the Azalea Open in Wilmington, N.C., in March when he finished second to Mike Souchak.

NEW YORK, June 23—UP—Christiana Stable's Thinking Cap ran away from favored Fisherman in the stretch at Belmont Park Saturday to win the inaugural running of the $28,150 Stymie Handicap by three and one - quarter lengths.

Fisherman, going to the front shortly after the start and setting the pace until challenged by Thinking Cap, was no match for the winner in the final drive. The gallant little colt enjoyed a four and one-half advantage over third place Begorra at the finish, however.

Thinking Cap paid $15.10, $4.90 and $3.80 across the board while picking up a winner's purse of $19,100.

Americans Claim 2 Doubles Titles In London Tennis

LONDON, June 23—UP—American pairs won the women's and the mixed doubles championships Saturday in the London Grass courts tennis tournament, but Neale Fraser of Australia sprang the surprise of the day when he upset countryman Ken Rosewall in the men's singles final.

Fraser took advantage of one of Rosewall's worst days to win, 7-5, 3-6, 9-7, in this final tuneup for the Wimbledon championships which begin on Monday.

Althea Gibson of New York teamed with Gardnar Mulloy of Denver, Colo., to win the mixed doubles crown with a 3-6, 6-3, 6-4 triumph over Darlene Hard of Montebello, Calif., and Bob Howe of Australia.

However, Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Calif., and Shirley Fry of St. Petersburg, Fla., stymied Miss Gibson's bid for a share of two titles when they defeated her and Angela Buxton of England, 6-2, 7-5, in the women's doubles final.

The 21-year - old Miss Buxton, seeded fifth at Wimbledon, won the women's singles championship with a 6-4, 6-0 victory over Pat Ward of England in the day's opening match.

A "COMMON SENSE" Suit At An "UNCOMMON PRICE" . . . Our Tropical Of

Dacron & Wool $48

We are inclined to think that there are far too many superlatives used in advertising today—

too many "finest,"—far too many "amazing" and "miracle."

This 55% Dacron, 45% wool tropical is none of these. It is by no means the "finest" suit in our store but it is a very good one—lightweight, durable, crease resistant and tailored to our standards. Its performance during a Louisiana summer, while hardly "miraculous," will be highly satisfactory, very probably resulting in lower cleaning and pressing bills. While the value is hardly an "amazing" one, the price certainly "not the lowest anywhere"—we strongly suspect you will agree with us that this particular Dacron and Wool Tropical is quite a buy at $48—quite a suit for the hot summer and warm fall ahead— but then why not come see for yourself—but please, no "superlatives," we blush easily.

Bill Halley Tops Big 8's Pitchers; 24 Hit Over .300

RUSTON, La., June 23 (Special)—Twenty - four players are hitting .300 or better in the Big Eight League after two rounds of play. Bill Halley of Bernice, who twirled winning ball for the Monroe Sports a few years back, is the leading pitcher with four wins and no losses. Hollis Morton of Homer has a 3-0 record, Jess Mercer of Ruston and Terry Murry of Bastrop are next in line with two victories. In the home run department Pel Austin, who led the Cotton States League, has clouted five over the fence for Bernice. Halley of Bernice has four homers to his credit, Melvin Colvin of Ruston 3, Tony Chimento of Bastrop 2, Ben Carroll of Bernice 2, Wade Scott and Dean Busboon of Minden 2, Bob Boggan of Ruston 2.

Jackie Moreland, Minden's basketball star, and Tony Chimento of Bastrop are tied for hitting honors at .462. Bernice has seven players hitting .300 or better with Ruston next in line with six.

The Big Eight managers meet Friday night to determine whether or not they will carry out the seven-inning game experiment this season. Excellent crowds and shorter games featured the second round of play. Also on the agenda will be the selection of the All-star team that will face the league leaders of June 29th. The All-star game will be played on the 5th of July at the town of the top team of the league on the 29th. At present it looks like Ruston has the inside track but the four top teams are bunched so close together that a loss or a win will make the difference.

Grim Cracks Up After Fistic Row With Dave Philley

CHICAGO, June 23 (AP)—Probably un-nerved by a fist - swinging charge to the mound by Dave Philley, New York pitcher Bob Grim cracked for two runs in the sixth and a 2-0 defeat today by the surging Chicago White Sox, who thus moved to within three games of the pace-setting Yankees.

Veteran Jim Wilson allowed only four Yankee hits to match teammate Billy Pierce as the American League's "winningest" pitcher with 10 decisions.

It was Chicago's second straight over New York, the sixth in a row for the Pale Hose and their ninth in ten on the current home stand.

Grim's first defeat of the season after four victories and the first of his career against the White Sox began when he plunked Philley with a pitched ball to start the sixth.

The ball struck Philley's shoulder, glanced to his head and knocked off his cap. To the surprise of a fine Saturday crowd of 29,832, Philley spun his bat angrily like a majorette and then rushed out toward Grim.

Near the mound, Philley wound up to swing, but Grim punched first. The Yankee right hander missed. Philley countered, but also missed. Then players from both benches swarmed in between the two warriors.

Philley was chased from the game and Jim Delsing ran for him. Next up, Sherm Lollar leveled on the upset Grim and poked a double to the right field corner, scoring Delsing. Lollar was out trying for third.

The jittery Grim walked Walt Dropo, who made second on Fred Hatfield's infield out. With little Luis Aparicio at 2-2, Yankee second sacker Billy Martin charged to second trying to bluff Dropo back to the bag. Aparicio drilled the ball right through Martin's vacated spot to score Dropo.

Miz Clementine Cops New Castle Run For Calumet

STANTON, Del., June 23 (AP)—Calumet farms, a famed stakes winning racing establishment throughout the country, won its first big prize at Delaware Park as its five-year-old mare, Miz Clementine, romped to a front running 2½-length victory in the $37,300 New Castle Stakes today.

Miz Clementine, a brown mare by Bull Lea-Two Bob, was one-third of a three horse Calumet entry in the mile and a sixteenth event for fillies and mares. Miss Arlette and Amoret were the other Calumet thoroughbreds sent after the New Castle first prize of $28,050.

Jockey Jack Westrope sent the mare to the front shortly after the break from the gate and she never let up, holding the lead throughout the race, and winning in the good time of 1:44. She paid her backers among the 22,647 fans, $11.80, $4.60 and $3.20, a rather healthy return for a three-horse Calumet entry.

Mrs. E. D. Jacobs' Searching, recent winner of the Top Flight Handicap at Belmont Park finished second, and paid $4.60 and $3.80, while Maine Chance farm's Myrtle's Jet took the show at $5.40. The disappointment of the race was the 2-1 favorite, Parlo, Fox Catcher farm's 1955 champion mare, who finished dead last in the field of 12 fillies and mares.

Parlo never was in the running and jockey Eric Guerin said after the race, "She just didn't want to run today. She labored all the way." On the other hand, Westrope said of Miz Clementine, "I was told to ride her like I owned her and I did. She was full of run."

The New Castle was the second jewel of Delaware Park's distaff big three series of races. Last week Dotted Line, King Ranch filly, won the Oaks. The latter was scratched from today's race, along with Bohemia stable's Djeddorine and Sam E. Wilson Jr.'s Lady Swords, but is expected to compete in next week's $150,000 Delaware Handicap the final third of the big three races.

Phils Use Haddix To Halt Cardinals In 8 To 3 Battle

PHILADELPHIA, June 23 (AP)—Former Card Harvey Haddix and the big bats of the Philadelphia Phillies combined today to whip St. Louis 8-3 and run Philadelphia's current win streak to four games.

The major blows in the Phils' attack were a third inning grand slam homer by Del Ennis, his 13th round tripper of the season, and catcher Stan Lopata's bases-empty homer in the first. Six of the Phillies' nine hits were for extra bases.

Haddix came to the Phils in a six-player deal with the Cards.

Born Mighty 1st In Ohio Run For Fat $34 Return

CLEVELAND, Ohio, June 23—UP—Cornelius V. Whitney's Born Mighty, a 16-1 shot, scored a stunning one-length victory over the Preakness winner, Calumet Farms' Fabius, in the $45,340 Ohio Derby at Thistledown Saturday.

Racing through a rainstorm, which struck a few minutes before post time, and turned the track sloppy, Fabius tired badly in the final yards of the mile and an eighth event, after having held a three-length lead in the stretch. Toby B., from the Van Deren and Deming Stable, finished third, a nose behind Fabius.

Born Mighty, ridden by John Choquette, covered the route in 1:55 4-5 and paid $34, $9.00 and $5.40 across the board.

wonderful outing and believe it or not the cash outlay for the big journey failed to reach quite $100. Also believe it or not they have just found the German Shepherd dog such as they sought in the far west, at no further distance than out DeSiard Road near the overpass. Again this was a case of "Acres of Diamonds right at Home."

If one desires to make a economical trip, he might do well to consult Mrs. Jack for she seems to posses the know how together with superior energy.

Her husband for some time regarded that if he had a Guiding Eye dog that he could get around faster and better and sell more brooms. He heard of the Guiding Eye in North Hollywood, where dogs are available free of cost to responsible blind persons, but they are required to spend a month at the cost of the company while the dog and his master get well acquainted.

With a reservation made by mail for the California dog training place, the next most important item was MONEY.

The family's finances were at low ebb, also Mrs. Jack while driving around Monroe had never tackled a project like a drive to far off California. A kindly disposed preacher's wife informed a broadcaster at a Bastrop radio station of the family's desires and of their financial status. This man at once broadcast an earnest appeal which brought results. A sum almost $100 was contributed from this source.

Swept almost off their feet with this unlooked for generosity, the Perots were ready to start for almost any place on the map. A filling station map showed how Highway 80 goes straight across the south to California, terminating in San Diego. It was this highway and highway 70 that brought the couple to their destination.

To keep the record straight, Mrs. Jack said that they had not $100 but $90 as the sum total of their fluid resources. With this sum, Mrs. Jack operating the car, began to compare mentally her experience with that of Christopher Columbus when bent on world adventure. But let her tell the story:

"The first night we stopped in Longview, Tex. where I have a relative glad to see us and it was their pleasure to see we had supper and breakfast as well as a good bed at retiring time.

"Then we started on our way again. The next night we stayed with a married daughter in Fort Worth and the third night at Odessa where a nephew of mine lives. He gave us valuable advice especially about how to cross the blazing desert. We followed his advice and our little old Ford made it better than some Cadillac limousines we saw.

"When we left Odessa, I told Jack that we were on our own, no more relatives and that every penny must count. Two more nights out, one that cost us $6 in a motel, and one at $3, brought us to North Hollywood. I got Jack to Gulding Eye headquarters, and then went to a cafe for my supper knowing that he would be cared for properly. In the cafe I quickly found a woman who was working days and who wanted someone to stay with her children. We quickly struck up a bargain where I was to keep up the house and kiddies for my board.

"But after about ten days, Jack got homesick or something. He wanted to leave there even to the extent of abandoning the dog that he had come so far to secure.

"With the highway better known to us, we hurried back home in three days, stopping off with several of the relatives on the way. Our money was getting thin is why we rushed so fast for home.

"Upon reacing Monroe I opened a copy of the "Morning World" and found advertised just the breed of dog we had travelled so far to secure and all in vain. It was owned out highway 80, about four miles east of downtown Monroe. It was a blooded German Shephard. Her father had won 14 first places in dog exhibitions.

"Was'nt it just wonderful to find the very dog we sought right here at home after all that travel? But don't think we regret the big trip of our lives! We didn't see the glories of Hollywood, but we can say when asked, 'Oh yes we have been there!'.

Champion D. Livingston To Enter Cup Races Here

Plans for the July 1 Silver Cup race of Champions speed boat regatta on the Ouachita river were accelerated today when Chamber of Commerce sports committee officials announced that National Class "C" champion David Livingston would enter into the competition.

"We expect to have at least two international cup contenders at the Monroe races," Sports chairman Slim Scoggin said, "and we have had inquiries from drivers as far away as Illinois on the big Monroe cup races."

Sports committee officials received the official schedule of events which was released from the National Outboard association offices yesterday.

The 13 races to be conducted will be as follows:

"We want to announce that Mercury class boats will definitely be able to compete in the Silver Cup races and that full information to Mercury owners will be made available," Race coordinator Howard Griffin said.

Chamber of Commerce officials at a special meeting outlined special spectator, participant and traffic safety measures with the cooperation of the Monroe and West Monroe police departments and the Monroe fire department rescue squad.

"It will be altogether necessary to inform the public that Riverfront street south of the DeSiard bridge will be closed to traffic in West Monroe, West Monroe Police Chief Jeff Caldwell said.

The Silver Cup races are expected to draw over 10,000 spectators to view the spectacle and every convenience for the viewer is being arranged by special committees.

"Knowing that the public at large is not too well informed on racing procedures we will distribute a free program of events along with the rules of racing," Co-Chairman F. N. Steele said.

This means that spectators will receive the programs at the scene of the races. Chamber officials request that the public not attempt to obtain programs in advance of the races as special Boy Scouts will handle distribution.

All boat owners in the Monroe-West Monroe area are cautioned not to run their crafts south of the DeSiard street bridge between 12:30 p.m. and 5:00 on the day of the races. Also skiing and surf-boat riding will be prohibited in the racing area.

"There will be special patrol boats in the vicinity of the DeSiard street bridge manned by Monroe firemen to enforce this most important water safety precaution," Fire Chief Hales said.

The reinauguration of races on the Ouachita was welcomed by National Outboard officials as a "much needed" competitive event for the area.

Race coordinator Howard Griffin in talking with National Outboard officials at the Knoxville, Tennessee headquarters yesterday was informed that the Silver Cup races should draw a record number of entries as two other major premium races were scheduled in the Ark-La-Tex area during the week of the Fourth of July.

A special public relations committee from the Chamber of Commerce is currently distributing placards throughout the Twin Cities and in the trade area announcing the official Silver Cup events.

Full information for contestants may be obtained by calling the Monroe Chamber of Commerce. It was pointed out that all racing contestants should arrive in Monroe during the mid - morning hours on the day of the race in order that their crafts might be berthed conveniently prior to excess traffic.

Emergency disaster loans will be available to farmers in northeast Louisiana and throughout the nation until June 3, 1959, under terms of a bill which has just been passed by the House of Representatives, Fifth District Congressman Otto E. Passman said today. In extending the period for loans of this type, the House increased authorized funds from $5 million to $65 million.

Those interested in loans should apply to their parish committee for particulars.

Candelighters were Lawrence Jones, brother-in-law of the bride, and James Carter, the bride's brother.

Mrs. C. A. Martin, organist, rendered a program of nuptial music.

Preceding the bride to the altar was her sister and only attendant, Mrs. Lawrence Jones of Greenville, Miss. She was wearing a summery frock of dotted white organdy over aqua taffeta. Matching taffeta piping followed the surpliced neckline and was tied in a bow at the back. This was duplicated in triple bands on the empire bodice. She wore a white straw sailor and carried a bouquet of pink carnations, with a background of pink maline and long satin streamers.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Claude Carter of Monroe, was gowned in a street length eyelet model of fine cotton batiste, embroidered in small squares. The bodice was sleeveless, with a dropped waistline and a scooped, rounded neckline. Unpressed pleats provided the fullness for the skirt. A white Milan synthetic straw, covered in matching tulle and white shoes completed her ensemble. Her only jewelry was a string of tiny pearls, and matching earrings. The bridal bouquet was of white carnations, clustered around a purple throated white orchid.

Joseph W. Myers served the bridegroom as best man.

For her duaghter's wedding, Mrs. Carter chose a grey silk shantung, with a circle of pleated fluting marking the front of the V neck bodice.

Her hat was of shiny black handwoven straw, covered with a spray of white forget-me-nots and her corsage was of pink carnations.

Miss Lois Carter, of Houston, Tex., and sister of the bride, presided over the bride's book at the entrance to the reception rooms.

The bride's table was centered with an arrangement of white stock and fern and covered with a white linen cutwork cloth. The bouquets of the bride and her attendant were charmingly placed at vantage points on the table. The glow of candles burning in crystal candelabra, reflected on the beautiful three - tiered wedding cake of all white with floral trim of bride's roses and topped with a miniature bride and groom.

Misses Betty Greene, of Vinton and Miss Rosemary Huff, of Mansfield, alternated at the punch bowl. Mrs Theresea M. Donaldson served the wedding cake.

For traveling the bride changed to a one piece dress of natural linen with a duster of yellow linen. Her hat was a white straw shell and the orchid from her wedding bouquet formed her corsage. The couple left immediately after the ceremony for a wedding trio to Niagara Falls. Massachusetts and Pennsylvania. Mr. and Mrs. Plugge will make their home at Sulphur where she is a teacher in the public schools and he is stationed at the air base at Lake Charles.

A large clear plastic bag keeps food chopper, handle and cutters all in one convenient place.

MR. AND MRS. BILLY BERNARD WHITTEN

Joyce Fuller Becomes Bride In Afternoon

Crew Lake Methodist church was the scene at 3 p.m. June 3, of the wedding of Miss Mary Joyce Fuller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Fuller, of Crew Lake and Billy Bernard Whitten, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Whitten of Crew Lake.

An arch entwined with smilax and gladioli, with baskets of white gladioli at either side formed the background for the ceremony. Rev. James Poole officiated. The nuptial music was presented by J. L. Sullivan at the organ and Miss Gladys Sullivan, soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white Chantilly lace and tulle over white organdy. The fitted bodice was fashioned with a sweetheart neckline and long sleeves that ended in points over the hands. The waltz length skirt was made in tiers of lace and net. The finger tip veil fell from a coronet of seed pearls and sequins. She carried a white Bible mounted with a white orchid surrounded by white carnations.

Mrs. Charles Dowdy, of Bastrop, was her sister's matron of honor. She wore a pink organdy dress over polished cotton and a headdress of the same material to match her bouquet of pink carnations. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Florence Schwartz, of Philadelphia, Pa., and Miss Mary Ann Robinson. They were dressed like the matron of honor with Mrs. Schwartz in yellow and Miss Robinson, wearing blue.

Miss Deborah Ann Dowdy, niece of the bride, was the flower girl. She wore a dress of pink organdy with a blue pinafore trimmed in white lace. Her hat was of blue lace and she carried a bouquet of pink and blue carnations. The candles were lighted by Miss Doris Fuller and Miss Le Jean Davis. They were dressed alike in light green organdy, and wore white hats and corsages of white carnations.

Jack Lee Henry was the best man and the ushers were Andrew Cole, and Billy Gene Coughran.

A reception followed the ceremony in the home of the bride's parents. Mrs. Fuller received her guests in a sheath dress of navy blue silk with white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. She was assisted by Mrs. Whitten, who chose a brown dress with large white collar and white corsage for her son's wedding.

White summer flowers decorated the house and in the dining room, the bride's table was covered with a lace cloth and centered with an arrangement of shasta daisies and gardenias. The tiered wedding cake was decorated with pink rose buds and topped with a miniature bride and groom. Miss Pat Fuller and Miss Pamella Fuller served the cake and Mrs. Jean Chambers presided at the punch service, Miss Emma Jo Watts registered the guests.

Later in the evening, Mr. and Mrs. Whitten left on their wedding trip to the Gulf Coast. On their return they will reside in Crew Lake. Mrs. Whitten traveled in a pink crystallette dress featuring a low neckline trimmed in pearls and rhinestones, her accessories matched.

Lightly brown bite - size shredded wheat cereal in butter and sprinkle with a favorite seasoning. Good for nibbling and to serve with a hot or chilled soup. Delicious, too, with tomato juice.

Mitchell-Ramsey Nuptials Said In Farmerville

In a candlelight ceremony at 7 o'clock Friday at the First Baptist Church in Farmerville, Miss Kay Frances Ramsey and Mr. Monroe Barr Mitchell, Jr. pledged their nuptial vows.

The bride is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Flether Ramsey. Mr. Mitchell is the son of Mr. Monroe Mitchell Sr., and the late Mrs. Mitchell of Lake Park, Georgia.

The impressive double ring ceremoney was performed by the Rev. Luther B. Hall, pastor of the church, before an altar banked with palms and ivy, with mass arrangements of white gladioli, fever few, and tall white cathedral tapers in branched candelabra entwined in ivy.

Mrs. Frank Yelton presented an organ program of nuptial music, while the guests were ushered to their seats by Messers Stein Baughman, Jr., Joe Henry Baughman, Jr., and Jeff Lee and Mickey Strother. Lighting the tapers were Missers Stein Baughman, Jr., and Jeff Lee.

Miss Beth Dawkins sang "Because".

The bridesmaids were Miss Billy John Dukes and Miss Myrna Hall of Farmerville, Miss Wanda Rodgen of Minden and Mrs. Dan Brown of Dallas, Texas. They wore identical ballerenia length dresses of pink crystenline. Maid of honor was Miss Ann Gillum, a cousin of the bride. She wore a matching dress of blue crystenline. Their colonial bouquets were fashioned of pink and white carnations.

Mr. Stein Baughman, Sr. was best man. The bride wore a waltz length gown of white Cantilly type lace and tulle over taffeta with an overskirt of embroidered tulle with lace, fashioned with a scooped necked bodice and long traditional sleeves that extended into points over the wrist.

A matching head piece trimmed in sequins and pearls held the shoulder length veil of illusion. She carried a purple orchid mounted with white carnations.

When the vows were exchanged the couple knelt as Miss Beth Dawkins sang "The Lord's Prayer".

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Blue Room of the church. Miss Charlotte Ann Brown, cousin of the bride, of Columbia, presided at the guest book.

The theme of pink, green and white was carried out in the decorations of gladioli and greenery.

The bride's table was covered with a pink cloth with a full gathered floor length white net skirt over pink. Small clusters of valley lilies held corner interest over the pink skirt. The table was centrally adorned with the attendant bouquets, of pink and white carnations, and illumined by white candles in crystal candelabra.

At the wedding cake was Miss Barbara Anderson, and assisting her were Miss Carol Joyce Waller and Miss Suellen Brantly of Shreveport, cousin of the bride. Miss Beth Dawkins presided at the punch bowl.

1st Baptists In West Monroe Have Proved Leaders

It has remained for Mrs. H. L. Odom, 607 North Fourth street, West Monroe to prepare an interesting book, "The History of the First Baptist Church in West Monroe."

Only a limited number of copies are as yet available but the story as told is said to be of deepest interest. No church in north Louisiana has made the outstanding progress that this church has achieved, starting on or about 1920 when organized at a meeting in Crosley school. Today its membership is close to 4,000 and its property holdings are in excess of a million dollars.

An exceptional list of capable and far - seeing leaders in both pulpit and pew are responsible for this progress, and the religious life of West Monroe has been largely shaped through the efforts of this great church, it was stated.

HERE TO FORM NEW CHURCH—The Rev. J. R. Babb, secretary-director of the La. Christian Missionary society, above, will aid in forming St. John's Christian church. He will preach at 8:30 a.m. today in Lexington school, temporary quarters of the new church. The public is cordially invited.

HOW THEY SANG!—This motion picture will be shown at 8 p.m. today at Prairie Road Church of God, Monroe. It will be displayed in connection with a revival that opens today at the church named. The Rev. Albert W. Conn, Big Spring, Tex., revival leader, will bring the messages. The revival will be held nightly through July 1. The public is cordially invited.

Rayville Pastor Announces Theme For His Services

The church school has classes for all ages and meets at 9:45 a.m. The following groups meet Sunday at 6:30 p.m., Senior MYF; Junior MYF and the choir and Carol choir.

Tallulah Greets Pastor And Wife At Their Return

TALLULAH, La. (Special) —In appreciation of the return of the Rev. William F. Mayo to the pastorate of the Tallulah Methodist church for a new church year, the ladies of the church entertained with "open house" in the fellowship hall of the church on Sunday afternoon.

Receiving with the Rev. and Mrs. Mayo and their daughters, Frances and Susan, were Mrs. W. H. Hale, president of the Womans Society of Christian Service, Mrs. Ruth Patterson, chairman of the board of trustees, Max McDonald, superintendent of the Sunday School and A. M. Stewart, chairman of the official board of the church. Mrs. Mayo was wearing a corsage of white carnations and the little girls had wrist corsages of pink flowers, gifts of the congregation.

Beautiful and artistic flower arrangements decorated the hall. The refreshment table overlaid with a white cloth had as a centerpiece an especially pretty bouquet of white gladioli and white and green caladium leaves flanked by silver candelabra holding green tapers. Silver trays of delectable sandwiches, cookies, salted nuts and mints were served. Alternating at the silver punch service were Mrs. W. T. Renfro, Mrs. L. J. Kathan, Miss Billye Davis and Mrs. Ruth Patterson. They were assisted by the tea girls, Misses Ann Powell, Patsy Perkins, Betty Speed, Kay Harvey and Lynda Stephenson.

Background music was played throughout the afternoon by Mrs. W. B. Adams and Thurston Smith. Over two hundred members and friends of the congregation were in attendance.

Bob Smith Named To Head State Youth Movement

Bob Smith, active in young people's groups at the Monroe First Christian church, was the past week, at a state convention of youth of the Christian churches held down state, elected state president.

He will preside at all sessions held by the organization named. His election was quite pleasing to many local friends.

Popovers with a tablespoon or two of melted butter added to the batter taste extra delicious.

REVIVAL LEADER—Rev. Tom Hall, young preacher, will hold a revival at Good Hope Baptist church in West Monroe starting today and lasting through July 1. He also will be heard today at 1 p.m. over a local radio station program.

Southside Will Have New Baptist Church Formed

A group of consecreated Christians are devoting time and efforts to organize a Baptist church in the southside of Monroe. At this time they are meeting in the Plum street school and each Sunday there is a goodly number present. The enrollment is 76.

After many names for the church were presented, one chosen for adoption was "Victory Baptist church."

The mission will be fully organized as a Southern Baptist church soon.

Many Baptist church members are backing this new church.

The public is cordially invited to attend the services each Sunday.

Where To Place Separate Oven

Are you planning to install a separate oven? The growing popularity of the separate oven and the top-of-the-stove burners makes necessary certain adjustments in standardized kitchen arrangement.

A separate oven and a counter-top-burner require more floor space than a range. Be sure your floor area is adequate to accommodate the separate units without reducing minimum counter space — counter space must be provided next to the oven.

Placing of the oven is important. It is undesirable to place the oven between any two centers when they are arranged in a straight line. The work flow from one center to the other is blocked. Locations recommended for separate ovens are: Opposite the mix and sink center, extreme end of kitchen sequence next to the service center, on a corner between any two centers.

The primary advantage of a separate oven is that you can have it installed at a convenient height for you. This means that you can have maximum comfort and safety if the oven is installed at the correct height for you.

Confortable height of the oven depends more on the homemaker's elbow height than on her standing height. Place the oven so that the top side of the fully opened oven door is between 1 and 7 inches below your elbow height. The preferred level is either 3 or 5 inches below the elbow because it is easier lifting and turning of foods in the oven.

Decorative Foliage Plants From Seed

Plants with decorative foliage are especially useful to new homeowners who need screen background plantings at small expense. If landscape plants have not fully taken shape and it is desired to test the effect of a large permanent shrub in a certain place before actually planting it, the gigantic castorbean can be grown in a few weeks. A beautiful plant eight feet tall and as large in diameter can be grown from one small bean. The leaves are huge and beautifully shaped with bronze or maroon coloring.

The Zanzibar strain will produce plants 12 feet tall in favorable locations provideed they are supplied with plenty of Vigoro and plenty of moisture.

For a low hedge around a flower border, or to serve any similar purpose, the fine - leafed fireplant, Kochia, is excellent. Bushes 2½ feet high with light green foliage can be grown singly or close enough together to be trimmed as a hedge. In the late summer, the leaves turn to crimson. The softly brilliant coloring of plants reaches its full brilliance in a sunny location. Kochia grows quickly from seed. A mass planting in a front - yard focal point is highly decorative. New leaves develop throughout the summer and the colors never fade.

In hot, sunny locations, amaranthus tri - color, often called Joseph's Coat, will attain its finest coloring. The inner foliage is of blackest bronze tipped with green; the outer, bright scarlet and gold.

Mulched Plants Need Nitrogen

A light top dressing of nitrate of soda should be applied to plants which have been mulched. Apply fertilizer just before or just after a rain, or water it in well with the hose.

Winners Of Dress Contest

Each dress entered in the contest could have been declared a winner as far as quality of work done by the home demonstration women — but as all contests go — a winner had to be declared. Mrs. A. L. Sweeney, McGuire club placed first; Mrs. Cleburne White, Cadeville club, second and Mrs. Herbert Strozier, Drew Club placed third. In making these garments the women followed trade method of construction. There were 24 women who modeled their costumes in this contest. Ouachita will participate in the state contest held during Farm and Home Week at L. S. U. August 6-13.

Prune Spring Bloomers

Plants that should be pruned now are: Spireas, deutzia, philadelphus, forsythia, flowering quince and azaleas. Some require heavy pruning, others a good practice is to remove some of the oldest branches to allow new growth.

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

Readers Voice Complaints About Bothersome Noises

Not long ago I wrote about the detrimental effect constant noise has on the nervous system. It is a scientific fact that noise is fatiguing. We all know this to be true. It even has been suggested that children would grow up with much steadier nerves were they not subjected to the continual noise and confusion of modern living. For this reason some authorities feel that children should be limited as to the time they can listen to the radio or look at television.

I have received such a large amount of mail in response to the column about this and so many requests that I again call the problem to the attention of the public that I am again doing so.

Here are a few quotations from recent reader mail: "One nuisance you didn't mention, which we suffer from every single day, is the sound of a typewriter set on a shaky table in the apartment above us. Since there are no rugs on the floor the sound is so nerve-racking that we are sometimes forced to leave our apartment, and on Sundays when we would like to rest at home in the afternoon, we have to go to the park or a friend's house."

"Your article about noise should be on the front page, not on the 20th where I found it. We recently moved into an apartment and furnished it at our own expense. We would be much happier and healthier if our neighbor would lower her TV and radio. Also, they get up at 6 a.m. while we do not have to get up until 7:30. However, the noise they create makes it impossible for us to sleep a minute later than they do."

"I just have to write to thank you for your article about noise. We have neighbors who moved in not long ago. They have young children. Words cannot describe the noise they make. The mother yells and screams at the children from morning until 10:30 p.m. when they finally go to bed. The children slam doors and run in and out of the house all day long. We bought our home and cannot afford to move because of the financial loss we would suffer but my health is actually being affected. I am tired all the time."

When we live close together we cannot always plan our life to suit our neighbors entirely but we can try to annoy them as little as possible. In many instances it is possible to lead our own lives without harassing those who live near us if we will think in these terms.

We cannot keep small children quiet, nor would we wish to, but it is bad for a child to be screamed at and doors easily can be fitted with equipment which keeps them from banging. Also, little children should be asleep long before nine o'clock at night. We can put a rug under the typewriter table and use the typewriter at reasonable hours.

To turn the radio or the television set up high so that you can hear it from all parts of your house or so that you can listen to a ball game while you work in the yard, or to stomp about while others are asleep, is the last word in being inconsiderate. You actually may be injuring the health of your neighbor.

If you would like my leaflet "Individual Happiness," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 65 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Plant Dahlias Now For Fall Blossoms

The winds have blown a number of limbs, especially from the pecan trees. Most of these limbs have been ripped from the tree, leaving open wounds. Some have been broken off, leaving stumps on the trunk. Paint the wound with tree seal. If there's a stump, saw this off and treat the open cut. Tree seal can now be bought at seed stores and nurseries in small containers. Leaving open wounds on your tree invites diseases and insects that will give you trouble later on.

Gardening

You can still buy cloves plants to give color in your flower beds during the summer. It would be wise to shade these with newspapers during the day for several days after transplanting on account of the hot sun.

These are no dahlia tubers in the stores (at least I couldn't locate . There are plants that can be purchased, in buckets or pots. Really, this is the best time to plant the tuberous roots or "potatoes," because they are primarily fall bloomers. Of course a few dahlias are blooming now. Those were either planted early or left in the ground over winter. These early bloomers are not as large and do not have as good color as the fall bloomers. The sun is so hot in the summer months. Even the blossoms when cut are not good keepers. Dahlias planted now will sprout and grow through the summer months and when the fall weather begins to set in, they will be ready to give you blossoms.

Dahlias blooming now can be cut to the ground. They'll sprout again, putting on new growth for the fall. In dahlia culture drainage is important. The fleshy "potatoes" are quite susceptible to rot if the soil is too wet. If you have good natural drainage, fine, but if not — raise the beds. Place a stake when planting, so as not to injure the tubers later on when staking is necessary. The stems of this plant are too weak to hold up the blossoms.

When about three sets of leaves appear, you should pinch out the top of the plant. This produces bushiness, giving more stems, therefore more flowers.

Dahlia plants should be no closer than three feet apart. Four feet would be better. A scant sprinkling of fertilizer around the plants once a month is advisable. Use any balanced food such as 8-8-8. If you have heavy soil with poor drainage, plant "potatoes" three or four inches deep. In good soil with good drainage they should be planted four to six inches deep. Dahlias are susceptible to mildew and they have moisture, so in spells of dry weather you'll have to bring out the old hose.

Around the House

An occasional shampoo will keep an umbrella looking fresh and clean. The bathtub is a good place to wash, rinse and dry the umbrella. Open it over the tub and go over the inside with a soft brush dipped in lukewarm soapsuds. The center fold of each section is the part that needs most attention. Wash gently to avoid strain on the stretched fabric. To rinse the umbrella hold it under the shower spray or pour water fom a pan over it. Leave open until dry. Now the reconditioned umbrella is ready for the next rainy day.

Did you know that nylon satin and tricot knit slips cut on the lengthwise grain will cause less static electricity than those cut crosswise or on the bias? Textile researchers found that the weave of the fabric has as much to do with causing static electricity as the fiber content.

Don't throw out table covers because they are worn. You can get further service out of them if you turn them into new - looking linen by dyeing them a new color and cutting them into place mats.

Now on the market is a bottle opener that can re-seal bottles factory - tight with the original cap, as well as open them. You should be seeing these soon.

Food News and Recipes

Milk has been rated as man's most perfect food for many centuries, but only in recent years has proper credit been given to dry and evaporated milk. Families can save up to one - half or more on the milk bill by using these two easily stored foods. They both contain the protein, calcium and other minerals, ribo-flavin and most of the other vitamins of whole milk. Only water has been removed.

The dry milk can be purchased in the non-fat form for those watching calories. Non - fat dry milk can be substituted for whipped cream for delicious desserts. Just add equal amounts of the milk and ice water and beat. Add sugar. A drop or two of vanilla extract will improve the taste.

Canned evaporated milk can be used in the same way. Chill the milk, beater and bowl. Whip, preferably in an electric beater. Sweeten and add flavoring. Here is a delicious quick ice cream the children will like.

Quick Peach Ice Cream

1 large can evaporated milk (chilled).

1 tablespoon lemon juice.

6 crushed fresh peach halves or 1 No. 303 can of peach halves, crushed.

½ to ¾ cups sugar

Beat the milk, add other ingredients. Put in ice tray to freeze. Cover with wax paper. The paper keeps the ice cream from being icy. You can substitute strawberries, crushed bananas or any other fruit for the peaches. Now that fresh peaches are coming to market, you'll enjoy their Vitamin C "deliciousness."

You know, ice cream loses none of its food values in the making. In fact, it picks up a little energy with the addition of sugar. Here again, for calorie watchers, you can buy iced milk.

For a real conversation piece for the family or for guests prepare baked Alaska. This you can get ready to serve, all except the last step, while family and - or guests are talking after the main course. Slip in the kitchen, finish the dessert, bring to the table with a knife for slicing. Here is the recipe:

Baked Alaska.

A brick of ice cream the same shape as the cake.

1 cup confectioners' sugar.

Beat egg whites. Add sugar and beat until dry. Place the layers of cake on an oven plate or platter, put brick of ice cream on top of cake (be sure ice cream is no larger than cake). Cover completely with egg whites. The eggs act as an insulator, so don't leave even one little hole that isn't covered. Bake in a preheated oven, takes from three to five minutes. (No, the ice cream won't melt. Slice for serving.

SHADES OF GREEN were featured in this arrangement by John A. Wright of Louisiana Tech, Ruston. Chinese holly, Bois D'Arc balls, green grapes and Daubentonia seed pods on a bamboo mat, are combined in an interesting summer arrangement.

Garden Center Notes

By Mary M. Jardine

Wright To Have Show Each Month At Center

A new feature of the Garden Center will be a one-man show by John A. Wright of Louisiana Tech on the third Wednesday of each month. Mr. Wright will create and discuss the arrangements on television and they will be shown in the Garden Center Wednesday through Saturday. Mr. Wright's show this week was of particular interest as it featured "containers" that were not necessarily designed to hold flowers. A wealth of beautiful and unusual plant material provided by local gardeners created much interest and comment. The first of Mr. Wright's arrangements was triangular in design and featured various shades of green. A large needlepoint holder was placed on a bamboo mat which served as a container. The triangular line was formed with glossy green leaves of the Chinese Holly (Ilex cornuta). Bois D'Arc balls (osage orange) in yellow green strengthened the line. Green concord grapes and the seed pods of Daubentonia (red rattle-box) and green sweet gum balls completed the design. A most interesting combination of textures and pleasing blending of greens.

A mahogany colored basket was featured in the next design. The basket was low, round and had a handle. Red leaf barberry was arranged in a triangular pattern allowing the handle of the basket to show. As a matter of fact it was so designed that the entire arrangement could be picked up by the handle of the basket and moved from place to place. Branches of dark red crabapples enhanced the line and deep wine red zinnias were used as a center of interest. This delightful arrangement was staged against a rosy pink background.

Green and white were the colors chosen for the line-mass arrangement in a clear plastic bowl. Tall spikes of equisetum were placed in the background followed by the lovely white flowers of the cruel vine wired to stay in place). The needle point holder was concealed by large pieces of glass slag which have a frosty look. Clusters of snow on the mountain were placed low just above the glass slag. Staged against a pale yellow-green background the effect was most refreshing and cool.

Another interesting arrangement was made in a small brass teapot. The handle of the teapot was raised and the line pattern of variegated privet hedge was arranged behind it. Blaze zinnias in a fiery orange-scarlet color created the center of interest.

Diagonal lines were featured in a pewter pitcher. Aspidistra leaves formed the background for small rosy pink hydrangeas. Larger blue hydrangeas were placed in the center of the design. The soft patina of the unpolished pewter was very pleasing with these flowers.

A wicker wine basket also demanded diagonal lines. Strong placements of aspidistra and pedilanthus, with the seed pods of alstromeria for interest, formed the pattern. The design was completed with Picard glads. This arrangement looks well from both sides and would be a "conversation piece" if used on a large coffee table in the patio.

The Welcome Garden Club will bring Mrs. Marie Johnson Fort to Monroe in October. Mrs. Fort is well known throughout the United States for her beautiful flower arrangement demonstrations. Also she is author of that delightful book "Flower Arrangements for All Occasions". Dr. Katherine Foster, President of the club, announces that it will be an open meeting and flower lovers in the Fifth District will be invited to attend. The exact date will be announced later. Also Mrs. Fort will teach Flower Arranging in Flower Show School No. V. which also will be held in Monroe in October. In School V the lectures will feature Period Arrangements, tables, corsages. In the Horticulture school there will be lectures on Landscape Design and standards of judging roses, peony, dahlias and chrysanthemums.

In connection with Flower Show Schools I want to remind you students about the books on the reading list. We have them all in our Garden Center library. Those summer hyacinths (galtonias) I mentioned earlier are about to bloom. Hope to have one in the Center next week.

SOUTHERN GARDENER—

By William Lanier Hunt

Green Foliage For Ground Cover

The different kinds of spider-lilies, the miniature amaryllis and the yellow sternbergias all have evergreen foliage which makes a beautiful ground cover in winter. You can plant these bulbs in hundreds and thousands under your trees. Of course, the soil must be fairly rich under the trees, and you will have to fertilize heavily with bone meal and then top dress the area once a year with bone meal to keep them going. A top dressing with complete chemical fertilizer just before the leaves come out in September will feed the trees and the bulbs, too.

Of course, you cannot keep any of the above bulbs going underneath evergreen trees like hollies and magnolias or under such thick topped conifers as hemlocks. The foliage of the bulbs must have winter sun to develop it. Under non-evergreen trees, the leaves of the bulbs can develop adequately before they are shaded out in spring.

Sternbergias can be planted in patches of about one hundred with two to four inches between the bulbs. Of course, just single ones and a few together are beautiful because their color, a sort of light golden yellow, is very pleasing. They will bloom almost in the dust during the hot September days. In fact, if you forget to plant them, they will stick their flowers through the sack they are in and bloom anyway.

We now know that sternbergias are tested, tried and true tough little bulbs that succeed if you keep them fed. They can remain for years and years in the same spot in good soil without being touched. Like spider-lilies, they grow right under the surface not more than an inch or so.

The miniature amaryllis, not so well known as spider-lilies and sterbergias, send up their dainty red flowers in late August —sometimes earlier — and on into the fall. These little amaryllises are but one species among several wild ones in Chile. We hope that we shall soon have more of the different species from down there because they like Southern gardens up here. Even yellow ones and striped red and yellows grow in Chile.

Besides the top dressings with bone meal and complete fertilizer you can give your bulbs under trees an occasional top dressing of rich soil by just scattering it over the surface a half inch deep. A mulch of leaves or pine needles should be kept over the bulbs, too. Nature would not leave the soil bare. Under such care, your trees will thrive and your bulbs will grow and flower bountifully.

CAMERA NEWS

I dreamed last night of a wonderful photo vacation. I saw the exciting, historic sights of Europe and interesting people in colorful costumes and old - world occupations.

Peculiar thing, though, in my dream my head was a camera and every time I blinked my eye, a picture clicked at the back of my head. I seemed to be part of a small group of similar camera-craniums and everywhere we turned there were constant eye-blinkings and clickings.

Hoevering over us, like a mother hen with a brood of chicks, was another camera - head. It wasn't larger or older but seemed wiser and more experienced. This one guided us to the best scenic spots and clucked approvingly while we clicked.

Pretty soon we were all trailing streamers of pictures from the backs of our heads and when we weren't seeing sights we'd stop to examine and discuss the pictures.

Then I reached for my own picture - pigtail. I must have tugged too hard. The back of my head flew open and out tumbled a roll of mental pictures which turned black when it hit the light.

Everything turned black — and suddenly I was awake, staring into the night!

I know what did it — something I ate.

It was the smorgasbord I had with Homer Page earlier in the evening. Yep, mix a foreign dish with talk of Homer's upcoming schedule and you're bound to get delightful deliriums.

But where are my manners? I forgot a proper introduction.

You all know who you are— and this is Homer Page. (Pssst— lean a little closer and I'll tell you privately about Homer. He's a youngish 38 — studied photography on a Guggenheim fellowship— favors the documentary type of photos — had an exhibit of his pictures at the Museum of Modern Art in New York — was an assistant to Edward Steichen, the Museum's director of photography — and lately traveled from Alaska to the Congo on magazine and industrial photo assignments.)

Right now, Homer's all keyed up with the possible fulfillment of an idea he's been mulling over for years. That is to lead an intimate group of amateur camera fans on a picture taking tour of Europe over territory he has already covered and knows. Like a real teacher, he wants to share and spread his knowledge in a quiet, helpful, suggestive manner not as a pedagogue or lecturer spouting technical instructions.

Fortunately, after many discouraging interviews, he found a sympathetic official with a tourist agency. He was sympathetic because he was also a camera fan. Together they arranged a six week itinerary to start from New York in late August and which would include Europe's largest photo fair, the Photokina at Cologne, Germany.

JOHN WAYNE and Jeffrey Hunter start their epic quest in "The Searchers," C. V. Whitney Pictures production in VistaVision and Technicolor, set against the backdrop of the spectacular American southwest. Produced by Merian C. Cooper and directed by John Ford for Warner Bros. release, the film will have its initial showing locally today at the Paramount Theater.

Wayne, Ford, Cooper Star In 'The Searchers'

John Wayne, moviedom's top box - office personality, is perhaps the film industry's biggest enigma. A man of many parts, the correlation between his keen mind and powerful body has been hard to figure out.

The big, slow - speaking, but dynamic Wayne, currently starring in the spectacular Technicolor and Vista Vision production, "The Searchers," the C. V. Whitney picture, presented by Warner Bros., is, for instance, one of the finest bridge players in the film industry. He also rates high with the chess men.

He is an exceptionally keen-minded man, belying completely the deliberate thinking type he portrays so convincingly on the screen, and has, in fact, parlayed his business acumen into a great fortune.

Many people, knowing his biography as a college football player who left the University of Southern California at the end of his sophomore year to work as a property man for the movies, are prone to mark him off as just another beefy football hero.

The facts are that Wayne was an excellent student, both at USC and at Glendale High school, and a fine mind, with the aid of great character and determination, has made him one of the best informed men in Hollywood. He is widely read, and has an incisive, probing mind.

He is also a perfectionist. Anything he does, he does as well as he is able and any carelessness or sloppiness on the part of others irks him.

To those who know him, no mystery at all exists as to how he reached the top among the film's money - making stars. Keen brains, ambitiously directed, got him to the top and a well managed career has kept him up there.

Chances are that no top star in the business knows every angle of movie making as well as Wayne. He has been identified with movie making for almost thirty years. He knows every phase of it, having started as a property man at the Fox Studios when, for economic reasons his collegiate career came to an abrupt end in his sophomore year. He has been an actor in a hundred pictures, from top budgeted productions such as "The Searchers," "Stagecoach," "Red River," "The High and the Mighty" "The Quiet Man" and others, to quickie Westerns shot in a week.

He has made many pictures for his mentor and great friend, John Ford, winner of six Academy Awards, who directed him in "The Searchers." He has acted for Howard Hawks, Cecil B. DeMille, William Wellman and other fine directors. And all the time Wayne has continued to learn and know the film business.

His friends predict that shortly Wayne will become a director, as well as a producer, and that he will be an outstanding one. After all, he has had a million dollar apprenticeship.

As said, Wayne is truly a perfectionist. He demonstrates this while on the set, where he always is prompt, always alert for his cue. He knows his lines, and also the dialogue of the other actors. He is ever helping them out with thoughtful suggestions, encouraging them in difficult scenes.

A man's man, Wayne enjoys boating, fishing, hunting, riding, swimming, and is a camera enthusiast. He is happily married to the former Pilar Palette, beautiful Peruvian actress. They live on a four - acre estate in Encino, outside Hollywood.

In "The Searchers" Wayne portrays a hard - bitten Texas, who returns to his home to find his two nieces stolen by raiding Comanche Indians. It is the story of the grim and unrelenting five year search by Wayne and Jeffrey Hunter for the stolen girls that reportedly makes "the Searchers" one of the most exciting Western adventure stories filmed in years.

In Hollywood

By Jimmy Fidler

Vivian Blaine's New Role

HOLLYWOOD: . . . June 24—I watched Vivian Blaine from the sidelines on the set of "Public Pigeon Number One" at RKO, while she went through a very snappy song - and - dance routine with a chorus line. When their choreographer gave them the nod, the girls went off to sit in the sun, and Vivian joined me.

I told her to take it easy, catch her breath — we had plenty of time.

The vivacious blonde flashed a smile and said, "Why, I'm not tired! I'm not even revved up yet!"

Vivian played 'Adelaide' in "Guys and Dolls", both on the Broadway stage and in the movie. She said, "I love 'Adelaide'. We're the best of friends But we need a vacation from each other. I'm going dramatic. I'm doing it to prove I've got something more on the ball than song-and-dance routines. I've got to prove it to myself as much as anybody else."

The actress unconsciously slowed down in her speech and her face assumed a serious expression as she sought words to describe what may well be the next big turning point in her already impressive theatrical and motion-picture career.

"I'm convinced," she said, "that it takes a lot of living for a human being to really become an adult. Emotions must be experienced before they can be projected by an actress. I've had my share of emotional experiences and I've learned not to be afraid of them. I'm ready for serious roles. I'm not geared to sit around and wait to be discovered. That's why I'm going to Broadway to do "Hatful of Rain". And it's in my contract that when the show goes on tour, I go with it, all the way back here to Hollywood. That's how I plan to show what I can do, to movie directors. Then, I hope, there will be no question about my doing a variety of movie parts instead of just these gay laughing girls in musical comedy.'

Miss Blaine is no stranger to Hollywood. Her career started a few years ago, just as most young hopefuls' who are brought here by a talent scout, given a big publicity buildup, a small role — and then, nothing. Or perhaps another, and another and another,—always the same. If they start as singers, singers they remain. Vivian, like all the rest, was profoundly impressed with Hollywood her first time around. It was to be her Big Chance.

"But," she confessed, "I was frightened. I had all sorts of fears. So I listened to everybody, emulated other actresses, took whatever advice was handed to me, never questioned anything and never offered my own opinion. I was afraid to open my mouth, because I thought everybody else knew more about the business than I did. A lot of them did. I was appalled at my own ignorance.

"I felt myself slipping away — from myself! I couldn't think straight.

I realized that I had to find out for myself just what show business was all about, on every level, not just movies. I gathered strength to do something about it. It wasn't easy to walk away from Hollywood, but I simply had to.

"I realized this when it dawned on me one day that I had always tried to live according to the rule: 'to Thine Own Self Be True' — and I wasn't doing it anymore. I made up my mind. The only way I could be true to myself was to get away from everybody else. I left Hollywood, and went on the road. I played everything, from summer-stock to one-night stands, to night-club dates to state Fairs! I learned what made show business tick — and started to tick on my own as well."

One incident at a state fair stands out in Miss Blaine's memory as the turning-point in her self-sufficiency. She was singing on a platform outdoors and suddenly it began to rain. Her audience scuttled away in every direction, but Vivian went right on belting out her number as only she can. And the people stopped in their muddy tracks, turned back to her —and stood in that pouring rain, until she finished. They applauded wildly — and just as suddenly as it had begun — the rain stopped and the sun came out!

"It was like an omen," Vivian recalls. "I realized finally, through that experience, that I had built up enough inner-security to make the big time. I wasn't afraid anymore. I had my own ideas, plenty of self-confidence and my fears had vanished.

STAMPS

The ties between the United States and Ireland have always been strong. This will be further emphasized when the U. S. Battle Monuments Commission presents to Ireland a statue of Commodore John Barry, Irish - American naval officer of the Revolutionary war. The statue will be unveiled in September at Wexford, Barry's birthplace.

To honor this event, the Eire postal officials will issue a special stamp in two denominations — three pence and one shilling three pence.

A later announcement will be made regarding the design, date of issuance and the servicing of first day covers.

The Free Chinese government on Formosa has issued a set of three new stamps commemorating the 75th anniversary of the founding of the Chinese railroads. The 800 green, 400 and 200 blue show the first type of locomotives used there and the latest.

picted on the adhesive are portraits of Jean Henry Dunant, founder of the International Red Cross, and Santiago Samper Bush, founder of the Colombia Red Cross at Bogota in 1902.

A new definitive set of 12 stamps has been issued by Swaziland, that little British protectorate in the southeastern part of the Transvaal in South Africa. Each stamp is bi-colored and bears a portrait of Queen Elizabeth plus a pictorial scene of the country.

Some of the sites depicted are an asbestos mine, Swadi men and women, Swazi warriors and a Highveld view.

Stamp notes . . . The latest in the countries honoring the 2500th anniversary of Buddha are Ceylon, Burma and Laos. The Laos set contains five stamps and the Burmese set has four . . . A 75 yen purple, yellow and gray stamp has been issued by Japan. It depicts a Japanese butterfly . . . Italy has issued a 25 lire green stamp for the 50th anniversary of the Simplon railroad tunnel . . . Indonesia issued two new stamps in tribute to the Asia Africa Conference. One design shows a hand holding a torch, a map and a book. The other design depicts a globe, doves of peace and people.

Hard Of Hearing Helped By Patented Invention!

U. S. Patent No. 2, 611, 829 has made possible an eyeglass hearing aid that requires no wire, no tube, no receiver or earmold, no device that "plugs in" either ear. Developed by Acousticon, oldest and leading manufacturer of electrical hearing aids, the invention makes possible more comfortable, inconspicuous correction for thousands who have hearing difficulties.

This exclusive invention is built right into the Spectacon eyeglass hearing aid. The eyeglass frames are made by a leading optical company and are available in any size. They make no sacrifice of optical standards.

You may see for yourself how this remarkable hearing development works—how it is as easy to put on or take off as any pair of glasses. Demonstration is free—see and hear for yourself, without obligation.

BOOKS

The stories of Liam O'Flaherty. Introducing by Vivian Mercier. Devin-Adair.

More than 400 generous pages containing 42 stories, most of them from previous O'Flaherty collections but a few never before in a book, make up this welcome volume from the author of memorable novels like "Famine" and "The Informer."

The characters are man, woman and child, the beasts in the barnyard and in the wild, the bird and fish, Life and Death, and Nature. The glamor of a tramp's hazardous existence is matched against the security enjoyed in an old folks' home; a tinker battles an intruder who courts one of his two wives; a man clouts his mare savagely for love of a girl. A cow follows her calf to death, a water hen mates, and so does a swan, a cat misses a blackbird by less than an inch of feathers, a conger eel outwriggles two angry men in a curragh.

These are stories of a primitive land where life, an infant, treads close after death, a shriveled old man. For all the art in the author, there is little or none in the dour existence of these people, who have no margin at all of safety, for whom a single cow separates living from starving, for whom the extra catch of fish is worth the deadly danger of swiftly gathering storms. Even where fortune smiles on a quick-witted fellow, the envy of his mates is savage and hateful.

The collection opens with a half dozen slight, indifferent pieces, the only ones in the entire book. The rest are marvels of insight and artistry, whether they evoke a tenuous mood or mount to a thrilling climax.

Gone With The Wind's 20th Anniversary

Margaret Mitchell's "Gone With the Wind," published on June 30, 1936 by Macmillan, is still one of the most widely read books in the world. Total sales in all languages are now about 8,000,000 copies; in Engish alone printings have run to about 5,000,000. The number of readers of each library (and borrowed - from -a -friend) copy is beyond estimate. It has been printed in Braille and recorded on Talking Book records for the blind. The moving picture, since its gala opening in Atlanta in 1939, has been on circuit throughout the United States five times, has been shown in nearly every country, and has won thirteen awards.

As the world knows, Margaret Mitchell died in Atlanta on August 16, 1949, from injuries sustained in a tragic accident.

Pensacola's annual salt water fishing rodeo will begin July 4 for a six-week period with prizes totaling $10,000 in value, Roland Wolfe, of the Pensacola Sports association, announced this week.

Prizes will be awarded in seven major and 14 minor categories of fish, Wolfe said. Capital prizes will be awarded for the largest fish of each type caught during the entire six-week period, but as an added attraction for summer visitors, prizes also will be awarded for each two-week period.

The seven types of fish regarded as "major" are pompano, Spanish mackerel, red snapper, grouper, ling, king mackerel and speckled tourt. The "minor" fish are skipjack, bonita, dolphin, crevalle, hardtails, tarpon, redfish, flounder, warsaw, bluefish, white tourt, whiting, amberjack and sheepshead.

While some of the fish listed for prizes can ordinarily be taken only from deep-sea charter or private boats, Wolfe pointed out that many can be caught from wharves, piers, jetties or even from the beach, while still others can be caught from skiffs with outboard motors.

In the principal rodeo, all fish entered must be taken on a line, but there is a separate division with separate prizes for skin divers. However, Wolfe said that commercial fishermen are barred from the rodeo and rules have been drawn to enable the judges, whose decision will be final in all cases, to determine eligibility of catches.

Last year, according to Wolfe, about 3,000 persons participated in the rodeo at Pensacola. Of these, about half were summer visitors.

Entry blanks may be obtained by writing the Anglers and Hunters Club of Pensacola, P. O. Box 401.

The Adventures of Robin Hood tomorrow will present "Queen Eleanor", starring Richard Greene with Jill Esmond as the queen. Eleanor of Aquitaine, mother of Richard the Lion Heart, tours England to raise the ransom for her captive son. While the Sheriff of Nottingham plots to capture the ransom money, Robin Hood conceives a brilliant counter-scheme.

Garry Moore presents "Of All Things" starring Faye Emerson as a summer replacement for the "Garry Moore Show" which vacations from July 23 through August 31.

Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz will head a long list of the "giants" of show business in paying tribute to "The Ed Sullivan Show" on its eighth anniversary, Sunday, June 24.

"Topper" is certainly getting a workout on TV. After being run and re-run on two other networks, the series now is going through the NBC mill, Sundays at 5 p.m. It will be on the network for 17 weeks, which means it is a summer replacement.

The show singer Jaye P. Morgan is doing Wednesdays and Fridays for NBC as summer replacement for Eddie Fisher is really a family affair. The star is backed by Charlie, Bod, Dick and Duke Morgan, who are really her brothers.

Lawrence Welk has received the honorary degree of Doctor of Fine Arts from the University of Portland (Ore.).

Record Review

Popular Records

Epic Records got such an excellent response to its "Here Come the Girls" series that it decided to follow through with a similar selection by male stars of now and then.

The result is a formidable LP called "Great Moments in Show Business." It leads off with Walter Houston's nostalgic "September Song" and ends 10 numbers later with Eddie (Rochester) Anderson singing "Waintin' for Me."

In between are real collector's items, such as "I Know Darn Well I can Do Without Broadway" sung by Jimmie Durante, Will Clayton and Eddie Jackson back in 1929 and "Rock-a-Bye Your Baby With a Dixie Melody" by Al Jolson recorded in 1932. Also included are songs by Gene Raymond, the Dick Powell of the early musicals, and Cliff Edwards.

Harry Belafonte long ago made a name for himself as a calypso singer, but for the first time RCA Victor has made an entire album of Caribbean numbers by this fine Negro artist. It's labeled "Calypso" and features Belafonte on 11 sides.

If you've never heard of Claire Austin, you'll want to hear her many times after listening to her songs on "When Your Lover Has Gone," a Contemporary release which gives her solid backing by Bob Scobey on the trumpet, Barney Kessel on the guitar, Stan Wrightsman on the piano, Morty Corb on the bass and Shelly Manne on the drums.

Best Bargain: Columbia has waxed 12 numbers by a dozen different artists on a low-priced LP, "Having Wonderful Time," which was issued to familiarize record collectors with the Columbia showcase. But it's a top collection that includes Errol Garner's "Summer Time" and Frankie Laine's "That Old Feeling," as well as numbers by Sammy Kaye, Frank Sinatra etc.

Other recommended LP's: "Pearl Bailey," 12 impressions by a notabe stylist, among them "Takes Two to Tango" and "Runnin' Wild" (Epic) . . . "Wide, Wide World," being the theme music and incidental compositions heard on Dave Garroway's TV spectacular (RCA- Victor) . . . "Swing Low in Hi Fi," a collection of spirituals arranged for orchestra and conducted by Percy Faith (Columbia).

Best revivals: "Oh Monah" by Ted Weems and his Orchestra (Bally), "They Can't Take That Away from Me" by Peggy Lee (Decca).

'Toy Tiger' Same Appeal As 'Major Benson' Hit

It may be difficult to imagine a picture about little boys more charming and heartwarming —and funnier — than Universal-International's "The Private War of Major Benson," but the same studio has come up with a more than worthy successor in its new Technicolor comedy, "Toy Tiger," which opened today at the Jim Theatre with Jeff Chandler, Laraine Day and little Tim Hovey in its starring roles.

The new film, which reunites the "Major Benson" director, Jerry Hopper, and young master Hovey, is the story of a fatherless youngster who wants a male parent so badly that he invents one —and then has to produce him for the benefit of some skeptics at his school.

Of course it's little Tim who plays the fatherless boy and he gives a performance that confirms the judgment of the many critics who hailed him last year as the best child actor to come along in at least a decade. Again he plays masterfully upon the emotions of the audience, evoking gales of laughter one moment and then wells of tears the next.

Jeff Chandler, playing his first comedy role in motion pictures, is a happy selection for the role of the random-chosen father. Not only does he exhibit an expert flair for comedy but he is tremendously effective in the more sentimental moments of the film. There is a warmth and tenderness in his acting which makes it altogether believable to the audience when he accepts the fatherhood that Tim thrusts upon him.

Laraine Day couldn't have picked a better role for her return to the screen after an absence of several years than that of Tim's mother. As a big wheel in an advertising agency, she is, on the surface, a hard and brittle career woman. This gives Miss Day a wonderful opportunity —and she makes the most of it — to contrast this surface personality with that of the tender-hearted mother she portrays when she isn't at the office.

Produced by Howard Christie from a screenplay by Ted Sherdeman, "Toy Tiger" benefits immensely from the same sympathetic direction that Jerry Hopper gave to "The Private War of Major Benson."

South, 1 spade; West, 2 hearts; North, 3 clubs; East, Pass.

South, Pass; West, Pass.

Opening lead: Two of hearts.

There are few fields in which patience is so well rewarded as it is at the card table. I have little sympathy for a declarer who, half way thru the hand, tosses in his cards and concedes defeat with some such attendant remark as "I can't eat the two diamonds." He may well eat his words.

Even hopeless hands should be played out by declarer in the vague hope that the opponents may commit an indiscretion. Similarly on the defense, when there is no conceivable way to defeat a contract, if you keep plugging away, a declarer will occasionally defeat himself. Working on that theory, East and West in today's hand defeated contract that was absolutely ironclad.

Against the very logical contract of four spades West opened the two of hearts. East won with the queen. It was quite apparent to East that the contract was "in the bag," but there was no harm in trying. It was clear that declarer did not have very many entries back to his own hand, and to make them fewer East returned the king of hearts, compelling dummy to ruff.

This gave declarer the impression that East held the king of spades and was trying to prevent its being picked up on repeated finesses. Declarer thereupon led the ten of spades and let it ride. West was in no hurry to win the trick and promptly played the five. Things were going along smoothly for declarer, who at this point announced to his partner, "We have been robbed." His statement was premature; it would have been more appropriate a few tricks hence. The spade finesse was repeated, and this time West took the trick and shifted to a diamond.

It didn't matter now what declarer did. His goose was cooked. If he finessed, East would win with the king and cash the high heart. If he went up with the ace and tried to discard his losing heart on the third club, West would make his small trump good with the king of diamonds still to be cashed.

News From The Public Library

Most of you are probably aware that the people of Ouachita Parish will be given an opportunity on August 14 to vote yes in a bond and tax election which will give to the people of the Parish new library buildings and increased support for the Parish Library. There are many ways in which you will benefit from this increase support of the library. One of them is that we will be able to buy many more books than we now purchase. Not only will we be able to purchase more titles, but what is important to most readers is that we will be able to purchase more copies of individual titles. This will benefit each one of you because you will not have to wait so long to get a popular book to read. Where we are now purchasing four copies of a book, we will be able to purchase as many more as the demand warrants. Many people hate to wait for a book, but we have not been able to purchase as many titles in the past as we knew we needed. I am sure that this fact alone will sell many of you on the bond and tax election.

Summer is not the busiest time in the publishing world. However, we have received some interesting titles in the past week. Susan Ertz, a writer of experience and ability has a new book called "Charmed Circle". It is the story of the Prentiss family, wealthy, cultured and much-traveled who ignored everthing that happened outside the charmed circle of their family life. How the young people broke out of this charmed circle to make a life of their own is a very interesting story. It is set against the glittering backgrounds of London, Paris and New York during the first four decades of the Twentieth century.

"The Captive Rider" by Anne Miller Downes is another of her delightful stories with the quiet reflective approach. It is the story of little people in a small town, of their loves and quarrels and of the selfless devotion of one outstanding woman. This is a pleasant book for summer reading and one that you will enjoy.

Margaret Truman has become very popular with the American people since she conducted her wedding with lovely dignity. There will be many who will want to read her autobiography "Souvenir" which is a lovely story of a lovely girl.

"Ten Years of Holiday" is an anniversary collection of 40 remarkable pieces that have appeared in the magazine during the past ten years. This is a book which the dveotees of the magazine will enjoy and it is also a gold mine of travel information.

Billy Graham, the popular evangelist is also a writer of ability. His latest book is called "The 7 Deadly Sins" and there is a reading public eagerly waiting for it. We purchased a copy for each branch, so be sure to ask for a copy if you are interested.

A delightful biography is "Eve Among the Puritans" by Eleanor Ellis Perkins. This is the biography of Lucy Fitch Perkins, who a generation ago wrote the charming twin books for American children. Everyone who loved her books will want to read this story.

We are happy that many parents who visit one of the branches of the library to bring their children are also borrowing a number of books for their own reading. This is fine for all of the family. If you have not yet enrolled your child in the vacation reading club, do so at the first opportunity.

1. IS INSTALLMENT BUYING AN UNMIXED BLESSING? YOUR OPINION _____ 6-23

Answer To Question No. 1

1. All businessmen and economists agree it is a great blessing. But, hosts of people today are like Artemus Ward said, "Bound to live within their means if they have to borrow money to do it." They don't even realize they are living 6 per cent — and with some companies, 16 per cent — beyond their means. They lack the self-restraint to resist "nothing down, and months to pay." Installment buying is vital to prosperity, but it is also a fine test of individual judgment and

Are men more eager than women to "show off" their ability in cooking?

Yes ____ No ____

2. Yes, far more. I know one man who takes every possible occasion to boast of his ability to soft-boil an egg — something many chefs do not know how to do. Another man who can make a salad dressing, gets up parties to show off this ability. Getting up parties with the guests doing the cooking, will show you the men competing as though their lives depended on it, to prove their ability to make a sauce, broil a steak, or make a fancy dessert that no one else could match. Not one in a hundred could get up a meal as mother did — as a matter of course.

Can you learn to remember names?

3. Yes. Bruno Furst gives six rules for remembering names: 1. Get the name clearly. 2. Repeat it immediately after introduction. 3. See if the name has a meaning in itself. 4. If it has no meaning, find a substitute. 5. Repeat the name several times. 6. Write it down. If you don't get the name clearly and accurately, you cannot even speak of remembering or forgetting. You can neither remember nor forget something you never know. Our booklet, "How To Improve Your Memory," helps you remember not only names, but stories addresses, everything. Wilson Claims Use Of 'Phony' Misunderstood

Backs Down After Adams Confers At Ike's Bedside

WASHINGTON, June 23 (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson today backed away from any charge that senatorial moves to increase U. S. Air Force funds are "phony". The White House denied it pressured Wilson into action.

"Wilson's use of the word "phony" Thursday in a news conference at Quantico, Va., had set off a storm in the Senate. Member after member denounced him. Some Democrats called for his ouster. Sen. Bridges (R-NH) said Wilson was guilty of "an unwarranted slur."

Today Wilson told reporters at Quantico he had either been misunderstood or "partly" misquoted. He remarked to the reporters: "I don't blame you men too much. I blame myself."

Presidential secretary James C. Hagerty was asked whether any White House aides had spoken to Wilson urging him to modify his Thursday remarks.

"No," Hagerty replied. He declined to say anything more than that the matter had been discussed by the President this morning with White House aides at Walter Reed Hospital.

The morning conference brought Sherman Adams, the assistant to the President, and other White House officials to Eisenhower's suite.

Among the topics:

1. The big senatorial storm over Wilson.

2. Wilson's order to 11,000 military officers on desk jobs around Washington to change from uniforms to civilian garb starting July 1.

Within a few hours Wilson took these steps:

1. Announced he never meant to insult senators.

2. Withdrew his order for civilian

Top Russian Air Chiefs Greet Gen. Twining Upon Arrival For Soviet Tour

MOSCOW, June 23 (AP)—Relaxed

The U. S. Air Force chief of staff invited to Moscow along with top American scientist-generals was warmly greeted on his arrival by Russia's deputy defense minister, Ivan S. Konev, and by Twining's counterpart in the Russian air force, Chief Air Marshal Paval Zhigarev.

Konev is commander in chief of the Warsaw Pact, the Communist answer to NATO.

The Americans will attend Russia's annual air show in observance of Aviation Day, Sunday, and will follow them with a week of touring Soviet air installations, the first such visis the Russian government has yet allowed.

"I am very happy to be here, and also honored that our President, Mr. Eisenhower, would let us represent him here to see your air show," Twining told his Russian hosts. "My group will look and listen, and we will benefit a great deal from this visit."

"We will have to report to our superiors and the President and through them to the people at home," Twining added.

Asked by reporters if his interest was primarily political, Twining replied that he was not in the political business.

"Our principal interest is to meet and talk with Soviet air force leaders," Twining said. "The purpose of this trip is to show our air force what the Soviet air force is doing in the way of developing new equipment."

The Americans arrived in hot sunshine with temperatures in the 90s. "A fine day, fine weather," Twining said to Konev.

A Russian interpreted his remarks and Konev replied in Russian "Washington weather."

President Okays Convention Plans; Mum On Decision

WASHINGTON, June 23 (AP) — President Eisenhower expressed "personal pleasure" today over Republican National Convention plans, which were drawn up by GOP leaders on the assumption he will run again.

The word that Eisenhower was pleased with the selection of convention officers and other arrangements came from press secretary James C. Hagerty who said, however, that Eisenhower shed no light at all on his political plans.

Plans for the convention, including the selection of Gov. Arthur B. Langlie of Washington to be the keynote speaker, were settled on yesterday by the Republican arrangements subcommittee of the party's National Committee.

Committee Chairman Leonard Hall, while saying he had no direct word from the recuperating President, told reporters covering the proceedings that he had "not the faintest" doubt that Eisenhower will run again.

"You can paste the names of Eisenhower and Nixon in your hats," Hall said.

The afternoon medical bulletin from Walter Reed Hospital, where the President underwent his intestial operation two weeks ago, said:

"The President this morning inquired of his physicians as to when he would be discharged from the hospital.

"His physicians informed him that if his recovery continues as it has to date he would be able to leave the hospital in about a week."

A few hours after the operation, Maj. Gen. Leonard Heaton, who performed the surgery, estimated the President could leave in about 15 days—which would be up this weekend.

Earlier this week, however, the President's personal physician, Maj. Gen. Howard M. Snyder, said it would be the middle of next week at least.

Thompson Enters Senate Race For Sen. George's Post

ATLANTA, June 23 —UP—Melvin E. Thompson, whose feud with former Gov. Herman Talmadge goes back to the publicized two-governor crisis in 1947, took on his old antagonist Saturday in the contest for retiring Sen. Walter F. George's seat. Talmadge promptly stirred up a racial issue.

"The NAACP has a perfect right to sponsor any candidate it so desires," Talmadge snapped when informed that Thompson had filed his $500 fee at the last moment to oppose him in the Sept. 12 Democratic primary. That is the decisive election in Georgia.

In making the noon qualifying deadline, Thompson said "nothing but a strong sense of duty to the people of the state and serious apprehension of the future of our people would have induced me at this time to have entered this campaign."

Thompson, who served as acting governor by state Supreme Court decree after Talmadge took over the executive office in a bold coup in 1947, has repeatedly deplored the possibility that Talmade might win George's job by default. Talmadge announced his own candidacy last month.

He accused his rival Saturday of being the "lackey boy" of the "big money crowd" and said that Talmadge had put a burden on Georgians by taxing "everything from salt and pepper, shoes, hats and clothes to the automobile for which they must pay high prices and even to the casket in which they are laid away when they pass on."

He referred to the all-inclusive Georgia sales tax enacted and broadened during Talmadge's tenure as governor. Thompson promised to give the "full sordid story" of Talmadge's administration later.

Thus were the first thrusts rammed home for what promises to be a broiling summer campaign between two bitter enemies. One other, lightly regarded candidate is in the race. He is tombstone salesman D. Talmadge Bowers.

Mixup Looms Over July 31 Demo Primary

Martin Requests Ruling On Latest Vote Law Changes

BATON ROUGE, June 23 (AP) — Secretary of State Wade O. Martin Jr. warned today a bill passed by the Legislature may "prevent some of the state's . . . precincts from having voting facilities" in the July 31 Democratic primary.

The measure would take control of voting machines in Louisiana away from the secretary of state and vest it in a nine-member voting machine board, with Martin a member. It awaits Gov. Earl Long's signature.

In a letter to Atty. Gen. Jack Gremillion, Martin asked if the bill, certified as emergency legislation, would take effect immediately with the governor's signature and asked a series of questions as to what effect this would have on the primary.

On July 31, Louisiana chooses a senator, eight representatives and a number of state and local officials.

Martin has bitterly opposed the bill, pushed by the governor in a two-bill package to strip the secretary of state of his power.

The second bill, setting up a state insurance department independent of the secretary of state, awaits final House action. It already passed the Senate.

"Every effort is being put forth by me and my staff to provide voting facilities for all voters at this election," Martin said, "but the nearness of the election and the uncertainty of authority, resulting from the passage of House bill 603 prompts me to ask you for a legal opinion that would minimize further chaos . . ."

He continued, "there are 46 mechanics or deputy custodians throughout the state, in addition to my office personnel, who do not know what their status is, and until you answer some of the questions propounded herein there is little I can tell them except that the bill was passed as emergency legislation.

Legislation normally takes effect 20 days after the end of the session, July 12. This would be after the election. Emergency legislation becomes law with the governor's signature.

Martin proposes the following questions to the attorney general:

1. Will House bill 603 become effective when the governor signs the bill.

2. It was certified emergency, "so I ask in the alternative"

A. If he signs the bill within 10 days after it reaches his desk, when will my functions in connection with elections change?

B. If he does not sign the bill, letting it become law after 10 days, when will my functions in connection with elections change?

3. When the bill becomes effective, what will be my functions in connection with elections?

4. If this bill goes into effect before the new voting machine board meets and appoints a custodian with authority to appoint

Edgecombe Plans To Appeal Ouster From State Police

LAKE CHARLES, La., June 23 (AP) —Maj. Aaron Edgecombe said today his attorneys "very definitely" will appeal his dismissal from the state police.

Edgecombe said he believed 13 allegations received in a letter of dismissal did not justify his dismissal. He did not specify the charges, but officials said earlier they ranged from improper conduct to lowering morale and conduct among state troopers.

He has already contacted civil service authorities, Edgecombe said, and has until July 21 to appeal.

Edgecombe was a top aid to former Supt. Francis Grevemberg. He was stationed here when suspended June 12. Col. Tom Burbank, assistant to Supt. John Nick Brown, said in Baton Rouge Edgecombe was notified of his dismissal effective yesterday.

Legislature To Resume Controversial Debates At Baton Rouge Tonight

BATON ROUGE, June 23 (AP)—Gov. Earl Long, fussing and feuding with lawmakers and state officials, today rested up for another scrap with the Louisiana Legislature.

The House three times rejected his tax raises last week. One comes up for a last chance at passage next week. Two others await a House vote.

Long, younger borther of the late Sen. Huey P. Long, has set the Legislature in an uproar, recalling the tactics of the late Kingfish.

In committee sessions, the governor has had bitter, name-calling encounters with Mayor delessep Morrison of New Orleans, Secretary of State Wade O. Martin Jr. and District Attorney Leander Perez, political boss of Plaquemines Parish.

The fiery, 61-year-old prowled the House floor, heckling speakers, buttonholing House members to lobby for his bills until representatives demanded he be made to sit down.

Legislative veterans say he even went further than Huey Long, who often dictated to committees and told legislators how to vote, but never butted in on floor speeches.

In a tense, riotous session Wednesday, with Long barking orders to his leaders and shouting insults at foes, the governor flaunted House rules to bring up a tax bill for a third vote after it had failed twice. Veteran observers said this never had been done before.

Long followers contended their voting machines hadn't worked properly on the first vote, and on a voice roll call overturned the House speaker when he ruled them out of order. This took only 51 votes in the 101-member House.

But the bill—a 2½ per cent hike in the 13 per cent racetrack betting which primarily affected the New Orleans Fairgrounds—failed the third time too, missing the two thirds margin by one vote.

Under a constitutional amendment approved in the April general election—which Long is out to kill in the November general election—all tax raises must win two thirds approval of both houses. 1½ cent per 1,000 cubic feet boost in the gas gathering tax dedicated to a teacher pay raise, failed on its first try for two thirds approval. Long sent it back to the calendar Thursday in the face of a second defeat.

Long also is pushing bills boosting the sulphur and timber severance taxes, which await House action.

Sen. George H. Bender, Ohio Republican, asked the administration to take "all possible steps" to ward off a steel walkout which could jolt the entire national economy. Bender's home state would be one of those hardest hit by a prolonged strike.

In a statement released by his offices in Washington and Cleveland, Bender called on the government to "summon the parties for decisive conferences," adding that a steel strike would be seized upon by the Communists as an indictment of the Ameri-

Gibbs Reports To His Constituents Here Last Night

Ouachita Parish Rep. Lawrence Gibbs, the target of a recall movement here during the past week, gave a "report to the people" last night in a city-wide radio and television hookup.

Avoiding mention of the recall petition now being circulated against him, Gibbs declared that he has acted in the legislature "only after thoughtful consideration" for the best interest of Ouuachita parish and the state.

Gibbs retraced his five weeks in the legislature in the five-minute television-radio broadcast.

The junior Ouachita parish legislator pointed out to the school teachers and others interested in education that he voted for house bill 119 which approved salary increases. He was indefinite on companion bill 1522 (the gas tax bill) which comes up for consideration again Monday.

Gibbs said "I want to assure the teachers, the bus drivers, the school cafeteria employees and all others connected with our schools that I will give equal consideration to this bill when I cast my vote." He voted against the gas tax measure last week when it was defeated by a narrow margin.

Administration forces of Gov. Long, backer of the gas tax bill, had the measure returned to the calender for action Monday.

Much of the criticism levelled at Gibbs during the recall movement has been his voting record which has placed him in the camp with the pro-Long wing of the legislature.

Meanwhile, yesterday the Gibbs recall petition was reported to have been signed by over 1500 persons. The petition is now at West's used car lot on Louisville.

Signatures of 7,000 Ouachita parish voters would be necessary to press a recall on Gibbs.

Bobbie Pappas, of the Rendezvous, said yesterday that he wished not to be identified with the originators of the anti-Gibbs petition. The document was at his restaurant two days last week.

Long Rules Out Special Sessions 'If Avoidable'

BATON ROUGE, June 23 (AP)—Gov. Earl Long, ready to ask a final legislative decision to drop the 3-day fiscal sessions, said today he won't call special sessions if he can possibly avoid them.

"I hope a special session of the Legislature won't be necessary during my four years as governor," Long said.

"The only time a governor can really think and plan is when the Legislature is not in session."

Long called five special sessions during his 1948-52 regime, compared with two by former Gov. Robert Kennon during 1955-56.

The House has Long's Senate-passed constitutional amendment which would abandon the fiscal sessions held every odd year. The House is ready to act any time the administration wants.

But the governor indicated there is no hurry about calling up the bill for a final legislative choice, because of the pressure of tax bills and other issues.

The first fiscal Legislature, brainchild of Sen. Robert A. Ainsworth Jr., Kennon's floor leader, was held in 1955 with approval of the public. To kill it would require

No Trace Found Of 'Mad' Killer In Ohio Manhunt

WARREN, Ohio, June 23—UP—A posse of volunteers and peace officer beat through a wild area north of here Saturday in search for "mad killer" Alfred Wilson, 37, but the search leader said he thought the fugitive might already be dead.

Wilson, who slew three women in a rage when his common-law wife left him, had vowed that he would not be taken alive.

"We have no evidence that he is here or that he is not here," Portage County Sheriff Robert Stockdale said at the scene of the manhunt.

Wilson's victims were two of his wife's sisters, killed in their homes as Wilson sought his wife, and a 16-year old girl, a stranger.

Southern Bell To Take Issue Into Courts

Appeal For Hikes In Rates Rejected Along With Order

BATON ROUGE, June 23 (AP)—The Louisiana Public Service Commission today rejected the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company's request for a rate increase and ordered the company to cut its present rates some four million dollars a year.

Southern Bell had sought an annual rate increase of $6,581,000.

The commission, in a statement released by its secretary Clayton W. Coleman, said its order with written findings in the case will be issued in a few days.

In New Orleans, W. K. Boardman Jr., vice president and general manager for Southern Bell in Louisiana, said in a prepared statement that the commission's order "in the face of a clear and urgent need for an improvement in our Louisiana earnings . . . . shows a shocking disregard of the facts.

"The order, if allowed to stand, would force a severe cutback in our presently planned 97 million dollar construction program for 1956-57, and would seriously affect telephone progress in communities throughout Louisiana."

Boardman said the company had "no recourse except to appeal to the courts immediately. This we intend to do."

The commission said its decision followed the unanimous recommendation of its special counsel, Theo Cangelosi, its entire local staff and the experts and consultants hired by the commission and the city of New Orleans.

"This decision terminates investigations and hearings extending over the past 18 months in which 2,247 pages of testimony and many exhibits of a highly technical character have been introduced and considered," the commission's statement said.

The commission said its ruling was the first since World War II on any Bell System company in the United States which resulted in a rate decrease.

U. S. Scientist Confirms Discovery Of Man-Like Bones 10 Million Years Old

ROME, June 23 (AP)—An American scientist confirmed today that bones found in the soft coal of a long-abandoned central Italian mine have been identified definitely as a 10-million-year-old preman. He's called oreopithecus.

The find may help paleontologists chart more accurately the evolution of man.

By contrast with the 10-million-year-old oreopithecus, the earliest known ancient men are mere newcomers. The Java and Peking men go back no more than 300,000 years. Australopithecus, the so-called "southern ape" found in South Africa, dates back half a million to a million years.

"We struck pay dirt a week and a half ago in the recently reopened lignite mine at Bacinello," said Dr. Helmutt de Terra of Columbia University, New York, who is heading the search for fossils of the pre-man.

He said finds, almost daily since then, had provided 30 to 40 pieces of coal filled with the yellow bone fossils.

The bones already identified include ribs, fragments of vertebra and either a part of a jawbone or the entire jawbone.

Dr. De Terra said the part jutting out of the coal chunk was a chin with broken teeth showing.

"It is definitely oreopithecus," he said. He described the creature as "somewhere between the size of a chimpanzee and a gorilla" and said it was "the most humanoid fossil of that antiquity."

Fossils found in the first 10 days have been taken to Switzerland by Dr. Johannes Herzeler, of the Basel Museum of Natural History.

At Basel, experts will remove the bones from the lignite in which they are embedded.

Dr. De Terra said the scientists have every reason to hope that many more bones will be found, perhaps enough to assemble a complete skeleton.

A complete skeleton of oreopithecus was found at the old Bacinello mine in 1869, almost a century ago. That was the first and only such skeleton ever found. Miners did not know what it was. Only the skull was sent to Florence. The rest was lost. In a Florence museum, the skull disintegrated to dust. Science was left

The Exchange Club of Monroe announced yesterday that it will begin the sale Monday of yard markers with house numbers and turn the money into charity channels to assist youths of West Monroe and Monroe.

The markers, sellig for $2 each, are aluminum, with numerals lettered in luminous material for better night reading. All the money collected through this means, the club said, will be devoted to helping underprivileged children in the two cities.

Each year the club sponsors a boy and a girl in the Pelican State government. The club annually holds the "sunshine special"—last year it took a large group of underprivileged youth to Chemin-A-Haut park for a full day's outing as a treat.

In addition to these, the club sponsors the "Monroe Model Maniacs," a model airplane club for local youths.

Anyone interested in purchasing one of the house markers may call 3-5312 or write J. H. Williams at 3120 Louisville avenue, Monroe, a club spokesman said.

3 Men Arrested, Held For Burglary Of Bastrop Store

BASTROP, June 23 (Specal)—The Morehouse sheriff's office reported today that three Mississippi men are being held in the parish jail for investigation of a burglary occurring at a liquor store here about a month ago.

Officials refused to release names of the suspects, pending completion of an investigation. No formal charges had been made today.

When the men were apprehended by deputies Friday night, the officers discovered "about 15 empty whiskey cases and all kinds of burglary tools" in their car, which carried a Mississippi license.

Reported missing in the Bastrop store burglary were "seven or eight cases of whiskey," authorities said.

Britain To Offer 'New Terms' For Peace In Cyprus

NICOSIA, Cyprus, June 23 (AP)—Britain is preparing "generous" new proposals to Greek Cypriots to settle their demands for self-government and may ask the United States to help sell the plan to the Turks, an informed source said today.

This indication of the direction Britain is taking in moves toward a showdown in the 14-month-old rebellion by Greek Cypriots who want a union with Greece came as Sir John Harding, the British governor, returned from nearly three weeks of consultation in London.

He was reported to have discussed the new proposals while in London.

The informed source said Britain was approaching the problem "generously, from the Greek point of view" but the Turkish minority on the island was a stumbling block to a solution because of its resistance to the idea of a Greek majority in a Cypriot Parliament.

Therefore, he said, "Britain may ask the United States to help sell the plan to the Turks, for there is a delicate question in balance. Both Greece and Turkey are members of NATO. Obviously Britain does not want to alienate a NATO ally and she could conceivably if she tried to force her point. Thus Britain may ask the United States to act as a sort of middleman in convincing the Turks that their interests will not be neglected."

Of Cyprus' population, about 400,000 are Greeks and 100,000 Turkish. The island, only 40 miles from the coast of Turkey, was Turkish from 1571 until 1878 when it was signed over to British administration.

The Turkish minority is demanding that any new constitution giving the island self-government include educational and religious guarantees for its Moslem people. The Turkish government also wants guarantees that Cyprus will not become an eventual military threat to its security.

Observers do not doubt that if the constitution guaranteed the Greeks a permanent majority in the island Parliament it would mean eventual union with Greece.

Negotiations between Harding and Archbishop Makarios, the Greek Orthodox religious and civilian leader of Enosis—union-with Greece movement—collapsed last March on this point and over Makarios' refusal to condemn the violent campaign of bombing and assassination by EOKA, the strong-arm branch of Enosis. Makarios was deported to the Seychelles Islands in the Indian Ocean.

Cerebral Palsy Teacher Goes To Summer School

Mrs. Jane Arnold, teacher at the Cerebral Palsy school at Selman field, is attending Louisiana State university for the summer session. She is presently working on her master of arts degree in education.

In August, Mrs. Arnold plans to attend the University of Mississippi for a two-week institute on the handicapped child. This institute will be under the direction of Dr. Meyer A. Perlstein and Dr. A.V. Bice, who are outstanding in the field of cerebral palsy.

While Mrs. Arnold is away at school, her class is being taught by Mrs. Nelda Pierce, of the Shady Grove school faculty.

Kenneth E. Griswold, administrator of the school, stated that leading educators in the field of special education believe that school classes should be as continuous as possible to prevent regression which normally occurs when learning processes are interrupted.

When Mrs. Arnold returns to the school, she will teach a new class being established for cerebral palsied children in the primary grades.

Crossett C. Of C. Supports Proposal To Get Home Rule

CROSSETT, June 23 (Special—The campaign to put the Home Rule proposal in the general election ballot in November was formally endorsed by the Crossett Chamber of Commerce board of directors at a meeting held this week.

Jack Meadows, head of the Chamber's civic affairs committee said that a drive would now be launched to secure local signatures for the petitions.

"We hope to secure over 300 names," Meadows said, "and are contacting each of the Crossett civic clubs for support."

The deadline for securing signatures is July 6, he said and petitions which qualified voters can sign have been placed in the Bank of Crossett, the Chamber of Commerce office and the News Observer.

Adoption of Home Rule by a city of community would remove much of the administration of that community's affairs from state control and put it in the hands of the local people.

The visiting lecturer will speak before several English classes at Northeast to which the public is invited.

His speaking schedule includes: Wednesday, 9:10 a.m. and 11 a.m.; Thursday, 8:15 a.m. and 10:05 a.m.; Friday, 9:10 a.m.

Post Offices Are Adopting '13-Period Year'

Woodrow W. Hathorn, Monroe postmaster, Saturday released the following statement:

Postmaster General Summerfield announced today that, effective June 30, the entire post office department will operate under a "13 - period year" for internal accounting and management purposes. This is another important step in applying business management techniques to the affairs of the Postal Service. Although many private businesses have long enjoyed the benefits of uniform 28-day accounting periods, the Post Office is the first Department of Government to adopt this practice.

On December 3, 1955, the post office department changed its method of salary and wage payments from semi-monthly to bi-weekly periods as required by public law 68, approved June 10, 1955. With more than 500,000 employees on the payroll, the adoption of accounting periods each consisting of two biweekly pay periods, will materially simplify the accounting work and provide for more accurate interim reports for management purposes. In addition, each accounting period will have the same number of weekdays, Saturdays, and Sundays, which will materially facilitate comparisons of progress from period to period.

The bureau of the budget and the treasury department have approved the adoption of the new procedure by the Post Office Department for use in internal reporting. For external reporting and annual budget purposes the department will continue to observe the traditional government fiscal year ending June 30.

The change will not in any way affect relations with the public, and box rents and other transactions related to calendar months and calendar quarters will remain unchanged. It will affect postmasters and the other employees only insofar as the timing of certain reports heretofore rendered on the basis of calendar periods.

Packaged Lumber Offered By Terzia

Terzia Lumber Co., established in 1919 and the oldest lumber yard in Northeast Louisiana, has introduced a new idea in retailing lumber. It is pre-packaged lumber of all types in all sizes ready to be hydralically loaded on any type of truck.

Fensky C. Terzia, president of the firm, in making the announcement said that only first quality kiln dried lumber is being prepackaged. He said incoming lumber is now being unloaded under supervision of a qualified grader and is packaged as it is unloaded.

Mrs. Dorsch, Seriously Ill, Is Improving

Mrs. Ida Dortsch of ward five, Caldwell parish, who have been seriously ill of a heart ailment, is somewhat improved following a visit by her son, Lannie Dortsch, another son, S. C. Dortsch of Caldwell parish, said Saturday.

Mrs. Dortsch, who is 77 years old, has been troubled with the heart ailment for some time, her son said.

A 10-day furlough was granted by Gov. Earl K. Long to Lannie Dortsch, who is serving a 15-year sentence in the state penitentiary at Angola, to enable Dortsch to visit his mother, Dortsch returned Friday to the prison.

Dortsch was committed to the prison last December after being convicted in connection with a poker game robbery. His brother stated that Dortsch had previously been convicted as an accessory before and after the fact in connection with the robbery of the Grayson bank in Caldwell parish. The robbery in connection with which Dortsch was convicted was at the Grayson bank and not at a Columbia bank, as previously stated, S. C. Dortsch said. In the bank case, Dortsch received a sentence of three and one-half years, his brother stated.

Long And His Cohorts Stab The Teachers In The Back

Just how good friends do Louisiana teachers have in Governor Earl K. Long and his legislative puppet majority?

Teachers throughout Louisiana are asking themselves this question today, after the Governor pulled the strings in the House Friday to defeat a proposed $16 million appropriation for teachers' salary increases.

The vote on this huge proposed item in the $347 million spending bill, the biggest in Louisiana history, was along partisan lines.

On Governor Long's orders, his yes-men in the House cast 54 votes against the teachers' salary raise. The proponents of this increase for our educators mustered 34 votes.

How can Governor Long and his legislative puppets, posing, and strutting as friends of education and champions of the teachers, justify this shocking refusal to grant immediately, through the general appropriation bill, more than half of the funds needed to pay the teachers' salary increase measure enacted by the Legislature and signed by the chief executive?

According to PAR, a private non-political research council staffed by experts in fiscal affairs, the money to pay this $16 million should be available without any new taxes—that and millions of additional surplus revenue besides.

In this instance the teachers perhaps recall the adage that a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush.

Yet under the bludgeoning pressure of the Governor, brutally applied with a whiplash, his House majority of sycophant solons turned down a $16 million appropriation that would have been immediately available to implement more than half-way the new teachers' salary increase Act.

With bull-headed stubborness, this State Administration adheres to its ruthless and cruel course of making the teachers a group of tax gathers, and forcing them to garner their proposed salary increases from one field alone—not the vast structure of taxation, but a confiscatory raid against a single industry, the finding and production and processing of natural gas.

This ruthless measure, rammed through a Long-dominated House Committee in a half-hour hearing, has been denounced from one end of Louisiana to the other, and throughout the nation, with good cause.

It and companion bills sponsored by the Governor and his legislative underlings threaten industrial ruin to this state. The threat is immediate, since the natural resource industries of Louisiana, already heavily taxed, and the vast chemical industries that have been moving into our commonwealth, must operate under competitive conditions.

The gas gathering tax raid, the sulphur tax grab, the utterly ruinous and confiscatory proposal to tax the tree farmer and the lumberman out of business—not to mention numerous other levies that strike at the heart of Louisiana economy—spell ruin to this state and its people if enacted.

These are stark realities, and the people should face them; and no blandishments by Governor Long can change them. A political and economic crisis is at hand. Louisiana people face the alternatives of a bright future, with jobs and employment and constantly increasing development of their vast natural resources—or stagnation and ruin, under a reversion to the horse and buggy days of political dictatorship.

The Governor's vast taxing program—violating his solemn promises during his campaign—the taxing raids being staged by his legislative cohorts—the heartless and obvious moves intended to make the teachers his tax-gatherers—frighten the people.

Just what was behind the Governor's decree, passed down to his eager underlings in the House—supposedly a co-equal and proud independent branch of government elected to represent the people of every district and carry out their wishes—that caused him and them to vote down the $16 million teachers' salary increase appropriation?

Apparently, a desperate desire to make the teachers the tax gatherers and force them to apply greater pressure on behalf of the gas gathering tax gouge, once voted down and now pending on reconsideration in the House.

The Louisiana Senate has not acted on the general appropriation bill; and there is ample time for the Senate to reinstate the $16 million teachers' salary increase, from general funds available.

Governor Long himself has admitted that portions of the proposed gas gathering tax bill probably are unconstitutional. In legal quarters over the State, the question is being raised whether any portion of this measure is constitutional; and the entire issue might be fought through the courts of the land for months and years, even if this measure were enacted into law.

In the meantime, with ample money apparently available, Governor Long and his legislative majority in the House have struck a cruel blow at the teachers—denying them a $16 million salary increase appropriation.

Freedom Is An Absolute

Dan Thornton, former governor of Colorado, had some wise words to say to the Oregon Cattlemen's Association. He urged these producers to reject government subsidies. And he made his big point with a simple question: "Do we wish to remain a free enterprise nation or accept socialism?"

There is no real middle ground between those two extremes. "A little bit of socialism" inexorably grows, like live yeast, until we have a whole lot of socialism. Then the individual becomes a robot, responding to the strings pulled by the bosses—who are the politicians and the bureaucrats.

Groups of people may turn to government to help with some temporary problem. But, after the problem has been solved or has changed, government is still right there with its controls and its regulations and its rulebooks.

Moreover, government aid is always subject to the unpredictable winds of political expediency—as vast numbers of farmers must have learned by now. So far, according to all the evidence, a majority of livestock producers have been adamantly opposed to looking to government for solutions to their problems. They deserve all credit for that—and they will deserve still greater credit if they steadfastly maintain that position.

Livestock prices, like all prices, rise at one time and fall another. But freedom is an absolute that can't be subjected to variation.

In A Sentence

Governor Elmo Smith of Oregon, in discussing a proposed tax program, covered a problem of national scope in this single sentence: "Too many people think, in the back of their minds, that a tax is something someone else should pay, and a service is something they should receive."

Individuals and groups and organizations of every kind are trying to pay as little in taxes as possible—and, at the same time, trying to get as much special privilege from government as possible.

So long as that attitude prevails we will have wasteful, exorbitantly expensive government—along with a dangerous degree of political domination of our lives.

Public Forum

Another 'Disgust'

West Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

Hurray! for Mr. F. M. Arouet's "League of Disgusted Citizens". I predict a large membership for it. So many things for the intelligent voter to be disgusted about both State and National. For instance: the repeal of the "Right to Work" law. (And this is supposed to be a free country). The voters of Ouachita will note that both Sparks and Faulk voted "no" and Gibbs voted "yes" for the repeal of this bill.

The proposed increase in taxes of industries (possibly a law already) is another "disgust". Soak the rich and give it to the poor. Where did we hear that before? What effect will these taxes have on present and future industries in the State? What effect on the present and future of labor in the State?

Long is quoted in Monday's paper, "I'm in the timber business myself". Sure, every farmer who sells a jag of paperwood or a few saw logs can say, and I suppose truthfully, that he is in the "timber business" but I wonder how many loggers Long employs, if any; how many log trucks he keeps on the road. He also is quoted. "I promise etc". Surely he did not "promise" with a straight face.

Although there is much to make a person disgusted in the State and National politics there is also something to applaud. The recent city election in Monroe. Also the cut-back on the foreign aid bill in Congress. Representative Passman and Senator Ellender are to be commended for their stand on this. Neither individuals nor nations appreciate what is given to them as a handout. They should earn it.

By the way, have you read the interesting biography of Earl Long's brother in the magazine "Saga", issue of July 1956. Better read it: "Lest we forget".

I enjoy your editorials very much.

ARTHUR D. READ

Voting Machine Bill

Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

In a story carried in the Monroe News-Star of June 21, 1956 entitled "Many Are Signing Gibbs Recall Plea", you quote a Mr. Paul Ransom who claims to be a farmer to the effect that Lawrence Gibbs voted for taking the voting machines out of the smaller precincts. This is a malicious lie and the records will show the same. Mr. Gibbs made a talk against this bill on the floor of the house and went on record against it. The bill never came up for a vote with the voting machines provisions in it. Your paper carriage this story. A bill did come up placing the voting machines in the hands of a board and Mr. Gibbs did vote for this bill.

You will notice that all the candidates for Governor always have the incumbent Secretary of State on their ticket or do not offer a candidate against him. Why? Because he is the chief election officer of the state.

The facts are this Mr. Paul Ransom did not support Lawrence Gibbs and his only complaint is that he voted to repeal the "Right to Work" Law.

Humanitarian Efforts

West Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

We wish to thank the News-Star—World, and in a special way Mrs. Herron and Mr. Brinsmade, for their humanitarian efforts in the recent critical illness and death of our little boy, Randy. Also, we express appreciation to Sheriff Bailey Grant for the plane to fly Randy to Houston, Texas for further medical aid in a specialized clinic for the disease he was stricken with.

Then there were others who went all out to help us in the hour of crisis. The Ridge Avenue Baptist Church of West Monroe and pastor, Rev. A. T. Mitchell and a special committee of the church, composed of Mrs. Harry Carpenter and Mrs. C. E. Teddie (we were not members of this church), but out of a spirit of goodness they did what they could.

The fine spirit of the school girls sponsored by their sorority organization which led the Mayors of Monroe and West Monroe to proclaim "Randy Week" and to all who made contributions to the "Randy Fund" out of the depths of our hearts we love and appreciate you. Your kindness and goodness makes us feel very humble.

We have tried to be worthy of the kindness and goodness of the wonderful people who helped us in an hour of tragic trial in our lives. We tried to cooperate all the way with the doctors using new medical science in efforts to find a remedy for this most malignant kind of disease.

Out of this most tragic thing that came our way we experienced the finest and best in people. Also, we received a new respect and greater faith in prayers, churches and christianity.

MR. and MRS. O. B. WINFREY.

New Orleans, La.

Editor, Morning World:

With your splendid cooperation we completed another successful taxpayer assistance program April 15 with the closing of the 1955 filing period. Your assistance in publicizing the taxpayer assistance program made it possible for us to divert to more productive work a tremendous number of manhours heretofore spent in preparing individual returns, resulting in savings to the government and the taxpayers. Particularly helpful was the publicity you gave on informing taxpayers where they could go for assistance, the type of assistance they could get as well as the questions and answers and other information furnished you by both the Revenue Service and the local CPA societies.

As a result of this additional productive work time saved out of the taxpayer assistance program last year, we collected $5,564,000 more in delinquent taxes than in the previous year. We also led the entire nation in the number of delinquent accounts collected per collection officer. Increased audit examinations last year resulted in $3,000,000 more in tax deficiencies than the previous year. We have a good start on these programs this year and expect to equal last year's record.

Our refunding program is now almost complete. We have refunded $32,309,000 to 417,542 taxpayers, with approximately 21,000 refunds representing $2,500,000 yet to go. You may also be interested to know that mathematical verification of tax returns for all of last year resulted in the collection of over $1,000,000 through errors made in favor of the taxpayer, and the refunding of $326,000 to taxpayers who had overpaid their taxes by making errors in favor of the government. Although the program is just starting for this year, we have to date collected $386,000 throug.. mathematical verification and refunded $89,000 to taxpayers who erroneously overpaid their taxes.

Since our accounting is on a fiscal year basis ending June 30 of this year, I am unable to say at this time just how much money will be collected in federal taxes. To date we have collected $507,717,575 which is about $38,000,000 more than the same period last year. However, this does not mean that we will collect $38,000,000 more in taxes for we are just a little ahead of last year in processing payments made. Our total collection last fiscal year amounted to $548,352,182.43.

Although the above figures may seem to indicate a higher rate of taxation, there has been no rate increase. The additional amounts may be attributed to increased audit coverage of returns, collection of more delinquent taxes and better compliance with tax laws.

Again let me thank you for your wonderful assistance in publicizing our tax program and other tax information. We just couldn't make it without your help.

Benzedrine Or Reserpine?

Does our economy need a stimulant, a tranquilizing drug, or is no medication called for?

One year ago the economists were recommending Reserpine. They said people were going too deeply in debt.

The Fulbright Committee heard witness after witness testify that the prosperity was precarious because too much of it was "on the cuff."

So the Administration tightened the purse strings, made borrowing more difficult.

They applied the brakes.

People who had been building houses and buying cars with nothing down suddenly discovered they couldn't do that any more.

So fewer houses were built and fewer cars were sold which was precisely what the government had intended.

Now, however, just as we get the gravy train running at a safer speed . . .

Slowed down just a fraction from last year . . .

But still running faster than ever theretofore . . .

Some of those same economists who urged caution a year ago are urging us to relax the credit restraint, make borrowing easier again, sound the horn, full speed ahead . . .

At least past the next election.

In the midst of all the alternate prescriptions for Benzedrine or Reserpine let us pause long enough to get our perspective back in proper focus.

Let us count our present blessings.

This year, 1956, more Americans are employed than in 1955!

Department store sales are running 3 per cent ahead of last year!

Aggregate personal income of Americans is up 18 billion dollars over last year!

The first quarter of this year we Americans saved three billion dollars more than last year!

We have been counting new houses and new cars when we should have been watching the blood pressure of the entire economy.

And even cars and houses still may approach last year's phenomenal pace.

The United States Chamber of Commerce predicts that 1956 will be our country's most prosperous year ever.

A study of prospects for fifteen industries is the basis for that prediction.

And neither major strikes nor a "political shock" nor anything else is going to reverse that result.

Though 1955 was such an all-time record - smashing year that we should not expect to keep topping ourselves without any pause for consolidation of our gains, present indications are that we will do it again in 1956.

Borrowing is less.

We are using our increased income this year to pay off accumulated personal debt.

And our increased savings promises a substantial business upturn in this year's final quarter.

A savings backlog inspires consumer confidence, makes tomorrow's dollars more readily spendable.

Our American economy is expanding irresistably upward.

A SOBERING THOUGHT

Congressional Quarterly

Democrats Pose Challenge To Republicans In East

WASHINGTON — Republicans still hold the upper hand in the industrial East, but they face a serious challenge from Democrats in the approaching campaign.

In 1952 President Eisenhower swept the six New England states, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware and Maryland. Only West Virginia, of the 12 eastern states, went to Stevenson. At the same time, Republican Representatives were elected in 80 of the East's 129 Congressional districts.

But in 1953 the wind began to shift. Democrats proceeded to oust Republicans as governors, first in New Jersey, then in 1954 in Maine, Connecticut, New York and Pennsylvania. Also in 1954, Democrats captured nine more House seats, making the current line-up read: GOP 71; Democrats 58.

This year, the parties will be fighting not only for the East's 153 electoral votes and 129 House seats. Seven Senate seats are at stake, six held by Republicans.

The GOP is concentrating on ousting the lone eastern Democrat whose term expires — Sen. Herbert. H. Lehman of New York. But Democrats are believed to have a better - than - average chance of knocking off Sens. John Marshall Butler (Md.) and James H. Duff (Pa.).

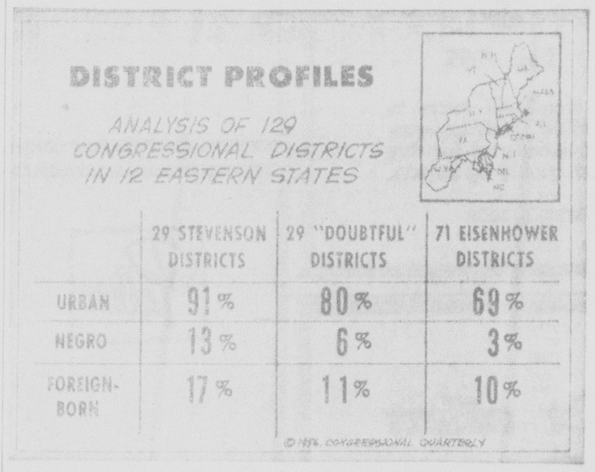
Republicans are counting on President Eisenhower's wide popularity to bolster the party's position in the close Senate races as well as the contests for 23 House seats GOP candidates won in 1954 by less than 55 percent of the vote. By contrast, only a dozen of the Democratic-held districts in the East are similarly classed as "marginal," and seven of these were won from Republicans in 1954.

The extent of Democratic strength in the large cities of the East — New York, Philadelphia, Boston, Baltimore, Pittsburgh — is underscored by Congressional Quarterly's study of the 129 eastern districts, part of CQ's continuing analysis based on the 1950 census.

President Eisenhower got 55 percent or more of the vote in 71 of these districts, while Democrat Adlai E. Stevenson carried 29 districts by similar margins. The remaining 29 districts were carried by less than 55 percent of the vote — 21 by Eisenhower, eight by Stevenson.

On the average, the 29 pro-Stevenson districts gave Mr. Eisenhower only 36 percent of the vote. All but four of the 29 were in cities — 14 in New York, four in Philadelphia, two each in Boston and Pittsburgh. Negroes averaged 13.4 percent of the population of these 29 districts, while the foreign-born white population averaged 17.3 percent.

By contrast, the 71 pro-Eisenhower districts gave the GOP candidate 63 percent of their vote. These districts averaged 61 percent urban, which is close to the national average. Negroes averaged only 2.8 percent, and the foreign-born 10.3 percent, of the population in these districts. Averages for the 29 marginal districts fell between these two groups.



The contrast in the proportion of foreign-born is even more marked in a breakdown of New York State's 43 districts. President Eisenhower carried eight of the 22 New York City districts and all 21 upstate districts, but averaged only 33 percent of the vote in the 14 city districts carried by Stevenson.

In the latter group of districts, the foreign-born averaged 24 percent of the population, compared with 10 percent in the 21 upstate district. But in the eight city districts also carried by Eisenhower, the foreign-born averaged only 2 precent.

Republicans are making strong efforts to attract minority groups in the cities, but they have a long way to go. In 1954 GOP Congressional candidates averaged only 27 percent of the vote in New York City's 14 strongly Democratic districts. In the six city districts which elected Republicans to the House, five of the winners got less than 52 percent of the vote.

Democrats are hopeful of further gains in the East this year, especially in certain New England and Pennsylvania districts suffering from chronic unemployment. However, this expectation may bommerang if the Democratic-controlled 84th Congress adjourns before acting on President Eisenhower's request for $50 million for giving a hand to the so-called "depressed area."

Lights Over Broadway

By Walter Winchell

"My Fair Lady" derives its title from "London Bridge Is Falling Down," a song chanted in a children's playground game, each of its line verses ending with the line, "My fair lady." The Alan Jay Lerner - Frederick Loewe adaptation of Bernard Shaw's "Pygmalion" was called "My Fair Liza" when first announced by Herman Levin . . . . Other titles considered and rejected were "Lady Liza," "The Talk of London," "Come to the Ball" and "Fanfaroon" . . . Shaw named his comedy for Pygmalion, a mythical king of Cyprus, skilled with the chisel . . . From a slab of marble he hewed a statue of Galatea, neighborhood nymph, and became so fascinated with his handiwork that he begged Aphrodite to animate it that he might marry it, or her. Aphrodite, an easy-going Goddess, obliged, and Lerner, Loewe and Levin will be forever grateful.

Shaw wasn't the first dramatist to appropriate this Greek plot . . . As early as 1871 W. S. Gilbert (not yet fused with Mr. S.) wrote a comedy called "Pygmalion and Galatea," which prospered at the Haymarket in London for 194 performances and enriched the librettist to the tune of $200,000 . . . Both Mrs. Langtry ("The Jersey Lily") and Louisville's Mary Anderson toured America in Gilbert's comedy in the '80s. Miss Anderson was a prude. Gilbert once said to her: "I hear that you hate gross things so much you can hardly be induced to take your share of the gross."

In a letter to Ellen Terry (59 years ago) Shaw said he hoped to write a play for Mrs. Pat Campbell and Forbes Robertson in which "he will be a West End gentleman and she an East End dona in an apron with three orange and red ostrich feathers." In this letter Shaw called Mrs. Campbell "that rapscallionaly flower girl." Shaw didn't finish the play until 1912 . . . After he read it to Mrs. Campbell she sent him a note: "Thanks for letting me hear the play and for thinking I can be your pretty slut."

In his stage directions for "Pygmalion' Shaw wrote that Eliza Doolittle,the cockney flower girl, "is perhaps eighteen, perhaps twenty, hardly older." But Mrs. Campbell, — by this time she addressed Shaw as Joey — was 49 when she played the role in the original London production. Lynn Fontanne was 39 when she played Eliza and Gertrude Lawrence 47 . . . Julie Andrews, the Eliza of "My Fair Lady," fits Shaw's requirements to a T. She's a radiant 20.

"Pygmalion" was played in German in Vienna, Berlin and New York before London and New York saw Mrs. Pat in the play in 1914 . . . Its first showing in Manhattan was at the Deutsches Theatre (Irving Place) in March 1914. . . . 'Pygmalion" was Shaw's first commercial success in London's West End. The audience at His Majesty's Theatre gasped when Mrs. Pat spit out the phrase, "not bloody likely." This was the first time the gory adjectives had been heard in a London theatre.

Gabriel Pascal, a glib Hungarian promoter, produced the film versions of "Major Barbara," "Pygmalion," "Caesar and Cleopatra" and "Androcles and the Lion". . . Shaw was fascinated by Pascal's nerve, his nonchalance in adversity. . . As early as 1948 Pascal had an option on the musical rights to "Pygmalion" and tried to get Rodgers and Hammerstein to adapt it. . . In 1952 Pascal got a four-year extension of his option Shaw died in 1950. . . In August that year he met Lerner and Loewe in California, where he was filming "Androcles and the Lion," and persuaded them to undertake adaptation . . . The authors of "Brigadoon" and "Paint Your Wagon" worked on the transition for three months, then abandoned it because the problems presented seemed insurmountable. . . While Lerner and Loewe were in the throes of collaboration, Pascal treed Lawrence Langner of the Theatre Guild and proposed that they produce the musical together.

Dramatic Rescue Scenes Staged At Camp Ki-Ro-Li

By MRS. E. HOLLADAY
Staff Writer

A scout staggered from the woods at Camp Ki-Ro-Li Thursday afternoon and made his way to the health lodge, screaming for Dr. Trousclair on the way. He collapsed as he reached the building.

Scouts nearby rushed to his aid and sought to stop the bleeding from a gushing wound on his upper left leg. One scout applied pressure while another made a tourniquet out of clothing and still a third covered the boy with a shirt.

Glen Cobb, staff member and program director at the camp, rushed over to see what caused the excitement. At the sight of the vast amount of blood, he "fainted dead away." Other Scouts hurried to elevate his feet and give him first aid.

The injured boy was Sammy Carrier and the blood did gush in spurts from a most realistic wound. However, the gash was made from a mixture of flour and food coloring held in place by adhesive plaster and the blood was controlled from a tiny tube that was taped to the boy's leg and concealed by his scout shorts.

This performance was all a part of the realistic training program that the boys are undergoing at Camp Kiroli.

This particular problem was worked out by Dr. Bonnie Trousclair, camp doctor, who is an interne from L.S.U. Medical School.

In camp this week were the scouts from Central District, which included Monroe, West Monroe and Lake Providence.

There are three tent areas and Troop 1 from West Monroe, sponsored by the West Monroe Lions, occupied Skunk Hollow.

Troop 34, the First Methodist Church group from Monroe, and Troop 28, from the Presbyterian Church in Monroe, were billeted in the Applachie tent area.

There are two large troop cabins which will sleep sixteen boys each. The scouts from Troop 25, Lake Providence, and Troop 231, St. Paul's Methodist Church in Monroe, were there this week.

Troop 1, the oldest troop in the Ouachita Valley Council, sponsored by the Knights of Columbus of Monroe, occupied the two small remaining cabins that house eight scouts each.

The cook house is occupied by Mrs. Ben Green, who has been a most popular staff member for a number of years. Her assistants, Betarice Baker and Frozene Dupree, are also quartered in a small building.

There are separate buildings for the senior and junior staff, a commissary and trading post which is managed by Charles Snyder of Bastrop. The shed that houses the drink dispensing machines was the most popular spot at camp Thursday, both for scouts and visitors.

"Pop" Floyd Farrington and his wife occupy the caretakers cottage the year round.

From Reville at 6:3 a.m. until they are in bed at night, the scouts have a full program of activities.

They clean up their tent area before breakfast which is at 7:15. All meals are served family style and in generous proportions, for, said Mrs. Green, "At times I am sure some of the scouts consume five times as much food as an average adult would, and we want them to have plenty."

Thursday morning breakfast consisted of bacon, grits, butter,apple sauce, toast and milk.

Mealtime is a pleasant and noisy time in the old dining hall which was packed to capacity this week.

The time passed quickly as the scouts went from one planned activity to another. They were given a free time in which they chose what they wish to do.

For lunch Thursday the boys consumed large quantities of red beans with meat sauce,rice, coleslaw, bread, butter, chocolate pudding and fruit punch. It was announced the that Troop 10 and Troop 1 had tied for cleanest camp area at inspection. This was cause for celebration.

After lunch, the staff held a planning meeting. "I don't know when the staff rests, I see their lights on even late at night," Herb McCoggins, camp director, said.

He and one group of scouts were wearing a good size bell on their moccasins, an indication that they had spent a night on the Ouachita river, making an outpost camp. It was reported that three of the waterfront staff members had just returned from a three day canoe trip. Explorer scouts are also building a suspension bridge to cross the swamp, the director said.

The next group of scouts to come for a week will be from Madison parish in the northern district.

The boys have a rest period between 1:00 and 2:00 p.m. Ronnie Plaisance, 11, of Monroe, who appeared to be taking advantage of it said, "I like rest period. We get tired."

Thursday afternoon each troop went to seven different areas to be scored on problems presented there. Four scouts and four explorer scouts would compete against each other on each problem and winners and awards were announced at the end of the day.

Bud Bonner, smallest scout in camp, when asked what he liked best about camping, said, "I like everything about it." He had just spotted his mother, Mrs. W. F. Bonner, Jr. and Pat, his 14 year old brother of Lake Providence among the visitors. "I don't know who else came," Bud added.

Thursday afternoon is visitors time and many could be seen wandering under the pine trees, waiting for the scouts to finish their contests. Many bring picnic lunches and stay for the eveining campfire. "We don't have room to feed them in the dining hall," Mr. Pankey said.

In camp Thursday with Mr. Pankey was Capt. Newton E. Condray, liason officer between the Air Force and the Boy Scouts of America.

Mr. Pankey explained that the Air Force assigns one officer to each of the twelve regions in the United States. The Ouachita Valley Council is a member of region five, which comprises the states of Mississippi, Alabama and the northern tip of Florida.

The air force makes available to advance scouts, those who have passed the campfire stage, facilities for advance training, survival courses, meterology, navigation, electronics, information on aviation in general and provide local orientation flights.

Captain Condray works out of Memphis headquarters which is under the Continental Air Command.

The boys were more than ready for dinner Thursday night and enjoyed the chicken and dumplings, fresh lima beans, fruit salad, rolls, punch, ice cream and cake.

The highlight of the camper's week is the Order of the Arrow ceremony around the campfiré on Thursday night.

The trail to the council ring was marked with twelve burning candles which highlighted the twelve parts of the scout law: trustworthy, loyal, helpful, friendly, courteous, kind, obedient, cheerful, thrifty, brave, clean and reverent.

The council ring formed a semicircle on the edge of the lake. The campers entered with arms folded in Indian fashion and went to their places without a sound.

In time to the drum beat, the Order of the Arrow members entered the council ring and stopped in the center. In costume, the medicine man called on the great spirits of the north, south, east and west. A ghost canoe came gliding across the lake with only a flaming torch inside. It pivoted and as it returned the way it came, the medicine man stepped to the edge of the lake, picked up the imaginary fire and returned to the center of the ring.

As he raised his empty hands above the waiting wood, it burst into flame and the council fire burned brightly. The members of the Order of the Arrow performed the deer dance, the sun dance and the flaming hoop dance. There was silence except for the drum beat as the Order of the Arrow left the ring.

"Doc" Trousclair led the ground in song. Jack Pankey welcomed visitors and introduced Ben Parnell council president, and Herb McCoggins introduced all troop leaders.

Again the Indians of the Order of the Arrow entered the circle to a solemn drum beat. The chief told the legend of Camp Kiroli and a huge flaming arrow appeared across the lake. He searched the ring of campers and tapped the following scouts for membership in the order: Ronnie Rushing, Troop 32, Monroe; Wayne Wasson and Russell Morrow, Troop 1, West Monroe; Freddie Heller, Tony Bead and Tommy Caldwell, Troop 1, Monroe; John Green and Joe Ross, Jr., Troop 34, Monroe; and James W. Walters, Troop 231, Monroe.

Thirty minutes after the council fire was over, quiet began to descend upon the camps.

Elmo Gentry of Winnsboro stood alone with his bugle on a silent field.

Taps. Quiet reigned.

With a full moon making picture patterns on the ground outside the tent and the keen odor of pine scenting the air, what better thing in all the world could a boy wish to be than a boy Scout at Camp Ki Ro Li?

Ellender Says Only 4 Projects' Funds Reduced

WASHINGTON, June 23—UP—Sen. Allen J. Ellender (D-La.) said today that only four Louisiana flood control and navigation projects were reduced by a Senate-House conference committee below totals approved by the Senate.

Ellender was chairman of the Appropriations sub - committee which drafted the Senate version of the bill. He listed these projects as below the Senate totals:

Amite-Comite project near Baton Rouge which received $337,500 compared with $200,000 voted by the House and $475,000 by the Senate.

Overton - Red River Waterway, received $150,000 for a feasibility study compared with no money voted by the House and $300,000 by the Senate.

Red River bank stabilization, received $575,000; House voted $500,000; Senate, $650,000.

PAR Critical Of Long's Reorganization Proposals

BATON ROUGE, June 23—UP—The Public Affairs Research Council said Saturday that legislation to revise various state boards and agencies represented "a piece-meal approach."

In many instances, PAR said in its weekly legislative bulletin, such legislation would extend further "the complexities, duplications and inconsistencies of the existing structure."

"These efforts to revise the present organization represent a piece-meal approach, as in the past, and re-emphasize the need for overall examination of the executive branch."

The proposed change in the hospitals department setup, PAR claimed, "violates" the "chief objective" of merging institutions with similar functions under a single board and department because two large hospitals would be excluded along with the state colony and training school.

Under the hospitals department proposal, separate advisory boards, to be appointed by the governor, would be created for two mental hospitals. These boards could appoint the administrator and assistant administrator of these hospitals. The governor also could create advisory boards for other hospitals and those boards could also name the administrators. "The proposal," PAR said, "would return the positions of hospital director and assistant director into the patronage realm."

The proposed organizational setup for the department of Institutions creates a new post of assistant department director. But it doesn't clarify the division of responsibility between he assistant director and the present position of warden in administrating the state prison. The change, added PAR, "could open the way for a purely patronage appointment of possible conflict in the administration of the institution."

Under the proposed changes, both mental and general charity hospitals would be grouped in the Department of Hospitals with the exception of the Confederate Memorial Hospital at Shreveport.

Penal and correctional institutions would be grouped together in a Department of Institutions with the inclusion of the State Colony and Training School, an institution for the care of the feeble minded and epileptic.

Nasser Receives Heavy Vote For Egyptian Post

CAIRO, Egypt, June 23 (AP)—Unofficial reports from voting centers tonight indicated a huge majority had marked a little red circle for Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser in Egypt's "yes or no" election of a president.

Great numbers of the 5,720,000 registered voters, including women for the first time, voted through out the nation today in Egypt's first election in seven years. At the same time they were asked to vote on a new constitution that will transform Egypt's government from a nine-man military council to a civilian system governed by laws.

Official results are not expected to be known until tomorrow.

Given voting rights for the first time, 150,000 women were registered, and a high proportion of them apparently cast ballots.

Egypt's most famous feminist, Dr. Doria Shafik, indignantly abstained, however, on the ground that the new constitution is not democratic and does not recognize the absolute equality of men and women.

Among women voting were the wives of Nasser and the eight other members of the Revolution Command Council which has wielded supreme power since the overthrow of King Farouk four years ago.

The voters were given two ballots, a white one for the presidential election and a yellow one for the plebiscite on the constitution. On the white one was a picture of Nasser and beneath it a black and a red circle. On the yellow ballot was a picture of the document representing the constitution and also black and red circles.

Because a big majority of the electorate is illiterate, election committees explained to voters they should fill in the red circle for "yes" or the black circle for "no"—there was no candidate for president running against Nasser, and the voters' choice was Nasser or nothing.

Nuclear Energy Expected To Be Slow In Replacing Gasoline In Automobiles

WASHINGTON, June 23 (UP) — Don't expect nuclear energy to take the place of gasoline for automobiles, at least not for many years.

That's the word from Kenneth Davis, director of reactor development of the Atomic Energy Commission.

"It is fairly clear that nuclear energy can do little to supplant other fuels in most areas during the next 15 or 20 years," he said.

"For example, nuclear energy cannot do much to supply the enormous demand for liquid fuels for automobiles, buses, trucks and airplanes, nor is it likely to be used directly for such purposes."

Davis spoke to the National Coal Assn., which is seeking to offset the inroads made by gas, oil and other fuels into fields once served almost exclusively by coal.

The coal organization is seeking new uses for coal. But oil imports remain one of its rargbts.

Its convention adopted a resolution urging government agencies to see that the level of residual oil imports is cut or at least held to the 1954 ratio formula. The resolution also asked that crude oil imports be reduced.

The resolution said the Office of Defense Mobilization has been partly successful in reducing residual oil imports but has been "unsuccessful" in curbing crude oil imports.

Another resolution urged Congress and the Federal Power Commission to "recognize that it is not consistent" with the public interest to authorize transportation or export of natural gas in any case in which it would result in economic dislocation, unemployment or injury to any "significant segment" of completing U. S. fuel industries.

The Independent Petroleum Assn. of America kept up its anit-import barrage. Russell Brown, general counsel, sent out a leter this week declaring that "responsibility for the solution of the oil import problem rests with Congress."

Soviets, Yemen Sign Friendship Pledge In Russia

MOSCOW, June 23 —UP— Russia and Yemen signed a joint communique pledging friendship and agreeing to an exchange of diplomatic representatives Saturday at the windup of a state visit by the crown prince of the tiny Arab state.

(In London, it was reported that Russia was dickering for a concession to search for uranium and oil in the secluded little kingdom dug like a nail into the Arabian boot-shaped peninsula.)

Ceremonies at the plush Sovietskaya hotel, where U. S. Air Force Chief of Staff Gen. Nathan F. Twining was being received Saturday night at a formal reception, concluded the two - week visit of Crown Prince Seif ul Islam el Badr. Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin and the crown prince signed the final document.

Communist party chief Nikita S. Khrushchev and a group of first deputy premiers, including George Malenkov, V. M. Molotov and Anastas Mikoyan, who doubles as minister of trade, attended the signing.

The Yemeni delegation then tendered a reception for the Kremlin leaders.

Terrorism Continues In Capital City Of Algeria

ALGIERS, June 23—UP—Gangs of Arab and European gunmen spread terror through the broad avenues and sprawling bazaars of cosmopolitan Algiers today, killing three persons and wounding nine in a series of raids.

All the deaths resulted directly or indirectly from native attacks, but a gang of young Europeans who shot up the Beb El Oued bazaar wounded two Arabs and caused considerable damage.

The day's action was indicative of the shift of violence in Algeria from the countryside to the cities as French troops wipe out the guerrilla bands which once ruled the hinterland.

The only military casualties reported were 15 guerrillas killed in scattered patrol clashes in eastern Algeria and five French troops wounded by a "Molotov cocktail" incendiary hurled from ambush in western Oran province.

The attacks were started early today, when Arab gunmen fanned out from the Casbah to raid the European quarter of downtown Algiers.

A European barkeeper and a native merchant were killed and six Europeans were wounded in four attacks by native gunmen, who scuttled to cover in the Casbah.

It was the second time in four days that sneak raids by native gunmen had sowed panic in the heart of this city of 500,000. Four persons were killed in similar attacks Wednesday.

Police mop-up squads promptly moved into the Casbah, but no arrests were announced immediately.

The European counterattack began at the funeral of Marcel Carbagnati, a young Italian who was shot dead by an Arab Friday. About 1,000 young mourners whipped out revolvers as soon as the services were over and started for the native quarter.

A flying wedge of angry Europeans scattered police and headed for the bazaar district on the fringes of the Casbah, singing France's "Marseillaise" anthem and firing in the air.

"Death to the Arabs!" they shouted. "Give us arms."

—Robert Walker, 80-year-old retired farmer and oil field worker, died today of injuries received in a traffic accident last week.

State troopers said a car driven by Lev Richardson, Houston, Tex., struck Walker's car near Benson.

Funeral services for Walker will be held Monday in Mansfield. Survivors include three brothers and one sister.

Her survivors include her husband, N. B. Stewart, and two children, Charma Ann, 11, and Paual, 5.

U. S. Scientists

with only a description of it.

"Now, for the first time," Dr. De Terra said, "geologists and paleontologists have seen the fossils taken from the actual site, and know exactly the strata they come from."

He said oreopithecus is found only in this upper Miocene or lower pliocene lignite, and only in Italy. Soft coal deposits of the same period exist in Illinois, Colorado and many other places, but no oreopithecus fossils have ever been found in them.

With the bones in the central Italian lignite fields are found fossil remains of mastodon, hares, small antelopes and mice. There are also fossil fragments of huge tree trunks and heavy vegetation indicating a subtropical climate.

Dr. De Terra said no evidence had been found yet to determine whether the manlike creature lived in the trees of the hot swamps, or descended from caves in the nearby mountains to hunt or gather fruit.

most of the first six weeks, the lawmakers face a legislative log-jam of record size when they go back to work Sunday night. The 60-day session ends July 12.

With a record total of nearly 2,000 bills to consider, minor money bills totaling some 200 million dollars were just beginning to trickle out of the House Appropriations Committee. They were bottled up by the 347 million dollar general appropriations bill which passed the House Friday.

The Senate took Friday off, while the House worked overtime for the second week. Both Houses face overtime sessions next week.

Since taking office, May 15, Long has set a terrific pace.

By a two-thirds vote of the Legislature, he fired 14 board members and the chairman of the state tax commission who refused to resign. A host of others resigned at his request.

Then he touched off a feud with the Martins, long-time south Louisiana political powers. Wade Martin Sr., chairman of the state public service commission, was a close ally of Huey Long.

Earl Long entered two men against him, forcing the elder Martin to drop his bid for a fifth six-year term on the commission.

But his son blasted back as Long pushed legislation to strip the secretary of state of his duties as state insurance commissioner and custodian of voting machines.

Martin and Long shouted insults, wrestled over the microphone and almost came to blows Tuesday as a House committee approved a bill to set up a seperate state insurance department. The bill, already passed by the Senate, now awaits a House vote.

A few minutes later, Perez—target of a bitter attack Sunday night when Long addressed a joint session—shoved up to the microphone to call Long a "damn liar," when the governor mentioned his name.

And later that day, with Long gloating "the worst is yet to come with little Wade," the House voted final passage of a bill placing control of voting machines under a nine-man board, which includes the secretary of state.

Long's plan to call a constitutional convention next year was passed by the House and Senate Judiciary "B" Committee has set a hearing tomorrow on the bill.

If it passes the Senate, which most observers think is likely despite rural opposition, it would come up for a vote in the fall.

An administration bill to enlarge the State Public Service Commission from three to five members has been changed to eliminate the extension of terms of present members.

Commissioner John J. McKeithen, a Long political ally, had objected to having his term extended. The bill now awaits a House vote.

The governor is having an easier time with other portions of his program.

The reorganization of the state government to wipe out traces of former Gov. Robert Kennon's administration has proceeded smoothly and is almost complete.

The Legislature has passed and Long signed a bill recreating the supervisor of public funds, combined with the state auditor by Kennon.

Four constitutional amendments abolishing the Kennon businessman boards of public welfare, institutions and wildlife and fisheries have passed the Legislature and await a popular vote in the fall.

Long contended the overlapping terms took the power away from officials elected by the people.

To take their place, Long has pushed through legislation creating:

1. A nine - member Highway Board with the chairman a member of the Legislature and one full-time member from each of the eight congressional districts with terms concurrent with the governor.

Of the new Highway Board, the Public Affairs Research Council, an independent research group, commented it "would reduce considerably the responsibilities, functions and duties of the Board of Highways and at the same time place board members on a full-time salary basis.

The present board members receive only per diem while attending meetings. Members of the new monthly, "transportation equipment" and travel and other expenses.

2. A nine-member Board of Public Welfare similar to the old board except for terms running concurrent with the governor.

3. A 15 - member Institutions Board with jurisdiction over all correctional institutions and the State Colony and Training School, Pineville, with terms running concurrent with the governor.

These three proposals await Gov. Long's signature.

Awaiting final House passage is a bill creating a state hospital board with control of state hospitals and mental institutions which formerly were under the institutions board. Kennon combined the hospitals and institutions boards.

PAR insisted the hospital board also should govern the State Colony and Training School.

"The chief objective of the proposal—to merge similar functions under a single board and department—is violated by placing under the State Colony and Training School (a hospital for the mentally defective and epileptic) under the Department of Institutions with penal and correctional institutions instead of under the department of hospitals and by continuing the New Orleans and Shreveport charity hospitals under separate governing boards," Par said.

However, Long has obtained final passage of legislation reorganizing the governing boards of Shreveport Confederate Memorial Medical Center and New Orleans Charity Hospital knocking out staggered terms established by Kennon.

PAR complained the bill setting up the department of hospitals and hospital board would "return the positions of hospital director and assistant director back into the patronage realm. This would be contrary to the present trend whereby, professional personnel, trained in administrative management, are being appointed to administer hospital programs."

And speaking of the overall administration program, PAR noted that "a number of other proposals would also increase the governor's appointing power" which "is already quite extensive."

The only portion of the administration program not passed by the House is a bill awaiting a House vote which would re-establish the Department of Wildlife and Fisheries headed by a director named by the governor, with no controlling board.

The Legislature this week saw final disposal of the right to work repeal measure as Long signed it into law. It will take effect Aug. 1.

The House still must concur on Senate amendments extending coverage of a companion bill restoring right to work for agricultural workers.

Every major item of a 12-measure program, designed to bulwark racial segregation in Louisiana, has passed the Legislature.

The only bill remaining to pass is a $15,000 appropriation to pay the expenses of the legislative segregation committee which drafted the program. It should come out of the House Appropriations Committee next week.

The segregation appropriation and a host of other money bills were bottled up in committee until this week by the 347 million dollar general appropriations bill which passed the House Friday.

The Senate Judiciary "A" Committee has set a hearing Tuesday, which may be delayed until Wednesday, on a bill banning contests between Negroes and whites. The bill was not sponsored by the segregation committee.

The governor has signed four segregation committee measures. Four others await his signature. Two were resolutions, which do not require the governor's signature, and the last one is a constitutional proposal set for a popular vote next fall.

Bender's plea came as representatives of the Big Three of the industry met with union representatives here in another negotiating session aimed at providing a new contarct for the United Steel Workers which would avert a strike. The union has prepared for strike action at midnight next Saturday if no agreement is reached, and the industry has announced plans to begin shutting down the mills by the middle of next week in anticipation of a walkout.

In a nationwide television appearance, David J. McDonald, president of the steel workers union, said the employes are entitled to a pay raise of 27.5 cents an hour "on the basis of their record production."

"This is in sharp contrast to the steel industry's shameful offer of a nickel increase in net pay," he said.

The big three, U.S. Steel, Republic, and Bethlehem, have offered the union a five-year contract with pay boosts which they said would average 7.3 cents an hour each year.

McDonald's speech was the first union mention of a specific figure in its wage demands. Previously, the union had announced only that it was seeking a "substantial" pay increase.

In his television address, McDonald accused the industry of trying to disrupt the good relations that have existed for years between the steel union and management.

McDonald said the union's demands "are reasonable" and that the industry can well afford to meet them.

He quoted Joseph L. Block, president of Inland Steel, to the effect there can be "no quarrel with a union which proposed wage increases not substantially more than the rise in productivity."

McDonald said the average steelworker increased his productivity last year by "a starling 11 per cent."

"Under Mr. Block's formula," McDonald said, "steelworkers are entitled to an 11 per cent increase in pay — or 27.5 cents an hour, just on the basis of their record production."

Wilson Claims

clothes. (Eisenhower, evidently taking account of grumbling among officers about the extra expense of buying a lot of civilian clothes had passed the word that he felt the question of dress should be optional with them.)

Wilson told reporters at Quantico, where he is attending a conference of defense chiefs, that he did not mean to use "phony" in any connection with what was going on in the Senate.

"I didn't intend it that way," he said.

Asked why he hadn't said so yesterday, instead of waiting until today, the secretary said:

"I didn't realize it was such a blow. I thought it would die out."

He continued to stand by his view that the funds asked for in the Air Force budget are adequate, with no need for extra money.

Meanwhile, the Senate got ready for voting next week on Air Force and other military funds.

Sen. Chavez (D-NM), floor manager of the whole 35-billion-dollar defense bill, predicted the Senate will approve a billion-plus extra for the Air Force "by six to ten votes."

Chavez, who said yesterday that Wilson had "put his proverbial foot in his mouth", said today he thought the controversial Wilson remarks would be forgotten by Monday.

Sen. Ellender (D-La) said he will oppose both billion-plus and half billion dollar increases.

"And there are lots of other senators who feel the same way," he said. "We must stop this crazy spending."

sion at first, "because I thought it was a good idea.

"The first session, however, demonstrated that it merely opened the door to heavier legislative spending."

The fiscal meeting developed after research showed 26 special sessions have been called since the 1921 constitutional convention was called, compared with 18 regular sessions.

The first enthusiastic backers contended fiscal sessions, alternating with the regular 60-day Legislatures every two years, would promote economy by giving lawmakers a constant check on state spending.

The governor always controls special sessions, because the issues are limited to what the governor directs.

Sen. Ainsworth had argued successfully in 1954 for the fiscal session idea because, he said, it would restore the Legislature "to its proper place in our trinity of government."

New talk of extraordinary sessions already has developed, during the turmoil of administration tactics on the raises.

Both Reps. Frank Fulco, Caddo Parish, and Ford Stinson, Bossier, tax opponents, told the House a special session would be the answer if the governor is unable to find enough existing state revefor the teachers pay raise bill he has signed.

In four straight tax votes, with the last one on the gas gathering tax Long wants to pay for the new teachers salary schedule, the governor has tasted defeat. He couldn't muster the two-thirds majority vote.

The two-thirds vote to pass tax raises, which Long violently fought in the April 17 election, when that requirement came before the people, is his big stumbling block now. He wields simple majority control in House and Senate.

The governor has another constitutional proposal awaiting first vote which would put the two-thirds tax raise rule before the people again in November.

If the people support the governor next time, which they refused to do April 17 on that issue, Long would be in position to summon a special session and with simple majority votes call for action on any tax bills he names.

And to pass his proposal to oust fiscal sessions, Long will require a two-thirds House vote, which he has failed to manage on his tax bills.

"If the Legislature is going to stay in session all the time," Long commented, "then we ought to make it a fulltime job and pay members $40 or $500 a month.

"But even Kennon was opposed to the fiscal sessions," Long insisted.

"When I did call special sessions," the governor remarked, "mine were short and sweet."

Crossett Considers Building Code For Growth In Future

CROSSETT, June 23 (Special) — The City Council of Crossett is considering the adoption of a building code in the near future.

At a recent special meeting of the council, Ray Guy, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce fire prevention committee, spoke in favor of the building code.

He stated, "The reason for the Building Code is two-fold: To promote a code of some form to protect the existing buildings, both business and residential, against future faulty building. At present we have no protection of property values.

"Second, there is a growing need to have this building code legislated to bring down fire insurance rates."

He stressed the fact that adoption of the Code will in no way affect existing buildings, as the requirements of the Code are not retroactive. His Fire Prevention Committee is working toward the adoption of a code in their effort to have Crossett's fire insurance rating reduced. This reduction would mean according to reports, a saving to Crossett's property owners of at least $10,000 annually in insurance.

Guy introduced Glenn Zimmerman, Executive Director of the Arkansas Municipal League, who came from Little Rock to answer any questions for the Councilmen or citizens present. He began by saying, "You have a town here that is one of the best that I have seen. You have an industry that is interested in the city, and a city of 5,0000 with plans for future development to 25,000 people.

"But please don't wait to set up building codes. Each year that you wait to adopt any kind of code it will be much harder. Get your code now before you get too big. If you find a portion of it that doesn't work you can amend it as you go along."

The group was told by Zimmerman that the National Building Code, if adopted, would affect home owners chiefly in that a licensed electrician and plumber would be required in home construction or major additions or alterations. However, the Code would chiefly concern the construction of commercial buildings.

The city council invited anyone interested to attend its next meeting on July 16 and discuss the building code for Crossett. Copies of the National Building Code are available for study at the public library.

Pedestrian Hit By Taxi Dies In Conway Hospital

LaSalle Johnson, Negro, 47, of 117 DeSiard Street, died in E. A. Conway Memorial hospital at about 2:30 a.m. yesterday after being struck by a taxicab in the 1300 block of DeSiard Street at about 10:45 o'clock the preceding night, according to the traffic division of the Monroe city police department.

Ada Lee Young, 27-year-old Negro woman of 100 Moore Avenue, is in a serious condition at the same hospital as a result of injuries received when hit by the same car along with Johnson, police reported.

Investigating officers identified the driver of the cab as John L. Person, Negro, 33, of 402 Eighth Street. Person, charged with negligent homicide, has been transferred to the Ouachita parish pail.

Person told police that he had been pushed off in his car and that after getting started, the man and woman appeared in front of him. He said he tried to miss them by swinging to the right of the street and applying his brakes. Police said the man and woman were struck by the left front of the car.

Johnson received a fractured skull, broken pelvis bone, broken left leg in two places, and internal injuries, according to the police report. The young woman suffered breaks of both legs and other undetermined injuries, officers said.

The injured were taken to the hospital by a Hunt ambulance.

"There are 1,150 members in 34 clubs of the Fifth District belonging to the General Federation of Women's Clubs," Mrs. John C. (Jimmie) Kenton of Mangham and president of the district group, proudly relates.

"Why, there are 11 million members in the General Federation," she adds hastily. "And if you don't think that many women can get things done, just watch them!"

To show what she means, the president begins to pull out the data, neatly compiled, which reveals that indeed they aim to get things done.

First there is a brief explanation of the overall organization, including its purposes calculated to build better citizenship.

Next there's a list of the district officers, with their pictures.

And third comes the details, still neatly put, of the district organization and work of the individual clubs.

The president tells you that she intends to head her group for the next two years, along with the assistance of other elected officers, which she quickly lists.

She'll give you a run-down on what the district clubs expect to accomplish :arouse citizens to recognize that individual responsibility is the best weapon for effective community action; seek the control of pollution in lakes and streams; stress the meaning and importance in American life of national, state, and community forests and parks; stimulate action among citizens in support of progress on all levels in all fields of education; stimulate interest and active participation of clubwomen in the creative aspects of fine arts; aid women everywhere in the universal aim to develop better homes; expand knowledge of world affairs, expanding effective citizenship, reaffirming faith in the democratic process, promoting the brotherhood of man, emphasizing moral and spiritual values, and broadening the fellowship with women of other countries; and direct the channel of the individual clubwoman and the clubs for service to themselves, community, state and country.

Jeanne Crain's Divorce Action Grows Hotter

HOLLYWOOD June 23—UP—Actress Jeanne Crain and her estranged husband, Paul Brinkman, resumed their sensational Hollywood divorce actions Friday when his attorney said he planned to "force the star to answer certain questions" in court on July 11.

Both the film star and former television manufacturer gave depositions at the offices of their attorneys. Attorney Greg Bautzer representing the mother of four children, refused to comment on the purpose of the depositions.

Brinkman's attorney, Arthur J. Crowley, however, said the depositions concerned Brinkman's charges last June 14 that his wife had committed adultery. Earlier Miss Crain charged in an amended divorce suit that Brinkman had forced his way into her bedroom and beat her ahead against a bed post until she agreed to submit to him.

"Mr. Brinkman is determined to take his case before a court," Crowley said. "He feels he can't remain silent in the face of the charges his wife has made against him."

Crowley said he planned to have Miss Crain ordered to court "to force her to answer certain questions." Brinkman seeks custody of their four children on his charges that Miss Crain is an unfit mother.

having wonderful time... SHOPPING!

When summer comes, spring is far behind—in sales. People shop a billion dollars more in summer than in spring!

"Summer slump" has been replaced by "summer jump" according to the U. S. Department of Commerce. It reports that retail sales were $45.8 billion last spring, then soared to $46.8 billion in the summer!*

People are just as active reading their newspapers in the summer, too. Daily newspaper circulation remains almost constant all year 'round.

Put these facts together and they spell SALES. Make sure you get your share of summer sales—use the newspaper to reach people in the summer. Remember—there's no summer slump in sales or newspaper readership. And there's no summer replacement for the newspaper! All business is local... and so are all newspapers.

Week In Finance

Summer Brings Upswing In Some Business Lines

NEW YORK, June 23 (AP)—Summer's advent brought warming news this week to businessmen in varied lines.

Basking in the sunshine were department store executives, machine tool manufacturers, freight car builders, furniture makers, heavy construction engineers and others.

Even in the depressed motor capital of Detroit the pulse of business quickened. Ford made a last-minute change in its production plans—a sudden decision to this week, is 44½ billion. That would be a gain of 3½ per cent over 1955 and would easily make 1956 the biggest construction year on record.

The dark spot in the construction picture is home building—the forecast here has been revised boost July output 8 per cent above the rate originally planned. The reason: "To meet higher demand for new cars."

An upward change was announced, too, in the government's official estimate of 1956 construction spending. Back in November the Commerce Department predicted that this year's construction outlays would total 44 billion dollars. The new estimate, announced downward. The way government experts size up the situation now, builders will start work on 1,150,000 new homes this year against an earlier prediction of 1,200,000. But, says the government, other construction projects will more than take up the slack. Big jobs will set the pace—factories, oil refineries, bridges and superhighways.

Industry is adding new plant and equipment at such a furious clip that machine tool builders are finding it difficult to keep up with new orders. Last month, new orders for machine tools totaled a whopping 93 million—up 30 per cent from a year ago.

A great big question mark hovered above the steel industry this week. Company-union wage talks ran into a series of snags; at week's end both sides were making preliminary preparations for a possible strike after the June 30 contract deadline.

The mills were still producing full tilt with operations scheduled at 96 per cent of capacity. There was every indication, though, that this might be a final spurt before producers start banking their furnaces. Who will get hurt most if there's a strike? Not the auto manufacturers—they have more steel than they need. But, say trade observers, a steel shutdown would have a stunning impact on the construction boom.

Stock Market Pauses To Digest Latest Advance

NEW YORK, June 23 (AP)—The stock market paused this week to digest its big advance of the previous week.

The market loafed the first two days, showed some life Wednesday and staged a medium-sized rally Thursday. It looked as if the rally was going to continue early yesterday, but typical pre-weekend profit-taking nipped the advance and left the market mixed.

The Associated Press average rose 20 cents on the week to $182.00.

Encouraging news sparked the Thursday rally. Ford raised July production "to meet the higher demand for new cars." Washington boosted its prediction of new construction. Other corporate news was bullish.

Steels weakened on issuance of strike instructions.

The five most active issues this week were: Panhandle Oil up 1¼, General Motors up 1⅜, Benguet Mining up ¼, Union Oil of California up 1⅜ and Ford up 1⅞.

ALASKAN QUAKE RECORDED

UP—The University of California seismograph station reported Saturday its instruments recorded a "pretty strong" earthquake believed centered in the remote Kamchatka peninsula in Alaska.

Texas Officially Protests Increase In Oil Imports

HOUSTON, June 22 (AP)—Texas this week made an official protest against increased oil imports.

The Railroad Commission authorized a 70,973 barrel daily increase in July crude production. The relatively small increase followed four monthly cutbacks.

Commissioners said imports have reached a new high and would continue higher of Texas ordered a fifth straight cutback.

When the fourth reduction was ordered a month ago, Commissioner Olin Culberson said:

"Imports are crawling up and every time we cut imports go up."

This week Culberson said there is a point beyond which Texas cannot reduce its allowables without "seriously crippling" a great many producers.

"That point has been reached," he said. "It is time to take a stand."

The increase for July was ordered despite suggestions from crude purchasers that market demand justified another decrease. Purchasers advised the commission they would need 2,815,884 barrels of Texas crude daily in July, 23,618 barrels daily below June recommendations.

At the July statewide proration hearing, a spokesman for Gulf said his company has added 2,738,000 barrels of Texas crude to storage this year. Jack Coates of Houston said Gulf has leased all available storage and stopped leasing because of failure to find more tanks.

The commission ordered a July allowable of 3,322,043 barrels daily, compared to the June 1 allowable of 3,261,251. Prior to the four consecutive cutbacks, the state's daily permissible flow for crude oil had reached a record 3,388,000 barrels in February. State laws charge the commission with limiting crude production to market demand.

Repairs, overhauls and other operating factors normally keep the state's actual production about 13 per cent below the authorized allowable. The American Petroleum Institute estimated Texas' actual production for the week ending June 15 at 2,955,000 barrels daily.

Vidalia Girls Are Rainbow Officers

VIDALIA, June 23 (Special — Misses Ruth Hughes and Sandra Looper, of Vidalia, were elected grand officers at a meeeing of the Order of Rainbow for Girls held in Shreveport.

Miss Cooper was made grand Christian Flag Bearer and Miss Hughes was named Grand Representative from Louisiana to Canada.

U. S. Reaffirms Its Offer Of Funds For Egypt's Nile Dam

WASHINGTON, June 23—UP—The United States had told Egypt "quite recently" that its offer to help build the giant Aswan dam still stands despite pro-Soviet actions of Premier Gamal Badel Nasser, it was learned Saturday.

Informed sources said the United States reaffirmed its offer to help harness the Nile just before Dmitri Shepilov, new Russian foreign minister, arrived in Cairo last week on a "goodwill mission."

Furthermore, the United States still feels that Nasser wants to accept the Western offer — rather than a Soviet offer — of aid to build the $1.2 billion project. The Egyptian strong man has been trying, however, to get the United States to make a firmer commitment promising to carry through with the 15-year project to completion, a promise which cannot be made under the American system of yearly appropriations by Congress.

American officials are now hoping that Nasser will make a pro-Western gesture that will indicate he plans to accept the U. S. offer. This could lead the way to formal acceptance in short order and construction on the first phase of the dam.

The project would back up a lake 300 miles long. It would cost about $1.2 billion. Egypt can put up about $900 million in services and local equipment. The remainder would have to be financed by foreign sources.

The United States and Britain late last year offered to put up $70 million to finance coffer dams, foundations for the main dam and auxiliary work. The United States would supply about $56 million of that and Britain $14 million.

In addition, the World Bank has offered to lend Egypt another $200 million.

Cotton Futures Firm; End Week At Higher Level

NEW YORK, June 24 (AP)—The cotton futures market turned firm this week. Active futures contracts on the New York Cotton Exchange closed at prices ranging from 45 cents to $1.9 a bale higher than a week before.

Best gains were scored by the nearby July and October months and the smallest by distant July.

Nearby deliveries were bolstered by short covering and commission house buying. Gains in the distant months were curbed, however, by hedge selling. Some selling in the far-off contracts was prompted by continued favorable weather reports from the belt, and a new series of mill curtailments.

Bullish sentiment was dampened also by a contra-seasonal decline in the daily rate of cotton consumption by U.S. mills last month, and by a lower price level approved by the commodity export corporation for its cotton export program. At the latest sale June 12 under the CCC's export program, the agency accepted price of 15 cents a pound. This compared with a price of 27½ cents at two previous sales under the export program.

Exports of U.S. cotton for the week ended Tuesday dipped to 60,000 bales from 73,000 the previous week, the New York Cotton Exchange Service Bureau reported. This compared with shipments of 94,000 bales in the like week of 1955.

"Greatest performing engine ever built in America!"
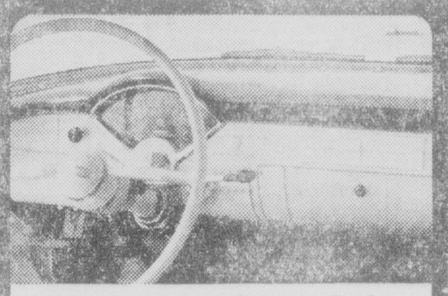
in MECHANIX ILLUSTRATED

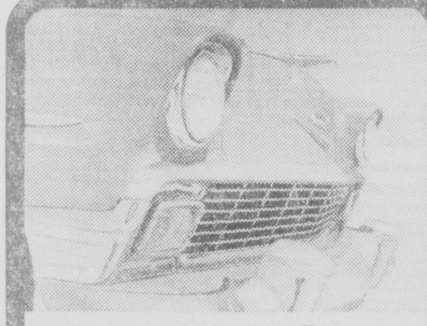
"The hottest thing since Casey got locked in the steam bath. Here's an engine . . . that, due principally to its fantastic breathing properties, can wind up tighter than an East Laplander's mandolin."

"Ounce for ounce and cubic inch for cubic inch, this Chevrolet engine is the greatest performing engine ever built in America bar none . . . available on any model they [Chevrolet] build . . ."



"Greatest performance buy ever offered in America. And, considering that low price was a major design factor, this engine might very well be the greatest competition engine ever built."

"Would run away from the best performing sedan built in Europe. This Chevrolet, costing about ten percent of the European car's price, could eat it alive even with an unwarmed-up engine."



"The hot one is even hotter," Tom agrees after testing the '56 Chevy with "the best engine in the U.S."

That's just part of the praise automotive expert Tom McCahill gave Chevrolet's record-breaking 225-h.p. V8 in a recent issue of Mechanix Illustrated. This engine is available as an extra-cost option in all models.

Chevy's own special brand of performance makes trips seem shorter, hills seem flatter—and saves you seconds in passing for greater safety.

We'll be happy to have you read Tom McCahill's complete article on the Chevrolet V8 any time you stop in.

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

Chalk up another "first" for the Twin Cities—an automobile race track that started out as a show arena for horses.

In a wooded section off the old Natchitoches road and the Downing's Pines road, this track is shaping up on a 20-acre plot owned by Oliver Cloyd, the West Monroe packing plant operator, and an additional 20-acre spread affords plenty of parking space for spectators around the big oval.

Already named "The Twin City Speedway," the racing oval is a half mile track with near quarter of a mile straight aways.

No formal organization has been set up as yet, but Cloyd and Tommy Younse are ramrodding the promption with the West Monroe Quadrille, a riding club. Cloyd credits

OLIVER CLOYD AND TOMMY YOUNSE

Younse, a former Ouachita High School football star, with supervising most of the work in construction of the track.

Cloyd is the sports-minded citizen who built a baseball park on his Natchitoches road property in the late 1940s, catering chiefly to Delta League clubs, and, for a while, it was the only baseball park in the Twin Cities until Legion Memorial Park opened for business in Monroe in 1950. After its brief appearance on the local sports scene, Cloyd's Park was torn down, but some of that old Natchitoches road baseball plant is still in operation as Cloyd's former lighting system now graces Lions Field, home of Little League baseball in Monroe.

"We started this track for the West Monroe horse owners as a place where they can ride, conduct shows, or anything else in which they can enjoy their horses," Cloyd related. "The West Monroe Quadrille has worked extensively in helping to get our track ready and will sponsor any events we conduct. When the hotrod boys heard about what we were doing they applied for a part of our program, and the track has been graded to meet speedway requirements."

The track has already seen some informal action, including hotrod races last Sunday that attracted an estimated 1,500 spectators with the track owners conducting no extensive publicity campaign.

Formal opening of the track is set for July 8, the first Sunday after the Fourth of July, Cloyd said last night. It will be a day for the horsemen with maybe a hotrod exhibition or two.

"We're inviting in the riding clubs from throughout this section of the country to acquaint the horsemen with what we have to offer," Cloyd said. "Some of the hotrod or stock car boys might want to take a few spins about the track just to show the folks their possibilities as well."

There's still lots of work to be done, everything is in rough dress, but the dirt track is well graded with sunken post guard rails. Concession stands also are roughly erected right now, but there's plenty of shade in surrounding trees, and, if the track proves as attractive as expected improvements can be made as the interest mounts.

Stanhouse Shades Monroe's Davolio In Pitching Battle

The Lafayette Oilers used an unearned run in the ninth inning to snap a seven-game losing streak and defeat the Monroe Sports, 1 to 0, in the final of a series here. Monroe had won three of four in the set with the Oilers.

Altthough raked for eleven hits, John Davollo, big Monroe lefthander, had hurled some great ball but could get little bat support for his cause as Dave Stanhouse was shutting off the Sports with just four safe blows.

Joe Ridge, who was safe on the game only error after two were out in the ninth, stole second and romped on Dave Wandra's game winning single into right field to snap the tension of the pitching duel.

Today the Sports are in Lake Charles to open a two-day stand, and they return here for dates with Wednesday.

Lafayette lost two great scoring chances in the fourth and sixth innings, missing on the first by some fine clutch pitching by Davolio and losing out on the second on a fielding gem by Bill Carr.

Successive singles by Mike Yarmchuk, Giles Setzer, and Fred Caviness loaded the bases with none out in the fourth, but Davolio promptly tightened to fan Joe Pearson, Joe Patrick, and Bill Zimmerman in order. He had handed Pearson and Patrick three straight balls before getting over the first strike on either.

Yarmchuk, who had led off the sixth with a single, was on third base when Patrick poled a sinking liner into center field. Carr came charging in, lunged, and made a rolling catch of the drive to end the inning.

The Oilers also got two hits in the first and seventh innings, ending each with a runner on third, and in the seventh Yarmchuk, who had hit three-for-three up to that point, was cuasing Monroe fans some concern until he grounded out to "Blackie" Millet at third.

Then with two out in the ninth, Jim Johnston let Ridge's easy roller scoot between his legs just off first base for the game's first miscue. Ridge stole second, and cracked the shutout when Dave Wandra laced a single into right field. Wandra also stole second, but Yarmchuk flied out to end the in-

Just a couple of hits at crucial times could have been a big help to Davolio. Roy Mantle doubled with one out in the first inning but could move no further. Davolio doubled, himself, in the third with one out and he was left on the same sack. A base on balls to Keith Mitchell and a single by Joe Miller came with one out in the fourth, but Mitchell got no further than second, and Johnston singled in the ninth and stole second with only one out, and second was where he ended.

Courtney Springs Upset On Jenkins In 400 Meter Run

BAKERSFIELD, Calif., June 23 —UP—Tom Courtney of the New York Athletic Club upset defending champion Charley Jenkins of Villanova Saturday night as he set a new national AAU record in the 40 meter run.

Courtney, best known as one of the top 800 meter men in the world, came on with a sprinting stretch finish to nip Jenkins in 45.8 seconds. The former AAU record, set in 1948 by Herb McKenley, was 45.9. The world mark is 45.4, set by Lou Jones at the Pan-American Games last year.

It was the sixth AAU record out of nine events completed Friday night and early Saturday night in the 68th annual championships.

The thermometer reached 102 degrees here Saturday in mid-afternoon, but a mild breeze came up late in the day and as the first events got underway Saturday night the wind guage measured between four and 10 miles an hour.

Curtis Pair Meet Hurley, Golden Terror Tuesday

After taking two straight lickings from the combination of the Golden Terror and Frank Hurley, Jack Curtis has called for the aid of his brother, George, in his scheduled tag team main event with the same opposition Tuesday night at Kallio's Arena.

Hurley and the Terror have proven their ability on the canvass since coming to Monroe two weeks ago. Hurley the Australian heavyweight champion, who came to this area with the reputation of taking advantage of every opportunity in the ring has confirmed the reports and the unknown masked villain has proved to be just the partner that he needed to halt the supremacy of the Curtis family.

Jack Snow of Marshall, Tex., met defeat with Jack last week, just as Al Zask from St. Louis, Mo., did a week earlier.

After last Tuesday's scrap Curtis said, "I'll get them nextweek; I'll bring George back with me."

When Hurley was informed that George would be in Jack's corner this Tuesday he commented: I've never wrestled against this other Mister Curtis, but I know that with the Terror on my side I can beat even the best."

The relay battle will have a 90 minute time limit with two falls needed to win.

Wildlife Group Will See Sports Film On Tuesday

The Ouachita unit of the Louisiana Wildlife Federation meets here Tuesday night at 7:30 o'clock at Hotel Virginia in the midst of its membership campaign with a program that features a special sports film to be presented by John Blanchard, publicity chief of the Louisiana Wildlife and Fisheries, plus discussion of unit projects and problems.

Arthur "Bud" Tidwell, member of the unit's board of directors, said a special invitation is being extended to sporting goods houses and fish bait establishments to have representatives at the meeting.

"We're hoping everyone connected with the sale of sporting equipment and supplies is represented at the meeting," Tidwell said, "because we're planning a special program in which their help will be greatly needed."

In connection with the membership drive, the unit plans to hold following meeting in various locations within the parish. Next month's session is already tagged for Sterlington. Awards are to be presented in connection with the membership drive, and two door prizes will be offered Tuesday.

Pirates Sell Young Lefthander To A's

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 23—UP—The Kansas City Athletics Saturday purchased a young lefthanded pitcher from the Pittsburgh Pirates at an over-the-waiver price.

Jack Wally McMahan, 24 of Hot Springs, Ark., will report to the A's here Sunday, Parke Carroll, Athletics general manager, announced.

The purchase of McMahan was part of a three-way deal in which Forrest (Spook) Jacobs, Columbus Jets second baseman, went to the Pirates on a waiver claim in exchange for Pittsburgh reserve second baseman Curt Roberts.

McMahan had a 9-7 record for McAlester, Okla., of the Sooner State League after being signed out of high school in 1952. He later pitched for Joplin, Owensboro, Ky., and Quincy, Ill. He had an 11-5 record at Birmingham of the Southern Association in 1955.

Red Sox Shatter Gorman Jinx For 6-3 Nod Over A's

KANSAS CITY, June 23 (AP)—Boston shattered the Tom Gorman spell tonight to defeat Kansas City 6 to 3. It was only the second defeat the Athletics' bespectacled right-hander has suffered at the hands of the Red Sox during his entire American League career.

Gorman went into the game with an all-time 8-1 record against Boston. He was 2-0 this season. But starting with Jim Piersall's leadoff double in the first, the Sox got to him tonight for eight hits and five runs, including homers by Red Lepcio and Sammy White, before Gorman was relieved by Bobby Shantz in the sixth.

The win put Boston 2-up in the three-game series that ends tomorrow. A crowd of 16,042 turned out tonight.

Mel Parnell, making his first appearance since he sprained an ankle May 16, got off to a shaky start, walking in an A's run in the first. Then he settled down to a brilliant performance until the ninth when he ran out of gas, and Ike Delock was called in to end an A's rally.

Giants Recall Lennon From Minneapolis

NEW YORK, June 23 (AP)—Desperate for some hitting punch, the New York Giants today recalled Bob Lennon, slugging outfielder, from Minneapolis of the American Association.

The Giants said they hoped Lennon would arrive in time to play in tomorrow's double header against Milwaukee.

The 27-year-old native of Brooklyn started the season with the Giants, played in five games but went hitless in seven times at bat. He is rated a long ball hitter.

Last year with Minneapolis he batted .280 but knocked in 104 runs hitting 31 homers.

East-West Match Tunes Collegians

COLUMBUS, Ohio, June 23—UP —Some of the nation's best collegiate golfers will tune up for the NCAA golf tournament Sunday with an East-West match.

The NCAA tournament committee will choose players from both sections of the country to play in the best-ball match on the Ohio State University course.

The battle for the NCAA crown itself gets underway Monday with some 240 golfers scheduled to compete in the week-long affair.

Louisiana State University, last year's champion, is expected to be the team to beat. The Tigers test only one man from their championship squad. He is Johnny Pott, NCAA medalist, who shot a 136 last year. Purdue University, Houston, and North Texas State are close team contenders. North Texxas was runner up in 1955.

Stopwatch Shows How Baseball Time Drags On

KANSAS CITY, June 22 (AP) — Just how much actual time is the ball in play during one of these long-winded modern baseball games?

Sports writer Dick Wade of the Kansas City Star, with a stop watch, kept tab on Thursday's 8½ inning battle between Washington and Kansas City. For the official records, the game lasted 2 hours, 38 minutes, and Kansas City won 15-6.

But Wade said he actually clocked only 9 minutes, 55 seconds of action.

Wade reported that in arriving at his total he used the watch on all hit balls, both outs and safeties, and counted home runs until the ball went over the fence. He allowed a flat one second for each pitch from mound to plate, including the umpire's call.

"Where, then, did the missing 2 hours, 28 minutes go?" Wade asked.

"Pitchers took the most of it.

"For instance, Dean Stone averaged 14 seconds between tosses. Camilo Pasqual, a dirt-kicker and pants-tucker, is a 17-second man and Pedro Ramos likes to get it over with in a hurry, averaging only 8 seconds between offerings. (All pitch for Washington).

"For the A's, Jose Santiago took an average of 11 seconds, Bill Harrington 10 and Bobby Shantz limited it to 7 in one frame he worked."

Wade counted 279 pitches during the game — 150 by the Nats, 129 by Kansas City hurlers.

"Batters also took their toll of time," Wade continued. "Jose Valdivielso, Nats' shortstop, is the worst. He went for an 11-second stroll out of the batter's box between each pitch.

"At the other extreme is Harry Simpson of Kansas City, who seldom leaves the box . . . ."

Changing pitchers also is time-consuming, Wade found. The A's used up 2 minutes, 15 seconds switching from Santiago to Harrington. The Nats used 4 minutes, 20 seconds to swap Pasqual for Stone — including mound discussions and the reliefer's warmup tosses.

Bastrop Points For 22nd Annual Kraft Tournament

BASTROP, La., June 23 (Special)—A record number of entrants is expected to tee off in the $1,500 pro-amateur Krfart Paper Tournament which will be held July 2-3-4 at the Morehouse Country Club.

J. W. Lowery, chairman for the event, said entries are coming in from all parts of the south for this 22nd annual tournament which in the past has been won by such men as Tommy Bolt and Freddy Haas. He said a number of top Monroe players had already indicated their intention of competing.

Lowery explained that $1,500 in merchandise prizes will be awarded winning amateurs and $400 in cash awards for winning pros.

Assisting with arrangements is Leonard Warren, Morehouse Country Club pro. Warren has his course in perfect shape for the big event which has been called by some, the "biggest pro-amateur tournament in the south."

Qualifying rounds have been in progress since June 17 and will continue until July 1. A full program of activities including a free barbecue, dance, cocktail hour and other events will be open to entrants.

Lowery said today that qualifying rounds for amateurs will be 18 holes medal play and then flights of 16 players will be made up for championship and first flights. These will play 18 holes. All other flights will be made up of eight men playing nine hole matches.

In addition, there will be an 18-hole best ball medal play for pro-amateur teams. Each team will consist of a pro and three amateurs, two of whom will be chosen by lot. Members of the first six teams will receive merchandise prizes with the exception of the pros who will receive cash.

Lowery explained that the entrance fee of $12.50 must be paid before the qualifying round is played.

Patty Berg Ties Mrs. Hagge For Lead In Tourney

DETROIT, June 23—UP— Patty Berg, the red-haired veteran from St. Andrews, Ill., fired four birdies in a six-hole stretch Saturday on her way to a 71 and a tie for the lead at the three-quarter mark in the $7,500 Ladies PGA championship.

Mrs. Marlene Bauer Hagge, leader through 36 holes, was tied with Miss Berg after the third round. Mrs. Hagge is the leader in money winnings this year, with Miss Berg second.

Miss Berg was two strokes off the pace before Saturday and after her first eight holes Saturday afternoon was a full four strokes behind.

But Miss Berg strung together three straight birdies starting with the ninth. Then she holed out a 35-foot approach shot for a birdie deuce at the 14th.

Mrs. Hagge, Asheville, N.C., playing in a twosome with Betty Jameson, San Antonio, Tex., right behind Miss Berg, had a two-under par 34 on the front nine.

Cathy Cornelius, Lake Worth, Fla., moved into fourth place with 222.

Braves Nip Giants, 2-1, For 8th In Row

Payoff Hits Are Homers By Rice, O'Connell In 9th

NEW YORK, June 23 (AP)—Pinch hitter Del Rice and Danny O'Connell smashed successive home runs in the ninth inning today as Milwaukee won its eighth straight, 2-1 over the New York Giants. Johnny Antonelli had shut out the Braves with only two singles until the ninth.

Antonelli retired the first 13 men in succession until Bobby Thomson singled in the fifth. HankAaron's single in the seventh was the only other hit until Rice, batting for pitcher Warren Spahn, tied the score with a homer off the left field facade, his second of the season. O'Connell then followed with his first homer of the year into the upper left field seats,, chasing Antonelli.

Going to the ninth, Hank Thompson's leadoff home run into the upper right field stands in the second was the only run of the game. It was Hank's second of the year.

Spahn received credit for the two runs scored after he left for a pinch hitter and won his sixth. It was Antonelli's sixth defeat.

The Braves haven't lost since Fred Haney replaced Charlie Grimm as manager last Saturday night after the club dropped a game to Brooklyn.

Milwaukee's winning streak is the longest of the major league season, boosting their lead over second place Brooklyn to 1½ games.

Americans Claim 2 Doubles Titles In London Tennis

LONDON, June 23—UP—American pairs won the women's and the mixed doubles championships Saturday in the London Grass courts tennis tournament, but Neale Fraser of Australia sprang the surprise of the day when he upset countryman Ken Rosewall in the men's singles final.

Fraser took advantage of one of Rosewall's worst days to win, 7-5, 3-6, 9-7, in this final tuneup for the Wimbledon championships which begin on Monday.

Althea Gibson of New York teamed with Gardnar Mulloy of Denver, Colo., to win the mixed doubles crown with a 3-6, 6-3, 6-4 triumph over Darlene Hard of Montebello, Calif., and Bob Howe of Australia.

However, Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Calif., and Shirley Fry of St. Petersburg, Fla., stymied Miss Gibson's bid for a share of two titles when they defeated her and Angela Buxton of England, 6-2, 7-5, in the women's doubles final.

Mayer Fires 63 For Lead

PHILADELPHIA, June 22 (AP) — Unheralded pro Dick Mayer of St. Petersburg, Fla., turned in a record-breaking 63, five under par, to take the lead with a 198 today in the Philadelphia Daily News $20,000 Open Golf Tournament.

The 33-year-old Mayer smashed the tourney mark of 64 set by five players last year. He shot a one-under-par 32 on the front nine and returned home even hotter with a 31 on the final nine.

Mayer started the day's play with a 135, two strokes behind the second day leader, Bill Casper Jr., Chula Vista, Calif. Mayer's red hot performance gave him a three-stroke lead over Bud Holscher, of Apple Valley Calif., in the battle for $4,000 in first place money.

Mike Setchick of Mahopac, N.Y. trailed Holscher with a 202, shooting a 67 for the day.

Cary Middlecoff, winner of last week's National Open at Rochester, was way down the list with a 214. Middlecoff, who started the day with a 143, shot a par 33 on the initial nine, but rose to 38 for the final nine and a day's card of 71.

Mayer, a native of Old Greenwich, Conn., had his best previous tourney performance in the Azalea Open in Wilmington, N.C., in March when he finished second to Mike Souchak.

Fishermen Loses To Thinking Cap In Stymie Stakes

NEW YORK, June 23—UP—Christiana Stable's Thinking Cap ran away from favored Fisherman in the stretch at Belmont Park Saturday to win the inaugural running of the $28,150 Stymie Handicap by three and one - quarter lengths.

Fisherman, going to the front shortly after the start and setting the pace until challenged by Thinking Cap, was no match for the winner in the final drive. The gallant little colt enjoyed a four and one-half advantage over third place Begorra at the finish, however.

Thinking Cap paid $15.10, $4.90 and $3.80 across the board while picking up a winner's purse of $19,100.

Bums' 9th Inning Rally Stop Reds For 7-6 Win

BROOKLYN, June 23 (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers struck in the last of the ninth inning for the second time in three days today, scoring three runs to whip the Cincinnati Redlegs 7-6 and regain second place in the National League.

Rocky Nelson's single off the right field screen scored pinch runner Charley Neal with the winning run after Randy Jackson had tied the score with a double scoring Pee Wee Reese and Junior Gilliam.

The last two runs were charged to Cincinnati's relief ace, Bud Freeman, who absorbed his second loss against five victories after replacing starter Hal Jeffcoat. Clem Labine, Brooklyn's third pitcher, received credit for the victory, his sixth against one loss.

The game was marred by Jeffcoat's beaning of Dodger utility infielder Don Zimmer in the fourth inning. Zimmer was hit on the left side of the face and was taken by stretcher to a hospital, where X-rays disclosed a fractured cheek bone. He also suffered a concussion. Zimmer, who started the game at shortstop in place of Reese, will be sidelined for at least two weeks.

Sea O Erin Leads All Way To Take Arlington Feature

CHICAGO, June 23 (AP)—Hasty House farm's Sea O Erin, leading all the way, withstood two stiff challenges in the stretch today to win the $27,000 Laurence Armour Memorial Handicap before 22,251 at Arlington Park.

Hasseyampa, owned by Walmac farm, closed fast to finish second and Mrs. A. M. Creech's Styrunner was third in the field of six. Jet Action, a 6-5 favorite, never threatened and finished fourth.

Piloted by Kenny Church, Sea O Erin ran the 1⅛ miles in a slow 1:53 2-5, five seconds off the track record set by Coaltown in 1949.

A solid second choice, Sea O Erin paid $3, $3.80 and $2.80 and added $15,474 to his previous earnings of $74,305 for the season. In all, the 5-year-old son of Shannon II has now earned a total of $348,653.

Both Styrunner and Hasseyampa challenged Sea O Erin. Styrunner, second most of the way, made his bid and faltered in midstretch. Then came Hasseyampa but he, too, failed.

A "COMMON SENSE" Suit At An "UNCOMMON PRICE" . . . Our Tropical Of

Dacron & Wool $48

We are inclined to think that there are far too many superlatives used in advertising today—too many "finest,"—far too many "amazing" and "miracle."

This 55% Dacron, 45% wool tropical is none of these. It is by no means the "finest" suit in our store but it is a very good one—lightweight, durable, crease resistant and tailored to our standards. Its performance during a Louisiana summer, while hardly "miraculous," will be highly satisfactory, very probably resulting in lower cleaning and pressing bills. While the value is hardly an "amazing" one, the price certainly "not the lowest anywhere"—we strongly suspect you will agree with us that this particular Dacron and Wool Tropical is quite a buy at $48—quite a suit for the hot summer and warm fall ahead— but then why not come see for yourself—but please, no "superlatives," we blush easily.

Other fine tropicals available from $35.00 to $89.50

Bill Halley Tops Big 8's Pitchers; 24 Hit Over .300

RUSTON, La., June 23 (Special)—Twenty - four players are hitting .300 or better in the Big Eight League after two rounds of play. Bill Halley of Bernice, who twirled winning ball for the Monroe Sports a few years back, is the leading pitcher with four wins and no losses. Hollis Morton of Homer has a 3-0 record, Jess Mercer of Ruston and Terry Murry of Bastrop are next in line with two victories. In the home run department Pel Austin, who led the Cotton States League, has clouted five over the fence for Bernice. Halley of Bernice has four homers to his credit, Melvin Colvin of Ruston 3, Tony Chimento of Bastrop 2, Ben Carroll of Bernice 2, Wade Scott and Dean Busboon of Minden 2, Bob Boggan of Ruston 2.

Jackie Moreland, Minden's basketball star, and Tony Chimento of Bastrop are tied for hitting honors at .462. Bernice has seven players hitting .300 or better with Ruston next in line with six.

The Big Eight managers meet Friday night to determine whether or not they will carry out the seven-inning game experiment this season. Excellent crowds and shorter games featured the second round of play. Also on the agenda will be the selection of the All-star team that will face the league leaders of June 29th. The All-star game will be played on the 5th of July at the town of the top team of the league on the 29th. At present it looks like Ruston has the inside track but the four top teams are bunched so close together that a loss or a win will make the difference.

Grim Cracks Up After Fistic Row With Dave Philley

CHICAGO, June 23 (AP)—Probably un-nerved by a fist - swinging charge to the mound by Dave Philley, New York pitcher Bob Grim cracked for two runs in the sixth and a 2-0 defeat today by the surging Chicago White Sox, who thus moved to within three games of the pace-setting Yankees.

Veteran Jim Wilson allowed only four Yankee hits to match teammate Billy Pierce as the American League's "winningest" pitcher with 10 decisions.

It was Chicago's second straight over New York, the sixth in a row for the Pale Hose and their ninth in ten on the current home stand.

Grim's first defeat of the season after four victories and the first of his career against the White Sox began when he plunked Philley with a pitched ball to start the sixth.

The ball struck Philley's shoulder, glanced to his head and knocked off his cap. To the surprise of a fine Saturday crowd of 29,832, Philley spun his bat angrily like a majorette and then rushed out toward Grim.

Near the mound, Philley wound up to swing, but Grim punched first. The Yankee right hander missed. Philley countered, but also missed. Then players from both benches swarmed in between the two warriors.

Philley was chased from the game and Jim Delsing ran for him. Next up, Sherm Lollar leveled on the upset Grim and poked a double to the right field corner, scoring Delsing. Lollar was out trying for third.

The jittery Grim walked Walt Dropo, who made second on Fred Hatfield's infield out. With little Luis Aparicio at 2-2, Yankee second sacker Billy Martin charged to second trying to bluff Dropo back to the bag. Aparicio drilled the ball right through Martin's vacated spot to score Dropo.

Miz Clementine Cops New Castle Run For Calumet

STANTON, Del., June 23 (AP)—Calumet farms, a famed stakes winning racing establishment throughout the country, won its first big prize at Delaware Park as its five-year-old mare, Miz Clementine, romped to a front running 2½-length victory in the $37,300 New Castle Stakes today.

Miz Clementine, a brown mare by Bull Les-Two Bob, was one-third of a three horse Calumet entry in the mile and a sixteenth event for fillies and mares. Miss Arlette and Amoret were the other Calumet thoroughbreds sent after the New Castle first prize of $28,050.

Jockey Jack Westrope sent the mare to the front shortly after the break from the gate and she never let up, holding the lead throughout the race, and winning in the good time of 1:44. She paid her backers among the 22,647 fans, $11.80, $4.60 and $3.20, a rather healthy return for a three-horse Calumet entry.

Mrs. E. D. Jacobs' Searching, recent winner of the Top Flight Handicap at Belmont Park finished second, and paid $4.60 and $3.80, while Maine Chance farm's Myrtle's Jet took the show at $5.40. The disappointment of the race was the 2-1 favorite, Parlo, Fox Catcher farm's 1955 champion mare, who finished dead last in the field of 12 fillies and mares.

Parlo never was in the running and jockey Eric Guerin said after the race, "She just didn't want to run today. She labored all the way." On the other hand, Westrope said of Miz Clementine, "I was told to ride her like I owned her and I did. She was full of run."

The New Castle was the second jewel of Delaware Park's distaff big three series of races. Last week Dotted Line, King Ranch filly, won the Oaks. The latter was scratched from today's race, along with Bohemia stable's Djeddorine and Sam E. Wilson Jr.'s Lady Swords, but is expected to compete in next week's $150,000 Delaware Handicap the final third of the big three races.

Phils Use Haddix To Halt Cardinals In 8 To 3 Battle

PHILADELPHIA, June 23 (AP)—Former Card Harvey Haddix and the big bats of the Philadelphia Phillies combined today to whip St. Louis 8-3 and run Philadelphia's current win streak to four games.

The major blows in the Phils' attack were a third inning grand slam homer by Del Ennis, his 13th round tripper of the season, and catcher Stan Lopata's bases-empty homer in the first. Six of the Phillies' nine hits were for extra bases.

Haddix came to the Phils in a six-player deal with the Cards.

A's Select Gleeson For Special Scout

KANSAS CITY, June 23 (AP)—James J. Gleeson, former major league outfielder, today was named a scout by the Kansas City Athletics.

Gleeson, who played with the Cleveland Indians, Chicago Cubs and the Cincinnati Reds, finished his playing career with the old Kansas City Blues of the American Association.

Club officials said Gleeson would be used on special assignments.

Born Mighty 1st In Ohio Run For Fat $34 Return

CLEVELAND, Ohio, June 23—(AP)—Cornelius V. Whitney's Born Mighty, a 16-1 shot, scored a stunning one-length victory over the Preakness winner, Calumet Farms' Fabius, in the $45,340 Ohio Derby at Thistledown Saturday.

Racing through a rainstorm, which struck a few minutes before post time, and turned the track sloppy, Fabius tired badly in the final yards of the mile and an eighth event, after having held a three-length lead in the stretch. Toby B., from the Van Deren and Deming Stable, finished third, a nose behind Fabius.

Born Mighty, ridden by John Choquette, covered the route in 1:55 4-5 and paid $34, $9.00 and $5.40 across the board.

wonderful outing and believe it or not the cash outlay for the big journey failed to reach quite $100. Also believe it or not they have just found the German Shepherd dog such as they sought in the far west, at no further distance than out DeSiard Road near the overpass. Again this was a case of "Acres of Diamonds right at Home."

If one desires to make a economical trip, he might do well to consult Mrs. Jack for she seems to posses the know how together with superior energy.

Her husband for some time regarded that if he had a Guiding Eye dog that he could get around faster and better and sell more brooms. He heard of the Guiding Eye in North Hollywood, where dogs are available free of cost to responsible blind persons, but they are required to spend a month at the cost of the company while the dog and his master get well acquainted.

With a reservation made by mail for the California dog training place, the next most important item was MONEY.

The family's finances were at low ebb, also Mrs. Jack while driving around Monroe had never tackled a project like a drive to far off California. A kindly disposed preacher's wife informed a broadcaster at a Bastrop radio station of the family's desires and of their financial status. This man at once broadcast an earnest appeal which brought results. A sum almost $100 was contributed from this source.

Swept almost off their feet with this unlooked for generosity, the Perots were ready to start for almost any place on the map. A filling station map showed how Highway 80 goes straight across the south to California, terminating in San Diego. It was this highway and highway 70 that brought the couple to their destination.

To keep the record straight, Mrs. Jack said that they had not $100 but $90 as the sum total of their fluid resources. With this sum, Mrs. Jack operating the car, began to compare mentally her experience with that of Christopher Columbus when bent on world adventure. But let her tell the story:

"The first night we stopped in Longview, Tex. where I have a relative glad to see us and it was their pleasure to see we had supper and breakfast as well as a good bed at retiring time.

"Then we started on our way again. The next night we stayed with a married daughter in Fort Worth and the third night at Odessa where a nephew of mine lives. He gave us valuable advice especially about how to cross the blazing desert. We followed his advice and our little old Ford made it better than some Cadillac limousines we saw.

"When we left Odessa, I told Jack that we were on our own, no more relatives and that every penny must count. Two more nights out, one that cost us $6 in a motel, and one at $3, brought us to North Hollywood. I got Jack to Guiding Eye headquarters, and then went to a cafe for my supper knowing that he would be cared for properly. In the cafe I quickly found a woman who was working days and who wanted someone to stay with her children. We quickly struck up a bargain where I was to keep up the house and kiddies for my board.

"But after about ten days, Jack got homesick or something. He wanted to leave there even to the extent of abandoning the dog that he had come so far to secure.

"With the highway better known to us, we hurried back home in three days, stopping off with several of the relatives on the way. Our money was getting thin is why we rushed so fast for home.

"Upon reacing Monroe I opened a copy of the "Morning World" and found advertised just the breed of dog we had travelled so far to secure and all in vain. It was owned out highway 80, about four miles east of downtown Monroe. It was a blooded German Shephard. Her father had won 14 first places in dog exhibitions.

"Was'nt it just wonderful to find the very dog we sought right here at home after all that travel? But don't think we regret the big trip of our lives! We didn't see the glories of Hollywood, but we can say when asked, 'Oh yes we have been there!'.

Plucky Mrs. Jack admits that she was not in too good health when she started off, but that now she feels fine. The world looks brighter and she feels that living is worth while.

And they still have a couple or more of the dollars remaining and they desire to thank every one who gave to their cause when asked to aid a blind man and his wife, as told over the Bastrop radio. They say they can never forget this kindness.

We just can't afford to turn down very many offers in this situation—that's why we say—there was never a better time than right now to buy a new Plymouth or De Soto at Hatten Motors, 509 North 2nd, Phone 2-4436.

Champion D. Livingston To Enter Cup Races Here

Plans for the July 1 Silver Cup race of Champions speed boat regatta on the Ouachita river were accelerated today when Chamber of Commerce sports committee officials announced that National Class "C" champion David Livingston would enter into the competition.

"We expect to have at least two international cup contenders at the Monroe races," Sports chairman Slim Scoggin said, "and we have had inquiries from drivers as far away as Illinois on the big Monroe cup races."

Sports committee officials received the official schedule of events which was released from the National Outboard association offices yesterday.

The 13 races to be conducted will be as follows:

A Hydroplane - 1st heat; C Racing Runabout - 1st heat; A Hydroplane - 2nd heat; C Racing Runabout - 2nd heat; B Hydroplane-1st heat; C. Service Hydroplane-1st heat; B Hydroplane - 2nd heat; C Service Hydroplane - 2nd heat; C Hydroplane - 1st heat; C Service Runabout - 1st heat; C Hydroplane 2nd heat; C Service Runabout 2nd heat.

"We want to announce that Mercury class boats will definitely be able to compete in the Silver Cup races and that full information to Mercury owners will be made available," Race coordinator Howard Griffin said.

Chamber of Commerce officials at a special meeting outlined special spectator, participant and traffic safety measures with the cooperation of the Monroe and West Monroe police departments and the Monroe fire department rescue squad.

"It will be altogether necessary to inform the public that Riverfront street south of the DeSiard bridge will be closed to traffic in West Monroe, West Monroe Police Chief Jeff Caldwell said.

The Silver Cup races are expected to draw over 10,000 spectators to view the spectacle and every convenience for the viewer is being arranged by special committees.

"Knowing that the public at large is not too well informed on racing procedures we will distribute a free program of events along with the rules of racing," Co-Chairman F. N. Steele said.

This means that spectators will receive the programs at the scene of the races. Chamber officials request that the public not attempt to obtain programs in advance of the races as special Boy Scouts will handle distribution.

All boat owners in the Monroe-West Monroe area are cautioned not to run their crafts south of the DeSiard street bridge between 12:30 p.m. and 5:00 on the day of the races. Also skiing and surfboat riding will be prohibited in the racing area.

"There will be special patrol boats in the vicinity of the DeSiard street bridge manned by Monroe firemen to enforce this most important water safety precaution," Fire Chief Hales said.

The reinauguration of races on the Ouachita was welcomed by National Outboard officials as a "much needed" competitive event for the area.

Race coordinator Howard Grffin in talking with National Outboard officials at the Knoxville, Tennessee headquarters yesterday was informed that the Silver Cup races should draw a record number of entries as two other major premium races were scheduled in the Ark-La-Tex area during the week of the Fourth of July.

A special public relations committee from the Chamber of Commerce is currently distributing placards throughout the Twin Cities and in the trade area announcing the official Silver Cup events.

Full information for contestants may be obtained by calling the Monroe Chamber of Commerce. It was pointed out that all racing contestants should arrive in Monroe during the mid - morning hours on the day of the race in order that their crafts might be berthed conveniently prior to excess traffic.

Disaster Loans To Be Available Until June 1959

Emergency disaster loans will be available to farmers in northeast Louisiana and throughout the nation until June 3, 1959, under terms of a bill which has just been passed by the House of Representatives, Fifth District Congressman Otto E. Passman said today. In extending the period for loans of this type, the House increased authorized funds from $5 million to $65 million.

The family - size farm financial aid bill for the first time permits loans to part - time farmers, Congressman Passman said. It also authorizes loans specifically for the refinancing of existing farm debts and provides other measures simplifying and improving the credit facilities and complementing special programs for low - income farmers.

Those interested in loans should apply to their parish committee for particulars.

Woman Convicted, Sentenced After False Statements

The bride is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Clayton Sparks of this city and the groom's parents are Dr. and Mrs. Alfred Dent Tisdale, also of this city.

The altar, elegant in simplicity, was decorated with white gladioli, white mums and stock interspersed with glowing cathedral tapers in branched candelabra.

The bride, given in marriage, by her father, was wearing a wedding gown of magnolia crystallete taffeta made on classic lines with a pleated yoke outlined in delicate alencon lace. The long torso bodice with short sleeves was fashioned with lace extending in a very full formal length skirt. Her short veil of silk illusion fell gracefully from a crown of pearls and irridescent beads. Short wrist length gloves complemented the gown.

Other artistic arrangements of magnolia boughs were noted throughout the reception rooms.

The bride's table was covered with an organdy cloth trimmed with smilax and white gardenias. In the center was the wedding cake which was roman tiered and embossed with stephanosis and lilies of the valley. Also on the table was a beautiful silver candelabra. Cutting the wedding cake was Mrs. Allen Guthrie, and serving was Mrs. J. Hunter Thatcher.

Nell Bridge Is United In Marriage To Abry Cahn, Jr.

Of prominence both here and in Shreveport was the marriage Saturday of Miss Nell Bridge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernie Wilenzick and Abry S. Cahn, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Abry S. Cahn, of Shreveport.

The ceremony took place at 7:30 o'clock in the evening at the Bayou DeSiard Country club and was attended only by members of the two families and a few close friends of the young couple.

White blossoms decorated the lounge of the club where the ceremony was performed by Rabbi Jacob Lantz, before an improvised altar banked with large arrangements of magnolia leaves. A tall wrought iron standard held a sunburst mass of white gladioli and stock. Bouquets of the same blossoms were placed on seven-branched candelabra. Spiral tapers completed this setting.

Miss Bridge, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white Chantilly lace over taffeta. The wide decollette neckline revealed a detail of softly pleated tulle folds edged by a scalloped effect of Chantilly lace. The tightly moulded lace bodice was accented by cap sleeves, and complemented by short white kid gloves. The extremely full ballet length skirt of lace over layers of tulle and taffeta was edged with a scalloped detail. Her veil of silk illusion extended in misty tiers to her waist from a calot fashioned of lace and taffeta folds re-embroidered with tiny seed pearls. She carried a colonial bouquet of lilies of the valley and phalaenopsis orchids.

Mrs. Cerf Hirsch of Shreveport, sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor. Her gown was of Marine blue Chantilly lace made with a scoop neckline and waltz length bouffant skirt over taffeta. Her shoes were the same shade and she wore short white kid gloves. She carried a bouquet of golden rapture roses and dracaena foliage. Jan Hirsch, niece of the bridegroom, was the flower girl. She wore a frock of the same blue. The tight fitting bodice was finished with a Peter Pan collar edged with Val lace. The skirt was short and very full.

Mr. Cahn was his son's best man and the ushers were Cerf Hirsch, and Henry Weisman, both of Shreveport and Louis Smith.

Following the ceremony there was a reception at which Mrs. Wilenzick wore a gown of shell pink re-embroidered alencon lace over delicate matching accordian pleated chiffon. Shell pink satin accessories and a white orchid completed her costume. She was assisted in receiving by Mrs. Cahn, mother of the bridegroom. Mrs. Cahn's dress was of sea foam blue re-embroidered lace bodice a full silk marquisette skirt, in a new shorter evening length. Her slippers matched and she wore a white orchid corsage.

A tiered wedding cake was placed in the center of the bride's table which was covered with a stain cloth covered with net and garlanded with table smilax. The net was caught with nosegays of agapanthis. White tapers burned in silver candelabra at either side of the cake. Mrs. David Kaplan and Mrs. Harold Wilenzick assisted at the bride's table. Miss Sue Snyder registered the guests.

After the reception, Mr. Cahn and his bride left for California, where they will fly to Hawaii for their honeymoon. On their return the young couple will reside in Shreveport. A suit of beige raw silk with matching accessories and a hat of natural straw, was worn by the bride when she left.

Peyton-Flinn Wedding Holds Attention In City

Of interest here and elsewhere in Louisiana was the wedding, June 16, celebrated in St. Paul's Methodist Church, of Miss Ann Nelson Flinn, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Clifton Boykin Flinn, to Hall Peyton, Jr., son of Reverend and Mrs. Hall Peyton, of Haughton.

The ceremony, which took place at 7 o'clock in the evening, was performed by Reverend Benjamin Oliphint, assisted by the groom's father, Rev. Peyton, before a gathering of many out-of-town relatives and friends and many Monroyans. Decorating the altar of the church for the wedding were clusters of summer calla lilies in brass vases. Cathedral tapers burned in branched and spiral candelabra. The nuptial music was presented by Mr. and Mrs. Slade Brown.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of white silk peau-de soie with neckline scooped wide and off the shoulders and a Flamenco flounce, bursting into fullness from a figure molding sheath. The finger tip veil of illusion fell from a French cap of real lace and seed pearls.

She carried a lace covered prayer book which held sprays of lilies of the valley.

Matron of honor to the bride was Mrs. Robert Anderson, of New Orleans and the other bridal attendants included Miss Nell Bridge, Miss Margerie Ann Butler, of Dallas, niece of the bridegroom, Miss Betty Ross Graves and Miss Lenna Armstrong, both of Mer Rouge. Their dresses were of blue peau-de-soie patio length made with portrait necklines and overskirts of white lace. They wore wreaths of ivy in their hair and carried variegated dracena foliage combined with yellow rosebuds. They wore white satin slippers. Jo Lynn White of Mer Rouge, was the flower girl. Her dress was of the same blue and she carried a miniature bouquet of yellow roses.

Lt. Ralph Jones, of Wayne, Pa., was best man and the groomsmen and ushers were Ray Rhymes Craig Morgan, John Jordan, Ryan Sartor of Alto, Nicholas McCrocklin, La Marque, Texas, a nephew of the groom, Donald Bacon, of Mer Rouge and Lt. Oliver Andreysen, of Wayne. Tommy Ritter and Mike McCrocklin lit the candles.

A reception followed at the Bayou DeSiard Country Club. The foyer of the club held a massive arrangement of white gladioli and stock and in the lounge, huge urns of magnolia leaves were placed at vantage points. The piano held a classic urn overflowing with white gladioli, stock and agapanthis.

The bride's table, placed in the center of the room was covered with a slipper satin cloth with tulle overskirt. The tiered wedding cake of white, was delicately embossed with lilies of the valley. The table was garlanded with string smilax and clusters of agapanthia blooms. The punch table, in the far corner of the room, held a tree of green grape clusters and white carnations. On either side were branched silver candelabra with burning tapers.

Receiving was Mrs. Flinn, mother of the bride, who chose for her daughter's wedding a beige silk sheath. Her hat was of beige flowers and she wore a topaz pin and earrings to accent her costume. Her flowers were cream colored baby orchids. Mrs. Peyton assisted her in receiving and she chose for the occasion a chiffon dress of turquoise worn with a pink sequin hat and matching accessories.

Members of the house party were Mrs. Ray Rhymes, Mrs. Fred Ammon, Mrs. Ivy Jordan, Mrs. Corbin Turpin, Mrs. Allen Turpin, Mrs. Hassell Clarke, of Mer Rouge, Mrs. Arthur Grant, Mrs. Shelby Hill, Mrs. Robert Oliver, Mrs. Gardiner Young, Mrs. L. Miss Richards Becomes Bride Of Mr. McPherson

A striking selection of Hawaiian orchids and other tropical blossoms provided floral decorations for the marriage of Miss Carolyn Floy Richard and Mr. Thomas Odell McPherson. They exchanged vows during a candlelight ceremony held at 7 o'clock on Saturday evening at the University Methodist church in Baton Rouge.

Officating at the double ring ceremony was the Rev. W. E. Trice.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph G. Richard of Baton Rouge, while Mr. and Mrs. John A. McPherson of Epps, are the parents of the groom.

The bride, given in marriage by her father chose a portrait gown of Dupioni silk. The bodice came to a point at the front with a portrait neckline of imported chantilly lace extending down the front in a graduated V, edged in seed pearls. Miss Chandler Is June Bride

At 5 o'clock in the afternoon on Saturday, June 2, Miss Margaret Cavlin Chandler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Harold Chandler of Ruston, and William Henry Monk, Jr. of Monroe, son of Reverend and Mrs. William T. Walker of Choudrant exchanged their wedding vows in a beautiful and impressive ceremony. Officiating at the double ring nuptial service held in Tempie Baptist Church was Dr. J. C. Murphy.

The chancel was beautifully decorated with southern smilax, magnolia blossoms and accented with a lovely arrangement of pure white specimen gladioli and Queen Anne's lace. Flanking either side of the altar were seven-branched, ivy-entwined candelabra holding gleaming white tapers.

Miss Jeanette Hogan at the organ rendered a program of traditional nuptial music as the ushers, Joe Curlee of Charlotte, N.C. and Earl Wright, brother-in-law and cousin, respectively, of the bride seated the guests. Miss Hogan also accompanied Miss Martha Boatman as she sang "Because" and after the ceremony, "The Lord's Prayer". Miss Martha Chandler, sister of the bride, wearing a pink embroidered organdy frock and an arrangement of feathered white carnations in her hair, and Earl Wright lighted the candles.

As the strains of the "Bridal Chorus" from Wagner's "Lohengrin rang out, the bridegroom and Middleton Shirley, who served as best man took their places.

Preceding the bride down the aisle was Mrs. Joe Curlee, her sister, who served as Matron of honor and only attendant. She was attired in a lovely dress of blue embroidered organdy styled with fitted elongated bodice and very full skirt. She wore a close fitting white velvet cap and white accessories. Her corsage was of pink carnations.

The bride, escorted by her father, who gave her in marriage, wore a gown of imported bridal lace over white taffeta. The closely molded bodice was adorned with lace and was fashioned with a portrait neckline and brief cap sleeves. It was joined to the bouffant skirt in tiny scallops. A row of tiny self-covered buttons closed the bodice down the back. Her fingertip veil of illustion fell from a cap of matching bridal lace. The bride carried a white Bible topped with a bouquet of white carnations and illusion with white satin streamers tied in lovers' knots and caught with feathered carnations.

Mrs. Chandler, mother of the bride selected a gown of blue linen lace over taffeta for her daughter's wedding. With this she wore white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. Mrs. Walker, mother of the bridegroom was dressed in rose linen lace over taffeta with which she wore white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

For going away, the bride chose a sheath dress of dusty rose cotton and her corsage was from her bridal bouquet. Her accessories were white.

The young couple are now at home at 406 St. John Street, Monroe where the groom is employed.

Mr. and Mrs. Monk are both graduates of Choudrant High School and the bride attended Louisiana Tech. On the paternal side the bride is descended from Mr. and Mrs. Edd H. Chandler, Sr. and her maternal grandmother is Mrs. C. C. Wright, all of Ruston.

Out of town guests for the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. Harrell Wright and Richard Wright of Cotton Valley; Miss Jo Ann Chandler of Springhill; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gremillion and Miss Marcell Gremillion of New Iberia and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Curlee of Charlotte, N. C.

Miss Carter Is Married To G.E. Plugge, Jr.

LAKE PROVIDENCE — A simple but impressive ceremony Saturday afternoon at three o'clock, united in marriage Miss Margaret Elizabeth Carter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Ford Carter, and George Edward Plugge, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. George Edward Plugge of Needham, Mass.

The Reverend C. A. Martin, officiated at the double ring ceremony which took place in the sanctuary of the First Baptist Church, Lake Providence.

Chancel vases of white gladioli and stock, mixed with plumosa fern, and adorned with large white taffeta bows, formed a charming background for the ceremony. The wrought iron standards, with tall lighted tapers, were interlaced with fern and placed along the length of the altar rail.

Candelighters were Lawrence Jones, brother-in-law of the bride, and James Carter, the bride's brother.

Mrs. C. A. Martin, organist, rendered a program of nuptial music.

Preceding the bride to the altar was her sister and only attendant, Mrs. Lawrence Jones of Greenville, Miss. She was wearing a summery frock of dotted white organdy over aqua taffeta. Matching taffeta piping followed the surpliced neckline and was tied in a bow at the back. This was duplicated in triple bands on the empire bodice. She wore a white straw sailor and carried a bouquet of pink carnations, with a background of pink maline and long satin streamers.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Claude Carter of Monroe, was gowned in a street length eyelet model of fine cotton batiste, embroidered in small squares. The bodice was sleeveless, with a dropped waistline and a scooped, rounded neckline. Unpressed pleats provided the fullness for the skirt. A white Milan synthetic straw, covered in matching tulle and white shoes completed her ensemble. Her only jewelry was a string of tiny pearls, and matching earrings. The bridal bouquet was of white carnations, clustered around a purple throated white orchid.

Joseph W. Myers served the bridegroom as best man.

For her duaghter's wedding, Mrs. Carter chose a grey silk shantung, with a circle of pleated fluting marking the front of the V neck bodice.

Her hat was of shiny black handwoven straw, covered with a spray of white forget-me-nots and her corsage was of pink carnations.

Mrs. Plugge was gowned in a turquoise blue linen, with a white shawl collar, decorated with white polka dots. A fez bonnet with crown traced in silver braid, and a shoulder corsage of white carnations completed her costume.

Miss Lois Carter, of Houston, Tex., and sister of the bride, presided over the bride's book at the entrance to the reception rooms.

The bride's table was centered with an arrangement of white stock and fern and covered with a white linen cutwork cloth. The bouquets of the bride and her attendant were charmingly placed at vantage points on the table. The glow of candles burning in crystal candelabra, reflected on the beautiful three - tiered wedding cake of all white with floral trim of bride's roses and topped with a miniature bride and groom.

Misses Betty Greene of Vinton and Miss Rosemary Huff, of Mansfield, alternated at the punch bowl. Mrs Theresea M. Donaldson served the wedding cake.

For traveling the bride changed to a one piece dress of natural linen with a duster of yellow linen. Her hat was a white straw shell and the orchid from her wedding bouquet formed her corsage. The couple left immediately after the ceremony for a wedding trio to Niagara Falls, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania. Mr. and Mrs. Plugge will make their home at Sulphur where she is a teacher in the public schools and he is stationed at the air base at Lake Charles.

A large clear plastic bag keeps food chopper, handle and cutters all in one convenient place.

MR. AND MRS. BILLY BERNARD WHITTEN

Crew Lake Methodist church was the scene at 3 p.m. June 3, of the wedding of Miss Mary Joyce Fuller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Fuller, of Crew Lake and Billy Bernard Whitten, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Whitten of Crew Lake.

An arch entwined with smilax and gladioli, with baskets of white gladioli at either side formed the background for the ceremony. Rev. James Poole officiated. The nuptial music was presented by J. L. Sullivan at the organ and Miss Gladys Sullivan, soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white Chantilly lace and tulle over white organdy. The fitted bodice was fashioned with a sweetheart neckline and long sleeves that ended in points over the hands. The waltz length skirt was made in tiers of lace and net. The finger tip veil fell from a coronet of seed pearls and sequins. She carried a white Bible mounted with a white orchid surrounded by white carnations.

Mrs. Charles Dowdy, of Bastrop, was her sister's matron of honor. She wore a pink organdy dress over polished cotton and a headdress of the same material to match her bouquet of pink carnations. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Florence Schwartz, of Philadelphia, Pa., and Miss Mary Ann Robinson. They were dressed like the matron of honor with Mrs. Schwartz in yellow and Miss Robinson, wearing blue.

Miss Deborah Ann Dowdy, niece of the bride, was the flower girl. She wore a dress of pink organdy with a blue pinafore trimmed in white lace. Her hat was of blue lace and she carried a bouquet of pink and blue carnations. The candles were lighted by Miss Doris Fuller and Miss Le Jean Davis. They were dressed alike in light green organdy, and wore white hats and corsages of white carnations.

Jack Lee Henry was the best man and the ushers were Andrew Cole, and Billy Gene Coughran.

A reception followed the ceremony in the home of the bride's parents. Mrs. Fuller received her guests in a sheath dress of navy blue silk with white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. She was assisted by Mrs. Whitten, who chose a brown dress with large white collar and white corsage for her son's wedding.

White summer flowers decorated the house and in the dining room, the bride's table was covered with a lace cloth and centered with an arrangement of shasta daisies and gardenias. The tiered wedding cake was decorated with pink rose buds and topped with a miniature bride and groom. Miss Pat Fuller and Miss Pamelia Fuller served the cake and Mrs. Jean Chambers presided at the punch service. Miss Emma Jo Watts registered the guests.

Later in the evening, Mr. and Mrs. Whitten left on their wedding trip to the Gulf Coast. On their return they will reside in Crew Lake. Mrs. Whitten traveled in a pink crystallette dress featuring a low neckline trimmed in pearls and rhinestones, her accessories matched.

Lightly brown bite - size shredded wheat cereal in butter and sprinkle with a favorite seasoning. Good for nibbling and to serve with a hot or chilled soup. Delicious, too, with tomato juice.

MR. AND MRS. MONROE BARR MITCHELL, JR.

Mitchell-Ramsey Nuptials Said In Farmerville

In a candlelight ceremony at 7 o'clock Friday at the First Baptist Church in Farmerville, Miss Kay Frances Ramsey and Mr. Monroe Barr Mitchell, Jr. pledged their nuptial vows.

The bride is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elether Ramsey. Mr. Mitchell is the son of Mr. Monroe Mitchell Sr., and the late Mrs. Mitchell of Lake Park, Georgia.

The impressive double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Luther B. Hall, pastor of the church, before an altar banked with palms and ivy, with mass arrangements of white gladioli, fever few, and tall white cathedral tapers in branched candelabra entwined in ivy.

Mrs. Frank Yelton presented an organ program of nuptial music, while the guests were ushered to their seats by Messers. Stein Baughman, Jr., Joe Henry Baughman, Jr., and Jeff Lee and Mickey Strother. Lighting the tapers were Missers Stein Baughman, Jr., and Jeff Lee.

Miss Beth Dawkins sang "Because".

They were identical ballerenta length dresses of pink crystenline. Maid of honor was Miss Ann Gillum, a cousin of the bride. She wore a matching dress of blue crystenline. Their colonial bouquets were fashioned of pink and white carnations.

Mr. Stein Baughman, Sr. was best man. The bride wore a waltz length gown of white Cantilly type lace and tulle over taffeta with an overskirt of embroidered tulle with lace, fashioned with a scooped necked bodice and long traditional sleeves that extended into points over the wrist.

A matching head piece trimmed in sequins and pearls held the shoulder length veil of illusion. She carried a purple orchid mounted with white carnations.

When the vows were exchanged the couple knelt as Miss Beth Dawkins sang "The Lord's Prayer".

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Blue Room of the church. Miss Charlotte Ann Brown, cousin of the bride of Columbia, presided at the guest book.

The theme of pink, green and white was carried out in the decorations of gladioli and greenery.

The bride's table was covered with a pink cloth with a full gathered floor length white net skirt over pink. Small clusters of valley lilies held corner interest over the pink skirt. The table was centrally adorned with the attendant bouquets of pink and white carnations, and illumined by white candles in crystal candelabra.

At the wedding cake was Miss Barbara Anderson, and assisting her were Miss Carol Joyce Waller and Miss Suellen Brantly of Shreveport, cousin of the bride. Miss Beth Dawkins presided at the punch bowl.

REV. GALE WHITE

A Reception and First Blessing will be held in St. Paschal's Cafeteria, West Monroe, from four to eight p.m. today. The public and many friends are cordially invited.

Also an invitation, beautifully engraved, states "With Joyful Thanks To the Almighty God, Mr. and Mrs. E. F. White announce the Ordination to the Holy Priesthood of their son, The Reverend Gale White, Order of Friars Minor to be conferred by His Excellency, the Most Reverend William A. O'Connor, D. D. Bishop of Springfield on Friday June 29, 1956 at 9 o'clock in St. Francis church, Teutopolis, Ill., and cordially invite you to offer with him his First Solemn Mass, on Sunday the first of July at 9 o'clock, St. Paschal's church, West Monroe, La."

Rev. Father Gale White O. F. M., known to his friends here as Wilmer White, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. White of 122 Claiborne Street, West Monroe. The family comprises three other sons, Lee and Stephen White, West Monroe, and Murvl White, Natchitoches, La., two daughters, Miss Cecilia White, West Monroe and Sister M. Tenez of Chicago.

Father Gale attended the parish schools in West Monroe and later St. Matthew's High school. Later he went to Westmont, Ill., for six years in Minor Seminary. He had three years philosophy in the Major Seminary in Cleveland, Ohio and three years theology in Teutopolis, Ill.

He carried a newspaper route for the News-Star — World and made many friends for his industry and excellent habits.

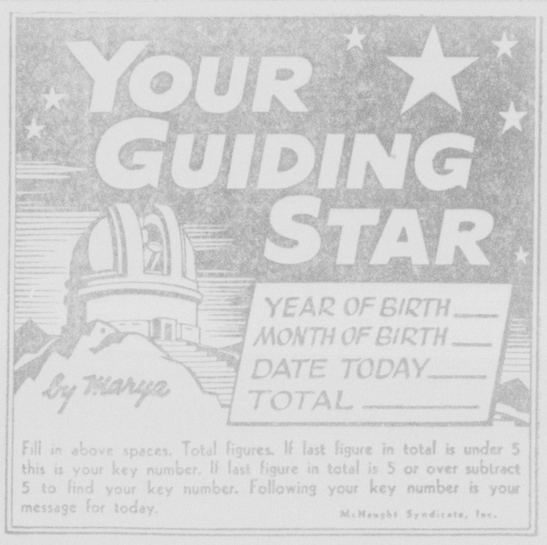
HERE TO FORM NEW CHURCH—The Rev. J. R. Babb, secretary-director of the La. Christian Missionary society, above, will aid in forming St. John's Christian church. He will preach at 8:30 a.m. today in Lexington school, temporary quarters of the new church. The public is cordially invited.

1st Baptists In West Monroe Have Proved Leaders

It has remained for Mrs. H. L. Odom, 607 North Fourth street, West Monroe, to prepare an interesting book, "The History of the First Baptist Church in West Monroe."

Only a limited number of copies are as yet available but the story as told is said to be of deepest interest. No church in north Louisiana has made the outstanding progress that this church has achieved, starting on or about 1920 when organized at a meeting in Crosley school. Today its membership is close to 4,000 and its property holdings are in excess of a million dollars.

An exceptional list of capable and far - seeing leaders in both pulpit and pew are responsible for this progress, and the religious life of West Monroe has been largely shaped through the efforts of this great church, it was stated.



Today's YOUR GUIDING STAR Message:

0. Lao Tzu; Blakney: Poem 63. Take hard jobs in hand while they are easy; and great affairs too while they are small.
1. Heb. 10:35. Do not throw away your confidence, which has a great reward.
2. Lao Tzu; Blakney: Poem 64. People are constantly spoiling a project when it lacks only a step to completion.
3. I Pet. 3:16. Keep your conscience clear, so that when you are abused, those who revile your good behavior may be put to shame.
4. Lao Tzu; Blakney: Poem 52. You are bright, it is said, if you see what is small; A store of small strengths make you strong.

HOW THEY SANG!—This motion picture will be shown at 8 p.m. today at Prairie Road Church of God, Monroe. It will be displayed in connection with a revival that opens today at the church named. The Rev. Albert W. Conn, Big Spring, Tex., revival leader, will bring the messages. The revival will be held nightly through July 1. The public is cordially invited.

Tallulah Greets Pastor And Wife At Their Return

TALLULAH, La. (Special) —In appreciation of the return of the Rev. William F. Mayo to the pastorate of the Tallulah Methodist church for a new church year, the ladies of the church entertained with "open house" in the fellowship hall of the church on Sunday afternoon.

Receiving with the Rev. and Mrs. Mayo and their daughters, Frances and Susan, were Mrs. W. H. Hale, president of the Womans Society of Christian Service, Mrs. Ruth Patterson, chairman of the board of trustees, Max McDonald, superintendent of the Sunday School and A. M. Stewart, chairman of the official board of the church. Mrs. Mayo was wearing a corsage of white carnations and the little girls had wrist corsages of pink flowers, gifts of the congregation.

Beautiful and artistic flower arrangements decorated the hall. The refreshment table overlaid with a white cloth had as a centerpiece an especially pretty bouquet of white gladioli and white and green caladium leaves flanked by silver candelabra holding green tapers. Silver trays of delectable sandwiches, cookies, salted nuts and mints were served. Alternating at the silver punch service were Mrs. W. T. Renfro, Mrs. L. J. Kathan, Miss Billye Davis and Mrs. Ruth Patterson. They were assisted by the tea girls, Misses Ann Powell, Patsy Perkins, Betty Speed, Kay Harvey and Lynda Stephenson.

Background music was played throughout the afternoon by Mrs. W. B. Adams and Thurston Smith. Over two hundred members and friends of the congregation were in attendance.

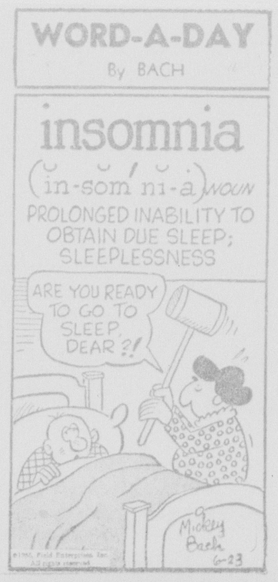
Bob Smith Named To Head State Youth Movement

Bob Smith, active in young people's groups at the Monroe First Christian church, was the past week, at a state convention of youth of the Christian churches held down state, elected state president.

He will preside at all sessions held by the organization named. His election was quite pleasing to many local friends.

Popovers with a tablespoon or two of melted butter added to the batter taste extra delicious.

WORD-A-DAY
By BACH



REVIVAL LEADER—Rev. Tom Hall, young preacher, will hold a revival at Good Hope Baptist church in West Monroe starting today and lasting through July 1. He also will be heard today at 1 p.m. over a local radio station program.

A group of consecrated Christians are devoting time and efforts to organize a Baptist church in the southside of Monroe. At this time they are meeting in the Plum street school and each Sunday there is a goodly number present. The enrollment is 76.

After many names for the church were presented, one chosen for adoption was "Victory Baptist church."

The mission will be fully organized as a Southern Baptist church soon.

Many Baptist church members are backing this new church.

The public is cordially invited to attend the services each Sunday.

Where To Place Separate Oven

Are you planning to install a separate oven? The growing popularity of the separate oven and the top-of-the-stove burners makes necessary certain adjustments in standardized kitchen arrangement.

A separate oven and a counter-top-burner require more floor space than a range. Be sure your floor area is adequate to accommodate the separate units without reducing minimum counter space — counter space must be provided next to the oven.

Placing of the oven is important. It is undesirable to place the oven between any two centers when they are arranged in a straight line. The work flow from one center to the other is blocked. Locations recommended for separate ovens are: Opposite the mix and sink center, extreme end of kitchen sequence next to the service center, on a corner between any two centers.

The primary advantage of a separate oven is that you can have it installed at a convenient height for you. This means that you can have maximum comfort and safety if the oven is installed at the correct height for you.

Confortable height of the oven depends more on the homemaker's elbow height than on her standing height. Place the oven so that the top side of the fully opened oven door is between 1 and 7 inches below your elbow height. The preferred level is either 3 or 5 inches below the elbow because it is easier lifting and turning of foods in the oven.

Decorative Foliage Plants From Seed

Plants with decorative foliage are especially useful to new homeowners who need screen background plantings at small expense. If landscape plants have not fully taken shape and it is desired to test the effect of a large permanent shrub in a certain place before actually planting it, the gigantic castorbean can be grown in a few weeks. A beautiful plant eight feet tall and as large in diameter can be grown from one small bean. The leaves are huge and beautifully shaped with bronze or maroon coloring.

The Zanzibar strain will produce plants 12 feet tall in favorable locations provideed they are supplied with plenty of Vigoro and plenty of moisture.

For a low hedge around a flower border, or to serve any similar purpose, the fine - leafed fireplant, Kochia, is excellent. Bushes 2½ feet high with light green foliage can be grown singly or close enough together to be trimmed as a hedge. In the late summer, the leaves turn to crimson. The softly brilliant coloring of plants reaches its full brilliance in a sunny location. Kochia grows quickly from seed. A mass planting in a front - yard focal point is highly decorative. New leaves develop throughout the summer and the colors never fade.

In hot, sunny locations, amaranthus tri - color, often called Joseph's Coat, will attain its finest coloring. The inner foliage is of blackest bronze tipped with green; the outer, bright scarlet and gold.

Mulched Plants Need Nitrogen

A light top dressing of nitrate of soda should be applied to plants which have been mulched. Apply fertilizer just before or just after a rain, or water it in well with the hose.

Winners Of Dress Contest

Each dress entered in the contest could have been declared a winner as far as quality of work done by the home demonstration women — but as all contests go — a winner had to be declared. Mrs. A. L. Sweeney, McGuire club placed first; Mrs. Cleburne White, Cadeville club, second and Mrs. Herbert Strozier, Drew Club placed third. In making these garments the women followed trade method of construction. There were 24 women who modeled their costumes in this contest. Ouachita will participate in the state contest held during Farm and Home Week at L. S. U. August 6-13.

Prune Spring Bloomers

Plants that should be pruned now are: Spireas, deutzia, philadelphus, forsythia, flowering quince and azaleas. Some require heavy pruning, others a good practice is to remove some of the oldest branches to allow new growth.

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

It is a scientific fact that noise is fatiguing.

Readers Voice Complaints About Bothersome Noises

Not long ago I wrote about the detrimental effect constant noise has on the nervous system. It is a scientific fact that noise is fatiguing. We all know this to be true. It even has been suggested that children would grow up with much steadier nerves were they not subjected to the continual noise and confusion of modern living. For this reason some authorities feel that children should be limited as to the time they can listen to the radio or look at television.

I have received such a large amount of mail in response to the column about this and so many requests that I again call the problem to the attention of the public that I am again doing so.

Here are a few quotations from recent reader mail: "One nuisance you didn't mention, which we suffer from every single day, is the sound of a typewriter set on a shaky table in the apartment above us. Since there are no rugs on the floor the sound is so nerve-racking that we are sometimes forced to leave our apartment, and on Sundays when we would like to rest at home in the afternoon, we have to go to the park or a friend's house."

"Your article about noise should be on the front page, not on the 20th where I found it. We recently moved into an apartment and furnished it at our own expense. We would be much happier and healthier if our neighbor would lower her TV and radio. Also, they get up at 6 a.m. while we do not have to get up until 7:30. However, the noise they create makes it impossible for us to sleep a minute later than they do."

"I just have to write to thank you for your article about noise. We have neighbors who moved in not long ago. They have young children. Words cannot describe the noise they make. The mother yells and screams at the children from morning until 10:30 p.m. when they finally go to bed. The children slam doors and run in and out of the house all day long. We bought our home and cannot afford to move because of the financial loss we would suffer but my health is actually being affected. I am tired all the time."

When we live close together we cannot always plan our life to suit our neighbors entirely but we can try to annoy them as little as possible. In many instances it is possible to lead our own lives without harassing those who live near us if we will think in these terms.

We cannot keep small children quiet, nor would we wish to, but it is bad for a child to be screamed at and doors easily can be fitted with equipment which keeps them from banging. Also, little children should be asleep long before nine o'clock at night. We can put a rug under the typewriter table and use the typewriter at reasonable hours.

To turn the radio or the television set up high so that you can hear it from all parts of your house or so that you can listen to a ball game while you work in the yard, or to stomp about while others are asleep, is the last word in being inconsiderate. You actually may be injuring the health of your neighbor.

If you would like my leaflet "Individual Happiness," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 65 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Tomorrow: "Blessing of Time Mixup—Excuse for Being Late."

Plant Dahlias Now For Fall Blossoms

The winds have blown a number of limbs, especially from the pecan trees. Most of these limbs have been ripped from the tree, leaving open wounds. Some have been broken off, leaving stumps on the trunk. Paint the wound with tree seal. If there's a stump, saw this off and treat the open cut. Tree seal can now be bought at seed stores and nurseries in small containers. Leaving open wounds on your tree invites diseases and insects that will give you trouble later on.

Gardening

You can still buy cloves plants to give color in your flower beds during the summer. It would be wise to shade these with newspapers during the day for several days after transplanting on account of the hot sun.

The [illegible] in the stores (at least I couldn't locate [illegible]) can be purchased in buckets or pots. Really, this is the best time to plant the tuberous roots or "potatoes," because they are primarily fall bloomers. Of course a few dahlias are blooming now. Those were either planted early or left in the ground over winter. These early bloomers are not as large and do not have as good color as the fall bloomers. The sun is so hot in the summer months. Even the blossoms when cut are not good keepers. Dahlias planted now will sprout and grow through the summer months and when the fall weather begins to set in, they will be ready to give you blossoms.

Dahlias blooming now can be cut to the ground. They'll sprout again, putting on new growth for the fall. In dahlia culture drainage is important. The fleshy "potatoes" are quite susceptible to rot if the soil is too wet. If you have good natural drainage, fine, but if not — raise the beds. Place a stake when planting, so as not to injure the tubers later on when staking is necessary. The stems of this plant are too weak to hold up the blossoms.

When about three sets of leaves appear, you should pinch out the top of the plant. This produces bushiness, giving more stems, therefore more flowers.

Dahlia plants should be no closer than three feet apart. Four feet would be better. A scant sprinkling of fertilizer around the plants once a month is advisable. Use any balanced food such as 8-8-8. If you have heavy soil with poor drainage, plant "potatoes" three or four inches deep. In good soil with good drainage they should be planted four to six inches deep. Dahlias are susceptible to mildew and they have moisture, so in spells of dry weather you'll have to bring out the old hose.

Around the House

An occasional shampoo will keep an umbrella looking fresh and clean. The bathtub is a good place to wash, rinse and dry the umbrella. Open it over the tub and go over the inside with a soft brush dipped in lukewarm soapsuds. The center fold of each section is the part that needs most attention. Wash gently to avoid strain on the stretched fabric. To rinse the umbrella, hold it under the shower [illegible] water [illegible] a [illegible] over it. Leave open until dry. Now the reconditioned umbrella is ready for the next rainy day.

Did you know that nylon satin and tricot knit slips cut on the lengthwise grain will cause less static electricity than those cut crosswise or on the bias? Textile researchers found that the weave of the fabric has as much to do with causing static electricity as the fiber content.

Don't throw out table covers because they are worn. You can get further service out of them if you turn them into new - looking linen by dyeing them a new color and cutting them into place mats.

Now on the market is a bottle opener that can reseal bottles factory - tight with the original cap, as well as open them. You should be seeing these soon.

Food News and Recipes

Milk has been rated as man's most perfect food for many centuries, but only in recent years has proper credit been given to dry and evaporated milk. Families can save up to one - half or more on the milk bill by using these two easily stored foods. They both contain the protein, calcium and other minerals, ribo-flavin and most of the other vitamins of whole milk. Only water has been removed.

The dry milk can be purchased in the non-fat form for those watching calories. Non - fat dry milk can be substituted for whipped cream for delicious desserts. Just add equal amounts of the milk and ice water and beat. Add sugar. A sprinkling of fruit juice will improve the taste.

Canned evaporated milk can be used in the same way. Chill the milk, beater and bowl. Whip, preferably in an electric beater. Sweeten and add flavoring. Here is a delicious quick ice cream the children will like.

Quick Peach Ice Cream

1 large can evaporated milk (chilled).
1 tablespoon lemon juice.
6 crushed fresh peach halves or 1 No. 303 can of peach halves, crushed.

Beat the milk, add other ingredients. Put in ice tray to freeze. Cover with wax paper. The paper keeps the ice cream from being icy. You can substitute strawberries, crushed bananas or any other fruit for the peaches. Now that fresh peaches are coming to market, you'll enjoy their Vitamin C "deliciousness."

You know, ice cream loses none of its food values in the making. In fact, it picks up a little energy with the addition of sugar. Here again, for calorie watchers, you can buy iced milk.

For a real conversation piece for the family or for guests prepare baked Alaska. This you can get ready to serve, all except the last step, while family and - or guests are talking after the main course. Slip in the kitchen, finish the dessert, bring to the table with a knife for slicing. Here is the recipe:

Baked Alaska.

1 layer of sponge or pound cake.
A brick of ice cream the same shape as the cake.
6 egg whites.
1 cup confectioners' sugar.

Beat egg whites. Add sugar and beat until dry. Place the layers of cake on an oven plate or platter, put brick of ice cream on top of cake (be sure ice cream is no larger than cake). Cover completely with egg whites. The eggs act as an insulator, so don't leave even one little hole that isn't covered. Bake in a preheated oven, takes from three to five minutes. No, the ice cream won't melt. Slice for serving.

Wright To Have Show Each Month At Center

A new feature of the Garden Center will be a one-man show by John A. Wright of Louisiana Tech on the third Wednesday of each month. Mr. Wright will create and discuss the arrangements on television and they will be shown in the Garden Center Wednesday through Saturday. Mr. Wright's show this week was of particular interest as it featured "containers" that were not necessarily designed to hold flowers. A wealth of beautiful and unusual plant material provided by local gardeners created much interest and comment. The first of Mr. Wright's arrangements was triangular in design and featured various shades of green. A large needlepoint holder was placed on a bamboo mat which served as a container. The triangular line was formed with glossy green leaves of the Chinese Holly (Ilex cornuta). Bois D'Arc balls (osage orange) in yellow green strengthened the line. Green concord grapes and the seed pods of Daubentonia (red rattle-box) and green sweet gum balls completed the design. A most interesting combination of textures and pleasing blending of greens.

A mahogany colored basket was featured in the next design. The basket was low, round and had a handle. Red leaf barberry was arranged in a triangular pattern allowing the handle of the basket to show. As a matter of fact it was so designed that the entire arrangement could be picked up by the handle of the basket and moved from place to place. Branches of dark red crabapples enhanced the line and deep wine red zinnias were used as a center of interest. This delightful arrangement was staged against a rosy pink background.

Green and white were the colors chosen for the line-mass arrangement in a clear plastic bowl. Tall spikes of equisetum were placed in the background followed by the lovely white flowers of the cruel vine wired to stay in place). The needle point holder was concealed by large pieces of glass slag which have a frosty look. Clusters of snow on the mountain were placed low just above the glass slag. Staged against a pale yellow-green background the effect was most refreshing and cool.

Another interesting arrangement was made in a small brass teapot. The handle of the teapot was raised and the line pattern of variegated privet hedge was arranged behind it. Blaze zinnias in a fiery orange-scarlet color created the center of interest.

Diagonal lines were featured in a pewter pitcher. Aspidistra leaves formed the background for small rosy pink hydrangeas. Larger blue hyurangeas were placed in the center of the design. The soft patina of the unpolished pewter was very pleasing with these flowers.

A wicker wine basket also demanded diagonal lines. Strong placements of aspidistra and pedilanthus, with the seed pods of alstromeria for interest, formed the pattern. The design was completed with Picard glads. This arrangement looks well from both sides and would be a "conversation piece" if used on a large coffee table in the patio.

The Welcome Garden Club will bring Mrs. Marie Johnson Fort to Monroe in October. Mrs. Fort is well known throughout the United States for her beautiful flower arrangement demonstrations. Also she is author of that delightful book "Flower Arrangements for All Occasions". Dr. Katherine Foster, President of the club, announces that it will be an open meeting and flower lovers in the Fifth District will be invited to attend. The exact date will be announced later. Also Mrs. Fort will teach Flower Arranging in Flower Show School No. V, which also will be held in Monroe in October. In School V the lectures will feature Period Arrangements, tables, corsages. In the Horticulture school there will be lectures on Landscape Design and standards of judging roses, peony, dahlias and chrysanthemums.

In connection with Flower Show Schools I want to remind you students about the books on the reading list. We have them all in our Garden Center library. Those summer hyacinths (galtonias) I mentioned earlier are about to bloom. Hope to have one in the Center next week.

SOUTHERN GARDENER—

By William Lanier Hunt

Green Foliage For Ground Cover

The different kinds of spider-lilies, the miniature amaryllis and the yellow sternbergias all have evergreen foliage which makes a beautiful ground cover in winter. You can plant these bulbs in hundreds and thousands under your trees. Of course, the soil must be fairly rich under the trees, and you will have to fertilize heavily with bone meal and then top dress the area once a year with bone meal to keep them going. A top dressing with complete chemical fertilizer just before the leaves come out in September will feed the trees and the bulbs, too.

Of course, you cannot keep any of the above bulbs going underneath evergreen trees like hollies and magnolias or under such thick topped conifers as hemlocks. The foliage of the bulbs must have winter sun to develop it. Under non-evergreen trees, the leaves of the bulbs can develop adequately before they are shaded out in spring.

Sternbergias can be planted in patches of about one hundred with two to four inches between the bulbs. Of course, just single ones and a few together are beautiful because their color, a sort of light golden yellow, is very pleasing. They will bloom almost in the dust during the hot September days. In fact, if you forget to plant them, they will stick their flowers through the sack they are in and bloom anyway.

We now know that sternbergias are tested, tried and true tough little bulbs that succeed if you keep them fed. They can remain for years and years in the same spot in good soil without being touched. Like spider-lilies, they grow right under the surface not more than an inch or so.

The miniature amaryllis, not so well known as spider-lilies and sterbergias, send up their dainty red flowers in late August —sometimes earlier — and on into the fall. These little amaryllises are but one species among several wild ones in Chile. We hope that we shall soon have more of the different species from down there because they like Southern gardens up here. Even yellow ones and striped red and yellows grow in Chile.

Besides the top dressings with bone meal and complete fertilizer you can give your bulbs under trees an occasional top dressing of rich soil by just scattering it over the surface a half inch deep. A mulch of leaves or pine needles should be kept over the bulbs, too. Nature would not leave the soil bare. Under such care, your trees will thrive and your bulbs will grow and flower bountifully.

CAMERA NEWS

I dreamed last night of a wonderful photo vacation. I saw the exciting, historic sights of Europe and interesting people in colorful costumes and old - world occupations.

Peculiar thing, though, in my dream my head was a camera and every time I blinked my eye, a picture clicked at the back of my head. I seemed to be part of a small group of similar camera-craniums and everywhere we turned there were constant eye-blinkings and clickings.

Hoevering over us, like a mother hen with a brood of chicks, was another camera - head. It wasn't larger or older but seemed wiser and more experienced. This one guided us to the best scenic spots and clucked approvingly while we clicked.

Pretty soon we were all trailing streamers of pictures from the backs of our heads and when we weren't seeing sights we'd stop to examine and discuss the pictures.

Then I reached for my own picture - pigtail. I must have tugged too hard. The back of my head flew open and out tumbled a roll of mental pictures which turned black when it hit the light.

Everything turned black — and suddenly I was awake, staring into the night!

I know what did it — something I ate.

It was the smorgasbord I had with Homer Page earlier in the evening. Yep, mix a foreign dish with talk of Homer's upcoming schedule and you're bound to get delightful deliriums.

But where are my manners? I forgot a proper introduction.

You all know who you are— and this is Homer Page. (Pssst— lean a little closer and I'll tell you privately about Homer. He's a youngish 38 — studied photography on a Guggenheim fellowship— favors the documentary type of photos — had an exhibit of his pictures at the Museum of Modern Art in New York — was an assistant to Edward Steichen, the Museum's director of photography — and lately traveled from Alaska to the Congo on magazine and industrial photo assignments.)

Right now, Homer's all keyed up with the possible fulfillment of an idea he's been mulling over for years. That is to lead an intimate group of amateur camera fans on a picture taking tour of Europe over territory he has already covered and knows. Like a real teacher, he wants to share and spread his knowledge in a quiet, helpful, suggestive manner not as a pedagogue or lecturer spouting technical instructions.

Fortunately, after many discouraging interviews, he found a sympathetic official with a tourist agency. He was sympathetic because he was also a camera fan. Together they arranged a six week itinerary to start from New York in late August and which would include Europe's largest photo fair, the Photokina at Cologne, Germany.

JOHN WAYNE and Jeffrey Hunter start their epic quest in "The Searchers," C. V. Whitney Pictures production in VistaVision and Technicolor, set against the backdrop of the spectacular American southwest. Produced by Merian C. Cooper and directed by John Ford for Warner Bros. release, the film will have its initial showing locally today at the Paramount Theater.

Wayne, Ford, Cooper Star In 'The Searchers'

John Wayne, moviedom's top box - office personality, is perhaps the film industry's biggest enigma. A man of many parts, the correlation between his keen mind and powerful body has been hard to figure out.

The big, slow - speaking, but dynamic Wayne, currently starring in the spectacular Technicolor and Vista Vision production, "The Searchers," the C. V. Whitney picture, presented by Warner Bros., is, for instance, one of the finest bridge players in the film industry. He also rates high with the chess men.

He is an exceptionally keen-minded man, belying completely the deliberate thinking type he portrays so convincingly on the screen, and has, in fact, parlayed his business acumen into a great fortune.

Many people, knowing his biography as a college football player who left the University of Southern California at the end of his sophomore year to work as a property man for the movies, are prone to mark him off as just another beefy football hero.

The facts are that Wayne was an excellent student, both at USC and at Glendale High school, and a fine mind, with the aid of great character and determination, has made him one of the best informed men in Hollywood. He is widely read, and has an incisive, probing mind.

He is also a perfectionist. Anything he does, he does as well as he is able and any carelessness or sloppiness on the part of others irks him.

To those who know him, no mystery at all exists as to how he reached the top among the film's money - making stars. Keen brains, ambitiously directed, got him to the top and a well managed career has kept him up there.

Chances are that no top star in the business knows every angle of movie making as well as Wayne. He has been identified with movie making for almost thirty years. He knows every phase of it, having started as a property man at the Fox Studios when, for economic reasons his collegiate career came to an abrupt end in his sophomore year. He has been an actor in a hundred pictures, from top budgeted productions such as "The Searchers," "Stagecoach," "Red River," "The High and the Mighty" "The Quiet Man" and others, to quickie Westerns shot in a week.

He has made many pictures for his mentor and great friend, John Ford, winner of six Academy Awards, who directed him in "The Searchers." He has acted for Howard Hawks, Cecil B. DeMille, William Wellman and other fine directors. And all the time Wayne has continued to learn and know the film business.

His friends predict that shortly Wayne will become a director, as well as a producer, and that he will be an outstanding one. After all, he has had a million dollar apprenticeship.

As said, Wayne is truly a perfectionist. He demonstrates this while on the set, where he always is prompt, always alert for his cue. He knows his lines, and also the dialogue of the other actors. He is ever helping them out with thoughtful suggestions, encouraging them in difficult scenes.

A man's man, Wayne enjoys boating, fishing, hunting, riding, swimming, and is a camera enthusiast. He is happily married to the former Pilar Palette, beautiful Peruvian actress. They live on a four - acre estate in Encino, outside Hollywood.

In "The Searchers" Wayne portrays a hard - bitten Texas, who returns to his home to find his two nieces stolen by raiding Comanche Indians. It is the story of the grim and unrelenting five year search by Wayne and Jeffrey Hunter for the stolen girls that reportedly makes "The Searchers" one of the most exciting Western adventure stories filmed in years.

In Hollywood

By Jimmy Fidler

Vivian Blaine's New Role

HOLLYWOOD! . . . June 24—I watched Vivian Blaine from the sidelines on the set of "Public Pigeon Number One" at RKO, while she went through a very snappy song - and - dance routine with a chorus line. When their choreographer gave them the nod, the girls went off to sit in the sun, and Vivian joined me.

I told her to take it easy, catch her breath — we had plenty of time.

The vivacious blonde flashed a smile and said, "Why, I'm not tired! I'm not even revved up yet!"

Vivian played 'Adelaide' in "Guys and Dolls", both on the Broadway stage and in the movie. She said, "I love 'Adelaide'. We're the best of friends. But we need a vacation from each other. I'm going dramatic. I'm doing it to prove I've got something more on the ball than song-and-dance routines. I've got to prove it to myself as much as anybody else."

The actress unconsciously slowed down in her speech and her face assumed a serious expression as she sought words to describe what may well be the next big turning point in her already impressive theatrical and motion-picture career.

"I'm convinced," she said, "that it takes a lot of living for a human being to really become an adult. Emotions must be experienced before they can be projected by an actress. I've had my share of emotional experiences and I've learned not to be afraid of them. I'm ready for serious roles. I'm not geared to sit around and wait to be discovered. That's why I'm going to Broadway to do "Hatful of Rain". And it's in my contract that when the show goes on tour, I go with it, all the way back here to Hollywood. That's how I plan to show what I can do, to movie directors. Then, I hope, there will be no question about my doing a variety of movie parts instead of just these gay laughing girls in musical comedy."

Miss Blaine is no stranger to Hollywood. Her career started a few years ago, just as most young hopefuls' who are brought here by a talent scout, given a big publicity buildup, a small role — and then, nothing. Or perhaps another, and another and another,—always the same. If they start as singers, singers they remain. Vivian, like all the rest, was profoundly impressed with Hollywood her first time around. It was to be her Big Chance.

"But," she confessed, "I was frightened. I had all sorts of fears. So I listened to everybody, emulated other actresses, took whatever advice was handed to me, never questioned anything and never offered my own opinion. I was afraid to open my mouth, because I thought everybody else knew more about the business than I did. A lot of them did. I was appalled at my own ignorance.

"I felt myself slipping away — from myself! I couldn't think straight.

I realized that I had to find out for myself just what show business was all about, on every level, not just movies. I gathered strength to do something about it. It wasn't easy to walk away from Hollywood, but I simply had to.

"I realized this when it dawned on me one day that I had always tried to live according to the rule: 'to Thine Own Self Be True' — and I wasn't doing it anymore. I made up my mind. The only way I could be true to myself was to get away from everybody else. I left Hollywood, and went on the road. I played everything, from summer-stock to one-night stands, to night-club dates to state Fairs! I learned what made show business tick — and started to tick on my own as well."

One incident at a state fair stands out in Miss Blaine's memory as the turning-point in her self-sufficiency. She was singing on a platform outdoors and suddenly it began to rain. Her audience scuttled away in every direction, but Vivian went right on belting out her number as only she can. And the people stopped in their muddy tracks, turned back to her —and stood in that pouring rain, until she finished. They applauded wildly — and just as suddenly as it had begun — the rain stopped and the sun came out!

"It was like an omen," Vivian recalls. "I realized finally, through that experience, that I had built up enough inner-security to make the big time. I wasn't afraid anymore. I had my own ideas, plenty of self-confidence and my fears had vanished.

STAMPS

The ties between the United States and Ireland have always been strong. This will be further emphasized when the U. S. Battle Monuments Commission presents to Ireland a statue of Commodore John Barry, Irish - American naval officer of the Revolutionary war. The statue will be unveiled in September at Wexford, Barry's birthplace.

To honor this event, the Eire postal officials will issue a special stamp in two denominations — three pence and one shilling three pence.

A later announcement will be made regarding the design, date of issuance and the servicing of first day covers.

The Free Chinese government on Formosa has issued a set of three new stamps commemorating the 75th anniversary of the founding of the Chinese railroads. The 800 green, 400 and 200 blue show the first type of locomotives used there and the latest.

A special 5 centavos brown and red stamp honoring the Red Cross has been issued by Colombia. De-

To commemorate the 100th anniversary of the birth of Dr. Honorato Vasquez, Ecuador issued four new stamps, reports the New York Stamp Co. The 1 s green stamps depicts a portrait of Vasquez in 1853, 1.30 s red a portrait of 1905, 1.70 s blue a portrait of 1910 and 1.90 s blue his portrait in 1951.

From Iran comes word of three new stamps to honor the 700th anniversary of the death of the Persian scientist Toussi. The 1 rial orange illustrates Toussi's tomb at Maragheh. The 2.50 s blue shows his astrolabe (instrument for taking the altitude of the sun or stars). The 5 r brown and purple depicts his portrait.

A new definitive set of 12 stamps has been issued by Swaziland, that little British protectorate in the southeastern part of the Transvaal in South Africa. Each stamp is bi-colored and bears a portrait of Queen Elizabeth plus a pictorial scene of the country.

Some of the sites depicted are an asbestos mine, Swadi men and women, Swazi warriors and a Highveld view.

Stamp notes . . . The latest in the countries honoring the 2500th anniversary of Buddha are Ceylon, Burma and Laos. The Laos set contains five stamps and the Burmese set has four . . . A 75 yen purple, yellow and gray stamp has been issued by Japan. It depicts a Japanese butterfly . . . Italy has issued a 25 lire green stamp for the 50th anniversary of the Simplon railroad tunnel . . . Indonesia issued two new stamps in tribute to the Asia Africa Conference. One design shows a hand holding a torch, a map and a book. The other design depicts a globe, doves of peace and people.

Hard Of Hearing Helped By Patented Invention!

U. S. Patent No. 2,611,829 has made possible an eyeglass hearing aid that requires no wire, no tube, no receiver or earmold, no device that "plugs in" either ear. Developed by Acousticon, oldest and leading manufacturer of electrical hearing aids, the invention makes possible more comfortable, inconspicuous correction for thousands who have hearing difficulties.

This exclusive invention is built right into the Spectacon eyeglass hearing aid. The eyeglass frames are made by a leading optical company and are available in any size. They make no sacrifice of optical standards.

You may see for yourself how this remarkable hearing development works—how it is as easy to put on or take off as any pair of glasses. Demonstration is free—see and hear for yourself, without obligation.

LIAM O'FLAHERTY

BOOKS

The stories of Liam O'Flaherty. Introducing by Vivian Mercier. Devin-Adair.

More than 400 generous pages containing 42 stories, most of them from previous O'Flaherty collections but a few never before in a book, make up this welcome volume from the author of memorable novels like "Famine" and "The Informer."

The characters are man, woman and child, the beasts in the barnyard and in the wild, the bird and fish, Life and Death, and Nature. The glamor of a tramp's hazardous existence is matched against the security enjoyed in an old folks' home; a tinker battles an intruder who courts one of his two wives; a man clouts his mare savagely for love of a girl. A cow follows her calf to death, a water hen mates, and so does a swan, a cat misses a blackbird by less than an inch of feathers, a conger eel outwriggles two angry men in a curragh.

These are stories of a primitive land where life, an infant, treads close after death, a shriveled old man. For all the art in the author, there is little or none in the dour existence of these people, who have no margin at all of safety, for whom a single cow separates living from starving, for whom the extra catch of fish is worth the deadly danger of swiftly gathering storms. Even where fortune smiles on a quick-witted fellow, the envy of his mates is savage and hateful.

The collection opens with a half dozen slight, indifferent pieces, the only ones in the entire book. The rest are marvels of insight and artistry, whether they evoke a tenuous mood or mount to a thrilling climax.

Gone With The Wind's 20th Anniversary

Margaret Mitchell's "Gone With the Wind," published on June 30, 1936 by Macmillan, is still one of the most widely read books in the world. Total sales in all languages are now about 8,000,000 copies; in Engish alone printings have run to about 5,000,000. The number of readers of each library (and borrowed - from -a -friend) copy is beyond estimate. It has been printed in Braille and recorded on Talking Book records for the blind. The moving picture, since its gala opening in Atlanta in 1939, has been on circuit throughout the United States five times, has been shown in nearly every country, and has won thirteen awards.

As the world knows, Margaret Mitchell died in Atlanta on August 16, 1949, from injuries sustained in a tragic accident.

Pensacola's annual salt water fishing rodeo will begin July 4 for a six-week period with prizes totaling $10,000 in value, Roland Wolfe, of the Pensacola Sports association, announced this week.

Prizes will be awarded in seven major and 14 minor categories of fish, Wolfe said. Capital prizes will be awarded for the largest fish of each type caught during the entire six-week period, but as an added attraction for summer visitors, prizes also will be awarded for each two-week period.

The seven types of fish regarded as "major" are pompano, Spanish mackerel, red snapper, grouper, ling, king mackerel and speckled tourt. The "minor" fish are skipjack, bonita, dolphin, crevalle, hardtails, tarpon, redfish, flounder, warsaw, bluefish, white tourt, whiting, amberjack and sheepshead.

While some of the fish listed for prizes can ordinarily be taken only from deep-sea charter or private boats, Wolfe pointed out that many can be caught from wharves, piers, jetties or even from the beach, while still others can be caught from skiffs with outboard motors.

In the principal rodeo, all fish entered must be taken on a line, but there is a separate division with separate prizes for skin divers. However, Wolfe said that commercial fishermen are barred from the rodeo and rules have been drawn to enable the judges, whose decision will be final in all cases, to determine eligibility of catches.

Last year, according to Wolfe, about 3,000 persons participated in the rodeo at Pensacola. Of these, about half were summer visitors.

Entry blanks may be obtained by writing the Anglers and Hunters Club of Pensacola, P. O. Box 401.

The Adventures of Robin Hood tomorrow will present "Queen Eleanor", starring Richard Greene with Jill Esmond as the queen. Eleanor of Aquitaine, mother of Richard the Lion Heart, tours England to raise the ransom for her captive son. While the Sheriff of Nottingham plots to capture the ransom money, Robin Hood conceives a brilliant counter-scheme.

Garry Moore presents "Of All Things" starring Faye Emerson as a summer replacement for the "Garry Moore Show" which vacations from July 23 through August 31.

Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz will head a long list of the "giants" of show business in paying tribute to "The Ed Sullivan Show" on its eighth anniversary, Sunday, June 24.

"Topper" is certainly getting a workout on TV. After being run and re-run on two other netwerks, the series now is going through the NBC mill, Sundays at 5 p.m. It will be on the network for 17 weeks, which means it is a summer replacement.

The show singer Jaye P. Morgan is doing Wednesdays and Fridays for NBC as summer replacement for Eddie Fisher is really a family affair. The star is backed by Charlie, Bod, Dick and Duke Morgan, who are really her brothers.

Lawrence Welk has received the honorary degree of Doctor of Fine Arts from the University of Portland (Ore.).

Record Review

Popular Records

Epic Records got such an excellent response to its "Here Come the Girls" series that it decided to follow through with a similar selection by male stars of now and then.

The result is a formidable LP called "Great Moments in Show Business." It leads off with Walter Houston's nostalgic "September Song" and ends 10 numbers later with Eddie (Rochester) Anderson singing "Waintin' for Me."

In between are real collector's items, such as "I Know Darn Well I can Do Without Broadway" sung by Jimmie Durante, Will Clayton and Eddie Jackson back in 1929 and "Rock-a-Bye Your Baby With a Dixie Melody" by Al Jolson recorded in 1932. Also included are songs by Gene Raymond, the Dick Powell of the early musicials, and Cliff Edwards.

Harry Belafonte long ago made a name for himself as a calypso singer, but for the first time RCA Victor has made an entire album of Caribbean numbers by this fine Negro artist. It's labeled "Calypso" and features Belafonte on 11 sides.

If you've never heard of Claire Austin, you'll want to hear her many times after listening to her songs on "When Your Lover Has Gone," a Contemporary release which gives her solid backing by Bob Scobey on the trumpet, Barney Kessel on the guitar, Stan Wrightsman on the piano, Morty Corb on the bass and Shelly Manne on the drums.

Best Bargain: Columbia has waxed 12 numbers by a dozen different artists on a low-priced LP, "Having Wonderful Time," which was issued to familiarize record collectors with the Columbia showcase. But it's a top collection that includes Errol Garner's "Summer Time" and Frankie Laine's "That Old Feeling," as well as numbers by Sammy Kaye, Frank Sinatra etc.

Other recommended LP's: "Pearl Bailey," 12 impressions by a notabe stylist, among them "Takes Two to Tango" and "Runnin' Wild" (Epic) . . . "Wide, Wide World," being the theme music and incidental compositions heard on Dave Garroway's TV spectacular (RCA- Victor) . . . "Swing Low in Hi Fi," a collection of spirituals arranged for orchestra and conducted by Percy Faith (Columbia).

Best revivals: "Oh Monah" by Ted Weems and his Orchestra (Bally), "They Can't Take That Away from Me" by Peggy Lee (Decca).

'Toy Tiger' Same Appeal As 'Major Benson' Hit

It may be difficult to imagine a picture about little boys more charming and heartwarming —and funnier — than Universal- International's "The Private War of Major Benson," but the same studio has come up with a more than worthy successor in its new Technicolor comedy, "Toy Tiger," which opened today at the Jim Theatre with Jeff Chandler, Laraine Day and little Tim Hovey in its starring roles.

The new film, which reunites the "Major Benson" director, Jerry Hopper, and young master Hovey, is the story of a fatherless youngster who wants a male parent so badly that he invents one —and then has to produce him for the benefit of some skeptics at his school.

Of course it's little Tim who plays the fatherless boy and he gives a performance that confirms the judgment of the many critics who hailed him last year as the best child actor to come along in at least a decade. Again he plays masterfully upon the emotions of the audience, evoking gales of laughter one moment and then wells of tears the next.

Jeff Chandler, playing his first comedy role in motion pictures, is a happy selection for the role of the random-chosen father. Not only does he exhibit an expert flair for comedy but he is tremendously effective in the more sentimental moments of the film. There is a warmth and tenderness in his acting which makes it altogether believable to the audience when he accepts the fatherhood that Tim thrusts upon him.

Laraine Day couldn't have picked a better role for her return to the screen after an absence of several years than that of Tim's mother. As a big wheel in an advertising agency, she is, on the surface, a hard and brittle career woman. This gives Miss Day a wonderful opportunity —and she makes the most of it — to contrast this surface personality with that of the tender-hearted mother she portrays when she isn't at the office.

Produced by Howard Christie from a screenplay by Ted Sherdeman, "Toy Tiger" benefits immensely from the same sympathetic direction that Jerry Hopper gave to "The Private War of Major Benson."

The bidding:

South, Pass; West, Pass; North, 1 club; East, 1 heart.

South, 1 spade; West, 2 hearts; North, 3 clubs; East, Pass.

South, 3 spades; West, Pass; North, 4 spades; East Pass.

South, Pass; West, Pass.

Opening lead: Two of hearts.

There are few fields in which patience is so well rewarded as it is at the card table. I have little sympathy for a declarer who, half way thru the hand, tosses in his cards and concedes defeat with some such attendant remark as "I can't eat the two diamonds." He may well eat his words.

Even hopeless hands should be played out by declarer in the vague hope that the opponents may commit an indiscretion. Similarly on the defense, when there is no conceivable way to defeat a contract, if you keep plugging away, a declarer will occasionally defeat himself. Working on that theory, East and West in today's hand defeated contract that was absolutely ironclad.

Against the very logical contract of four spades West opened the two of hearts. East won with the queen. It was quite apparent to East that the contract was "in the bag," but there was no harm in trying. It was clear that declarer did not have very many entries back to his own hand, and to make them fewer East returned the king of hearts, compelling dummy to ruff.

This gave declarer the impression that East held the king of spades and was trying to prevent its being picked up on repeated finesses. Declarer thereupon led the ten of spades and let it ride. West was in no hurry to win the trick and promptly played the five. Things were going along smoothly for declarer, who at this point announced to his partner, "We have been robbed." His statement was premature; it would have been more appropriate a few tricks hence. The spade finesse was repeated, and this time West took the trick and shifted to a diamond.

It didn't matter now what declarer did. His goose was cooked. If he finessed, East would win with the king and cash the high heart. If he went up with the ace and tried to discard his losing heart on the third club, West would make his small trump good with the king of diamonds still to be cashed.

News From The Public Library

Most of you are probably aware that the people of Ouachita Parish will be given an opportunity on August 14 to vote yes in a bond and tax election which will give to the people of the Parish new library buildings and increased support for the Parish Library. There are many ways in which you will benefit from this increase support of the library. One of them is that we will be able to buy many more books than we now purchase. Not only will we be able to purchase more titles, but what is important to most readers is that we will be able to purchase more copies of individual titles. This will benefit each one of you because you will not have to wait so long to get a popular book to read. Where we are now purchasing four copies of a book, we will be able to purchase as many more as the demand warrants. Many people hate to wait for a book, but we have not been able to purchase as many titles in the past as we knew we needed. I am sure that this fact alone will sell many of you on the bond and tax election.

Summer is not the busiest time in the publishing world. However, we have received some interesting titles in the past week. Susan Ertz, a writer of experience and ability has a new book called "Charmed Circle". It is the story of the Prentiss family, wealthy, cultured and much-traveled who ignored everthing that happened outside the charmed circle of their family life. How the young people broke out of this charmed circle to make a life of their own is a very interesting story. It is set against the glittering backgrounds of London, Paris and New York during the first four decades of the Twentieth century.

"The Captive Rider" by Anne Miller Downes is another of her delightful stories with the quiet reflective approach. It is the story of little people in a small town, of their loves and quarrels and of the selfless devotion of one outstanding woman. This is a pleasant book for summer reading and one that you will enjoy.

Margaret Truman has become very popular with the American people since she conducted her wedding with lovely dignity. There will be many who will want to read her autobiography "Souvenir" which is a lovely story of a lovely girl.

"Ten Years of Holiday" is an anniversary collection of 40 remarkable pieces that have appeared in the magazine during the past ten years. This is a book which the dveotees of the magazine will enjoy and it is also a gold mine of travel information.

Billy Graham, the popular evangelist is also a writer of ability. His latest book is called "The 7 Deadly Sins" and there is a reading public eagerly waiting for it. We purchased a copy for each branch, so be sure to ask for a copy if you are interested.

A delightful biography is "Eve Among the Puritans" by Eleanor Ellis Perkins. This is the biography of Lucy Fitch Perkins, who a generation ago wrote the charming twin books for American children. Everyone who loved her books will want to read this story.

We are happy that many parents who visit one of the branches of the library to bring their children are also borrowing a number of books for their own reading. This is fine for all of the family. If you have not yet enrolled your child in the vacation reading club, do so at the first opportunity.

LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D. Sc.

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

1. IS INSTALLMENT BUYING AN UNMIXED BLESSING? YOUR OPINION _____ 6-23

Answer To Question No. 1

1. All businessmen and economists agree it is a great blessing. But, hosts of people today are like Artemus Ward said, "Bound to live within their means if they have to borrow money to do it." They don't even realize they are living 6 per cent — and with some companies, 16 per cent — beyond their means. They lack the self-restraint to resist "nothing down, and months to pay." Installment buying is vital to prosperity, but it is also a fine test of individual judgment and

Are men more eager than women to "show off" 'their ability in cooking?

Yes _____ No _____

2. Yes, far more. I know one man who takes every possible occasion to boast of his ability to soft-boil an egg — something many chefs do not know how to do. Another man who can make a salad dressing, gets up parties to show off this ability. Getting up parties with the guests doing the cooking, will show you the men competing as though their lives depended on it, to prove their ability to make a sauce, broil a steak, or make a fancy dessert that no one else could match. Not one in a hundred could get up a meal as mother did — as a matter of course.

Can you learn to remember names?

3. Yes. Bruno Furst gives six rules for remembering names: 1. Get the name clearly. 2. Repeat it immediately after introduction. 3. See if the name has a meaning in itself. 4. If it has no meaning, find a substitute. 5. Repeat the name several times. 6. Write it down. If you don't get the name clearly and accurately, you cannot even speak of remembering or forgetting. You can neither remember nor forget something you never know. Our booklet, "How To Improve Your Memory," helps you remember not only names, but stories addresses, everything. Nonprofit, 15 cents (coin only) and stamped, self addressed envelope.
